Is pseudorabies going 'underground' in Pa.?

Are farmers trying to hide the disease?

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

HARRISBURG — Pseudorabies could be going underground in Pennsylvania, pork producers told a meeting called by State Department of Agriculture officials on Wednesday.

"I hear comments and it's a scary situation about producers going underground to avoid possible financial losses as long as possible," John Henkel, of the Pa. Pork Producers Council, said.

Three possible underground activities involving swine marketing to avoid pseudorabies detection through slaughter house blood test surveillance of sows and boars were cited by some producers:

–First, hogs might be bounced from auction to auction to lose their identity and confuse traceback in the event they are found to have the disease when slaughtered.

–Second, sows being held from normal marketing channels might be taken to small butchers and made into pork roll for the farmer to market.

–And finally, sows and boars that would be normally rotated out of herds to market are just being held on the farms if the operator suspects his herd is infected with PRV.

These underground attempts to avoid PRV detection, according to some producers, are helping to keep the number of quarantined herds are known to the Bureau of Animal Industry lower than the number that really exists.

"It's cheaper to take a sow or two out and shoot and bury them than take the chance of being found, quarantined and forced to depopulate," one producer has pointed out to Lancaster Farming.

Henkel, as representative of the Pork Producers Council at Wednesday's meeting, said that the underground activities could get out of hand and just help to spread the disease.

Possible underground activities to avoid PRV detection was just one phase of a complicated session called Wednesday by the Bureau of Animal Industry to take a look at its current program that includes mandatory depopulation without indemnification and how the livestock industry wants to proceed with the PRV effort.

Approximately half of those organizations invited to Wednesday's session did not send representatives, including such groups as the Cooperative Swine Breeders, Pa. Dairy Assn., Pa. Cattlemen's Assn., Sheep and Wool Growers, Livestock Auctioneers Association and others.

While pseudorabies has primarily affected the swine in-

Pennsylvania's premier livestock event, the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, is now history. For coverage of many of the KILE events that took place between Nov. 2, and Nov. 7, check sections A, B, and D of this issue.

News from KILE scattered throughout issue

HARRISBURG — For the 28th year, Harrisburg's Farm Show complex opened its doors to the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, welcoming some of North America's best quality livestock from throughout the Northeast and Midwest.

From last Friday's sheep judging, to Wednesday's Draft Horse Show, the complex was a beehive of activity as exhibitors washed, clipped, brushed and generally doted over the 3,150 head of cattle, sheep and swine entered in this year's show.

But the Keystone must not be construed as simply an outsized barnyard beauty contest. In order to justify its existence, KILE must be a yardstick for the industry. A yearly catalog of the most desirable livestock specimens, and a sensitive barometer to subtle changes in consumer demand throughout the country.

And under the watchful eye of its parent organization, the Pa. Livestock Association, KILE's 28-year record of success and growth is a graphic example of the show's ability to do just that.

The Keystone's growth has been reflected not only in the total number of entries, but also in the diversity of competitive events. Horse fanciers found the all-new Draft Horse Show and Invitational 4-H Horse Show Roundup to be welcomed additions to the 1984 schedule. And, for the first time, swine producers were treated to the Berkshire Fall Classic.

In recognition of the importance of young people to the future of the livestock industry, many youth-oriented events were scheduled, including junior and intercollegiate livestock judging contests, a junior sheep shearing contest and junior show divisions for beef, sheep and swine. Junior events were scheduled for Sunday

Women in ag

Alma Wenger of R6 Manheim is all set to celebrate Women in Agriculture Week, Nov. 11 to 17, as she takes her place on the tractor. Alma often prepares the fields for planting and helps out at harvest time too. Look in this week's B section photo feature saluting farm women and stories featuring women who work in agriculture.

Commonwealth dairy youth in spotlight at Louisville

LOUISVILLE — While KILE captures the attention of local livestock breeders, not to be overlooked are the Pennsylvania dairy exhibitors who were making names for themselves this week during the North American Internationial Livestock Exposition in Louisville.

Topping the dairy news from NAILE is the crowning of Carol Dreisbach, Hamburg, as the National Jersey Jug Queen. Making Jersey breed history, Carol succeeded her sister Patty, who served as last year's Jersey queen.

In other NAILE highlights, the Pennsylvania delegation had a fine showing at the All American Jersey Junior Show, with 7 of the 14 head entered from Pennsylvania placing in the top 10 of their class. Pa. juniors also captured the production award and the high pedigree index contest. The Pa. herd placed sixth out of 17 in the state herd competition.

Farm, Power Equipment dealers gather for annual convention

MT. POCONO – Equipment dealers from throughout the Commonwealth are gathering at Mount Airy Lodge at Mt. Pocono for the 71st annual convention of the Pa. Farm and Power Equipment Association.

Major sessions of the convention are scheduled to open tomorrow (Sunday) and continue through Tuesday.

A Sunday afternoon panel discussion from 3 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. will discuss "Why, When and How To Advertise." Participants include representatives of Lancaster Farming, Pennsylvania Farmer, Farmshine, Farmer's Friend and Sperry New Holland.

Seminars are scheduled Monday afternoon under the direction of Walter Buescher and Grover Gouker, who is also the dinner speaker.

The Annual Awards Banquet will be the final convention event on Tuesday evening.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, November 8
Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices were unchanged to higher. Cartoned egg orders were fair to good and generally noted as improved compared to last week. Floor stocks were adequate to fully adequate with some dealers tending to let inventories build rather than sell any accumulated product. Lighter weight class 1's were available while the heavier weights were tight and conveniently held. Graded loose large were fully adequate and rather easy to find if needed. Mediums, both graded and ungraded, were in excess of current needs and most local producer-packers have surplus stocks to sell. Extra large were irregular. Some dealers were still being offered additional product, but the bulk of dealers found supplies no more than adequate and were willing to take on additional stocks.

Prices to retailers: sales to volume buyers, consumer grades white eggs in cartons delivered store door:

A Extra Large .64-.70; A Large .63-.69; A Medium .52-.55.

New York Multiple Drop Broiler Report

Thursday, November 8
Report supplied by USDA

Current broiler-fryer negotiated prices for immediate delivery includes mostly multiple drop shipments to New York City from Delmarva.

Range: U.S. Grade A .52-.58.

Weighted AVG.: U.S. Grade A .55-.66.

Premium (X) Boxes 10,195.

(X) Includes special services, selected competitive brands, etc.

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, November 8
Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Movement on ready to cook whole birds remained fairly good but not as aggressive as early in the week. Current product was clearing, but carryovers were noted in a few quarters. Breast items continue to enjoy a fairly strong call while dark meat items were ample and difficult to clear. The overall slaughter was moderately heavy. Live supplies were adequate. Weights were very irregular, but overall weights were trending slightly lighter at most plants. Undertone was steady.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices are unchanged on U.S. Grade A at .52-.58 cents.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Estimated 11/8 1,953,000; Actual 11/1 1,963,000; Actual 11/6 1,917,000; Average Weights 11/6 4.23; Average Weights 10/30 4.26.

OMAHA WEEKLY

Thursday, November 8
Report Supplied by USDA

Slaughter steer and heifer prices advanced 1.00-1.50 over last week's levels under good buyer demand. Dressed beef price advances, good buyer demand and a reduction in slaughter were dominant factors for price advances. Slaughter cows under pressure all week but some recovery noted late and trends were only 50-1.00 lower than last week's levels. Slaughter bulls remained near steady.

Estimated 5 day receipts this week 7,700; actual receipts last week 9,883 and 12,245 last year. Steers comprised 45 percent of the week's receipts; heifers 31 percent, cows 8 percent and feeders 14 percent.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: Closing sales scattered loads and lots choice 2-4 1050-1300 lbs. 63.75-65.00, load 1250 lbs. 65.50, couple loads including some prime 1150-1275 lbs. 65.25. Few mixed good and choice 2-3 1050-1150 lbs. 62.00-63.50. Part load mixed good and choice 2-3 holsteins near 1250 lbs. 55.65.

SLAUGHTER HEIFERS: Closing sales, load choice 2-3, few 4's near 1050 lbs. 63.75, choice 2-4 950-1050 lbs. 61.50-62.00. Few mixed good and choice 2-3 900-1050 lbs. 60.50-61.00.

Average of LS 214 quotations for choice 900-1100 lb. steers this week 62.75, 1100-1300 lbs. 64.25. THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

NOV. 12-18, 1984

Rain ends — colder weather descends.

Cut back hardy chrysanthemums when they've finished flowering Princess Anne of Britain married Mark Phillips, Nov 14, 1973 Average length of days for the week, 9 hours, 48 minutes Last quarter of the moon Nov 16 (Fri) Blizzard ravaged the Northeast and Midwest, leaving 144 dead and $6 million in damage, Nov 11-12, 1940 Chester A Arthur died Nov 18, 1889 Boston Museum of Fine Arts opened Nov 15, 1909 A different world cannot be built by indifferent people

Ask the Old Farmer: What do you do for spots that develop on brassware? All our brassware is pretty old and seems to be developing "old-age brown spots" We use Brasso polish, but surely that isn't the cause Are they water spots? A M, Huntington, Penn

Mix the juice of one lemon and one teaspoon of salt, and apply with fine steel wool, rinse thoroughly This should polish the brass and not leave spots

Home Hint: To slice fresh bread or cake heat the knife in hot water and dry it quickly before cutting

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Through midweek light rain, snow in mountains, end of week brings cold snap

Greater New York-New Jersey: Rain, with cold temperatures at beginning of week, midweek cold snap, hard frost, sunny and mild by end of week

Middle Atlantic Coastal Cloudy and cold, with sprinkles through midweek, end of week clear and warm

Sacrificial lambs & sharpened knives

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

I've spent a good bit of my working life in big business and industry, including farm equipment manufacturing. The two main things that really drove me up the wall were the large number of meetings that are held and the constant attempts to spread around responsibility (and consequently the blame if necessary) by those who hold high positions.

Government is a lot like big business and industry. It, too, holds meetings just to plan more meetings. And, the higher the job the greater the attempts to spread around responsibility.

A pseudorabies meeting was held at Harrisburg this week by the PDA. After some two hours, the only firm decision was to defer making any real decision until another meeting is held this coming Wednesday.

I believe one too many meetings are being held. There's no need for the upcoming session on this coming Wednesday. It's time for someone who is paid to make decisions to get off the dime and exercise his personal responsibility.

The Bureau of Animal Industry has been requested to rescind its forced depopulation policy by the Pa. Pork Producers Council and adopt a more moderate program of quarantine but continued operation.

The Bureau says no decision on the request will be made until it has a concensus of opinion from the entire livestock industry in the state. If the entire livestock industry wanted to have a say, why weren't its representatives at the meeting this past Wednesday.

Many representatives could find enough time to come to KILE earlier in the week. But they couldn't find enough time on Wednesday to come to the meeting in the PDA offices across the street from the Farm Show Complex.

Where were the Cooperative Swine Breeders? There were plenty at the breeding hog shows on Tuesday

Where was the Cattlemen's Association? Plenty of cattle breeders were at KILE.

Where were the Sheep and Wool Growers. You spent the whole weekend at KILE.

Where was the Livestock Auctioneer's Association?

Where was the Pa. Dairy Association? (They already got their help from the state.)

Where were the representatives of packing plants that are docking producers who are being forced to market light or heavy hogs through depopulation? (This doesn't include Hatfield, which did send a representative, and has been treating its producers fairly who have been hit by PRV.)

If these groups weren't interested enough to come last Wednesday, there's no reason to include them in any further consideration.

The decision on pseudorabies should be made primarily between the Bureau of Animal Industry and the Pork Producers. The more groups you include the less chance that any decision is going to be made promptly.

Let's make that decision and make it now, remembering when you make a decision affecting someone else, you must be willing to share in the responsibility for the consequences that you inflict upon them.

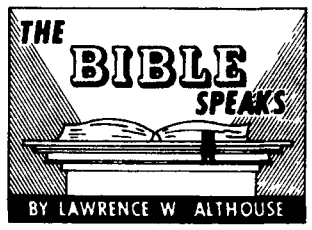
Lancaster County agriculture is rapidly assuming a "sacrificial lamb syndrome."

How many times have I heard the words of praise for the sacrifice of Lancaster County during the Avian influenza. The rest of the poultry industry said "thank you" by expanding beyond belief, trying to capitalize on those temporary egg price increases which the whole industry will now pay for during months to come.

And I'm sure there will be attempts to profit off the misfortune of area hog producers.

What next? Maybe the rest of the dairy industry is already standing in line to see what can be done after the extent of Johne's is known.

It's bad enough that sacrificial lambs are still being offered in agriculture, but when everyone else is right there to make sure the knives stay sharp, that's a little much to swallow in this compassionate, caring society in which we live.



"EARTH THROWN IN"
November 11, 1984

Background Scripture:
1 Thessalonians 1 through 4
Devotional Reading:
1 Thessalonians 2:1-8.

When you die, that's it – you're dead!"

These were the words, not of an atheist or agnostic, but of a Christian clergyman. I was teaching an adult church school class on the subject of life after death and he had slipped into the back of the classroom to listen. When the class was over, I knew that the subject had troubled him. He wasn't belligerent; he simply could not share my hope in another life beyond this one.

His response was not all that surprising to me. I frequently encounter reactions like this from my people, mostly clergy. They feel impelled to declare that life on this earth is enough to support the Christian faith. Perhaps it is, but not for me.

PIE-IN-THE-SKY

Why is it that belief in a life after death is so troubling to many people? One reason may be that many people become too discouraged and disillusioned in their daily lives to believe that there is more to life than what we have experienced. Because they are afraid to let themselves hope, they cannot permit themselves to believe.

Having experienced that everything in life does not "come out all right in the end," they tend to regard a belief in life after death as some kind of wishful "pie-in-the-sky" thinking. "I will concentrate upon life here on earth," said the clergyman, "and leave to you the question of what happens thereafter."

Somehow, these people reason that it's more practical and more realistic to focus upon this world, as if they had to choose between life here and now and life there and then.

C.S. Lewis once wrote. If you read history you will find that the Christians who did most for the present world were just those who thought more of the next. The Apostles themselves, who set on foot the conversion of the Roman Empire.. all left their mark on earth, precisely because their minds were occupied with Heaven...Aim at Heaven and you will get earth "thrown in;" aim at earth and you will get neither.

The power to live faithfully here in this life comes from our hope of a life beyond this world.

STEADFAST HOPE

When Paul writes the church at Thessalonia, he commends these people for their "work of faith and labor of love." These are possible only because of their "steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ." Later, in 4:13, Paul spells it out. "But we would not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning those who are asleep, that you may not grieve as others do who have no hope."

Without hope in a life of some kind beyond this world, grief is the consequence – grief for loved ones who have passed on, grief for life on this world. But, if we aim at heaven, we will find earth thrown-in."

To Appreciate Farm City Week

Each farmer is a very important person. While we have fewer farmers than ever before, the growing population demands more food. Never have so many persons been so dependent on so few.

Farm City Week is being observed November 16-22 to bring a better understanding of problems existing between the rural and urban segments of our society. Some people may think that agriculture is a diminishing industry, but this is not true. There are fewer farmers but each farmer is now producing enough food to feed 72 people. In Russia that ratio is one to seven.

Over one-fifth of the state's work force is employed in agriculture related manufacturing, wholesale and retail trades. Even more workers are employed in the industries providing seed, feed, fertilizer and other supplies used in farm production. We urge you to take part in Farm City Week events.

To Exercise Dairy Cows

I know that many of our dairy farmers keep their milking cows confined to the stall barn much of the time. This is easy to do when you are short of labor during the winter months. In order to have a healthy herd, the cows should be allowed outside to exercise daily unless severe weather conditions exists. The exercise will not only keep their feet and legs in better condition, but will permit the cows in heat to be detected; this is often a problem when cows are kept confined too much of the time.

If the herd is turned out for 15 to 30 minutes each day, the time involved will be very worthwhile. You'll find very few days when the weather will interfere.

To Mulch Strawberries

Winter injury has been a problem in strawberries for a number of years. Crown injury can be reduced by applying mulch to protect them for the winter. The best time for application is from mid-November and to mid-December. The exact date depends on weather conditions. But a good rule of thumb is to apply mulch when the temperature begins to stay around 20 to 25 degrees F. If it drops to 15 degrees or lower, unprotected strawberry crowns could be injured. In any case it's a good idea to mulch the plants after they have been exposed to a few good

Nittany Lion Fall Classic Succeeds

BY WENDY WEHR

STATE COLLEGE — There were smiles all around at the conclusion of the Nittany Lion Fall Classic, the consignment Holstein sale held Friday, Nov. 2, and managed by the Penn State Dairy Science Club and the Pa. Holstein Association.

The dairy science students were pleased that their first-ever consignment sale came off without a hitch.

Bill Nichol and the members of the PHA expressed satisfaction with the sale average, which topped $2000.

College of Ag alumni enjoyed the chance for a reunion with their friends in the new Ag Arena.

And, of course, the consigners and buyers relished the merchandising opportunities offered by the Nittany Lion Fall Classic.

Topping the sale were two unborn ET heifers, a March 1985 calf out of Tri-Pond Ivanhoe Aaggie bringing $12,000, and a December Swampy-Hollow Sugar-Twin daughter following at $11,000.

Consigned by Shayne and Thomas Dum III, Landisburg, the Tri-Pond ET is sired by Board Chairman. The 94-2E Aaggie dam has a seven years and seven month 365-day record of 32,360 lbs. milk and 1121 fat lbs. And the maternal granddam's best record topped 30,000 lbs. milk as well.

Purchaser of the top seller was the Nittany Lion Syndicate, Daniel Crull, Camp Hill.

An Elevation daughter, the unborn ET consigned by Donald M. Hostetter, Parkesburg, brought $11,000 from Janelle Holsteins, Skowkegan, Maine. A full sister to the ET, a 2E with excellent mammary and a 26,000 lb. milk record, brought $41,000 at the Swampy Hollow Dispersal.

Third-high of the Classic was Schmelway Brenda Elevation, consigned by Kermit Martin, Quarryville, and taken home by Richard Hartle, Bellefonte, for $3,700.

The 2E-90 Brenda Elevation has a record as a 5-year-old of 27.471 milk, 1216 fat, with a 4.4 percent test.

Penn State president Bryce Jordan kicked off the Nittany Lion Fall Classic by leading the first animal into the sale ring. From right are Sam Smith, dean of the College of Agriculture, president Jordan, Suzy Voight, Obie Snider, consigner, Raymond Anthony, buyer, and Steve Shaw, Bill Zollers, and Scott Hauseman, who took bids from the ring. In the sale box are Charles Backus, Marcia Minor, Lester Hosking, and Horace Backus.

Volume buyers at the Nittany Lion Fall Classic were Earl and Tamie Campbell, center, of Lykens. Along with 6 head of quality Holsteins, the Campbells got two tickets to Saturday's Penn State football game. Marcia Minor and Mark Wolfskill presented the tickets.

Apple Market News

Wednesday, Nov. 7
Report supplied by PDA

Demand today is fair, prices are steady and supplies are good. Most growers are finished picking or expect to finish by the end of the week or sometime next week. A few large growers will continue picking for the next several weeks. The weather has finally changed from Indian Summer to Fall and the market is showing a slight improvement.

Your Apple Marketing Board is conducting a consumer refund this fall. When a customer buys apples in a participating store, and sends us a mailing certificate, supplied to the store by the Board's marketing representative, along with proof-of-purchase, we will send them a beautiful and informative receipt booklet. This offer began October 1 and will continue through December. To date, Kay Swartz Rentzel, has received requests for 2500 booklets.

The export market continues to be rather strong. Each week more reports are received from more growers. Again this week, sales are strong in Brazil, Trinidad, Columbia and England. Denmark was added to the list this past week. Prices for traypack apples on the export market are from $8.00 to $10.00 on a range of all sizes and grades, and the main variety is Red Delicious.

Prices quoted are wholesale, truckload, F.O.B. at the orchard or packing house.

Cornell produces milk movie

ITHACA, N.Y. — With Michael Jackson promoting Pepsi and sexy bellies pushing other competing beverages, milk has stiff competition. Producers in New York State, however, have $10 million of their own money devoted to milk promotion.

To help dairy farmers gain a better understanding of the milk promotion programs they are funding, Cornell University has produced a 16 mm color film, "Milk and Money."

Focusing on the New York Milk Promotion program and how the promotion funds are collected and spent, the film includes numerous interviews with dairy industry leaders, graphics, excerpts from print and broadcast ads and promotion campaigns, and information about milk promotion in New York State. Although New York's program is featured, dairy industry leaders throughout the country may find that the film has direct applications to their regions.

Written by Thomas R. Maloney, a Cornell Cooperative Extension agent in Cortland County, the film is part of his requirements for his Masters of Professional Studies degree in the department of agricultural economics in the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell. Consultants on the project include Olan D. Forker, chairman of the department of agricultural economics, and Robert Boynton, former associate professor of agricultural economics at Cornell.

Other topics covered in the film are: the roles of the New York State Milk Promotion Advisory Board, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Inc., and the United Dairy Industry Association; the California Milk Promotion Program; research on the effectiveness of milk advertising and promotion; and the National Milk Promotion Program.

The film, "Milk and Money," also available on videocassette, may be purchased from the Department of Agricultural Economics, Warren Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY 14853, or rented from the Cornell Audiovisual Center, 8 Research Park, Ithaca, NY 14850.

Beetles resist Malathion

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Red flour beetles in stored grain and grain products are showing increasing resistance to malathion, the most commonly used insecticide for stored grain, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist reports.

But the scientist, entomologist Richard W. Beeman of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, said he had located the specific gene in the beetle that resists malathion.

He said he is locating genes that resist other insecticides so that a strategy can be developed to reduce the impact of insecticide resistance.

The red flour beetle's resistance has intensified in the past 15 years throughout the Midwest and Southeast, he said, while the highest levels have been found in Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

Beeman said new evidence of the resistance came from studies at the research agency's U.S. Grain Marketing Research Laboratory in Manhattan, Kans.

He and Jonathan P. Haliscak, Kansas State University graduate research assistant, found 36 strains of red flour beetle, Triboleum castaneum (Herbst), in grain collected from storage bins in 10 states.

State dairy program seeks federal order participant addresses

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program Advisory Board is seeking addresses of federal order dairy farmers who contribute to the state program in order to send them copies of the Board's newsletters, according to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell, chairman of the program's Advisory Board.

"We feel it is important that dairymen know and understand how their 10 cent check-off is being used to promote Pennsylvania milk and dairy products," Hallowell said. "This newsletter is a forum for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program Advisory Board to inform and educate its financial supporters."

However, Hallowell said that names and addresses of federal order dairymen who have earmarked their 10 cents for the state program are not available from the federal order market administrators. He urged those farmers who wish to receive the bimonthly newsletter to contact the state Department of Agriculture.

More than 2,500 farmers received the newsletter's first mailing in late October. These farmers contribute to the program directly or through non-order dealers who provide the Advisory Board with access to addresses, Hallowell said.

Dairymen who wish to receive the newsletter should call or write the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Markets, 2301 N. Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, telephone (717) 787-4210. The producer should provide full name, address, county and zip code by November 25. The producer does not have to identify either the dealer or cooperative where he ships his milk.

Hallowell said the second issue of the newsletter is scheduled for late November.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program was created under provisions of the National Dairy Promotion Program. Federal legislation passed in 1983 established a mandatory deduction of 15 cents per hundredweight on all milk produced in the continental United States, to promote milk and dairy product sales. Qualifying state programs like Pennsylvania's may receive 10 cents of the assessment for use in local and regional promotion programs.

Sludge caution reported

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Amending agricultural land with muncipal sewage sludge can add nutrients and organic matter to a farmer's soil.

But sewage sludge containing high levels of heavy metals may prove damaging to some crops, especially those that manufacture their own nitrogen.

According to researchers at The University of Maryland, sludges low in heavy metal concentrations are actually beneficial to nitrogen fixing legumes such as soybeans.

But soybeans grown on low pH soils and amended with heavy metal-rich sludge suffered a reduction of nitrogen fixating activity, according to agronomists Joseph R. Heckman and Jay S. Angle.

Their longterm study also shows that soybean tissues accumulated larger amounts of the metals zinc and cadium, say Heckman and Angle.

CODATRON

Individualized computer feeding system

To be successful in dairying today, you know how important it is to be in complete control of your feeding program and to have all the information possible on each and every cow. That's why Westfalia has developed the Codatron Individualized computer feeding system With Codatron, milk production and profits can be maximized while minimizing health problems, thanks to an early warning system And unlike many other units, Codatron is an expandable system that won't become obsolete.

The feeding system is quality built and basically foolproof and automatic You'll have dairy reports of herd conditions and performance Ration adjustments can be made quickly and easily You'll be alerted to problem cows fast

The Codatron is available in two basic models The F-26 with feeding capabilities to 999 cows, up to 26 feeders, double ration capability with dairy consumption reports The Model L offers feeding plus breeding management capabilities

And that's not all Westfalia's Codatron is designed for expansion into parlor data milk functions and home computer interfacing Watch for new breakthroughs to be introduced soon!

Animal embryo import comments sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The public has until Dec. 21 to comment on a U.S. Department of Agriculture proposal to establish import regulations for livestock embryos brought into the United States.

According to Bert W. Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, embryo transplantation is growing in popularity in the livestock industry. It is currently being used on a commercial basis in cattle, horses, swine, sheep, goats and rabbits.

"Technology exists to allow the collection and preservation of embryos for movement to any country in the world. These embryos can then be reimplanted in the wombs of recipient dams, where they are carried till birth. This leaves donor animals free to be reinseminated so they can produce more embryos – thus allowing female animals of superior breeding to produce many more offspring than under normal circumstances.

"Until now," Hawkins said, "our import regulations dealt only with live animals, animal products or semen. Since there were no provisions for embryos, they could not be imported. The new regulations establish specific requirements for importing embryos.

"We want to provide a way for embryos to be imported," Hawkins said. "But at the same time we must establish necessary safeguards against accidental importation of foreign diseases such as foot-and-mouth disease or rinderpest, which do not exist in this country."

The proposal would require importers to obtain a permit from APHIS prior to importation. Embryos would have to be accompanied by a health certificate indicating that both the sire and the donor dam met all U.S. import requirements.

Other requirements include:

–The embryo must be conceived as a result of semen, collected at an approved artificial insemination center, being inseminated in a donor dam at an approved embryo transfer center.

–The embryo must be exported from the country in which is was conceived.

–The embryo must be collected and maintained under conditions preventing contamination with animal disease organisms.

Written comments may be sent until Dec. 21 to Thomas O. Gessel, Director, Regulatory Coordination Staff, APHIA, USDA, Room 728 Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, Md. 20782.

HAVING SOIL PROBLEMS?

Here's A Timely Tip...

Apply lime on frozen ground

Lime can be applied almost anytime, however winter months are ideal, because the ground is firm and the freezing and thawing action helps to disseminate the lime in the soil

Members of the Elizabethtown Area Grange #2076 were found "at the fair" this Tuesday, concreting this building at the Elizabethtown Fairgrounds. As well as donating their labor, the grangers contributed about $2500 to concrete the building. Explained project chairman Kenneth Myer, "We make milkshakes here at the fair every year, and that's how we make a large portion of our money, so we decided to put some money back into the fair." Avian influenza depresses egg prices

UNIVERSITY PARK — Egg consumers needn't worry. The avian influenza that threatened half of Pennsylvania's egg supply last year will do nothing but keep egg prices down for the remainder of this year, a Penn State agricultural economist says.

"As of now, AI (avian influenza) means lower prices for the consumer," egg and poultry marketing specialist Kermit Birth said Monday. "That's because producers outside of Pennsylvania reacted to high prices and increased egg production."

Pennsylvania's avian influenza quarantine, in effect for nearly a year, was lifted Oct. 4. To prevent spreading the contagious disease, 15 million chickens were destroyed, costing the federal government $50 million.

But because it "takes only six months or less to grow pullets to replace hens, and layers can be kept in production for longer periods," Birth says the egg industry "has been able to expand egg production."

"Increasing egg production is easier than decreasing it," he adds.

Birth explains the drop in egg prices this way:

Egg prices were down a year ago, so producers took moves to cut back on egg output. Then the avian influenza hit. Many layers had to be destroyed.

Producers in other areas of the United States then kept layers in production for longer periods. At the same time, producers ordered more pullets for flock replacements. Many of these pullets are now being housed as laying hens.

"There are about 25 percent more pullet chicks being grown in the United States this year than last year," Birth says. "The industry overreacted."

Pullets were used to replace the hens kept in production "longer than they have been in previous years," Birth says.

The result? From February to April last year, 23 percent of the United States' egg-producing chickens had been put through a rest period. Only 18 percent were put in this rest stage for the same period last year.

Birth points out that Pennsylvania egg producers accounted for only 6.5 percent of the nation's supply last year. But Pennsylvania is a major egg supplier for the New York City and Philadelphia markets, he says, and those areas, as well as the rest of the United States, experienced high egg prices during the influenza outbreak.

Although egg producers who lost flocks lost income last year, Birth says the industry is rebounding well.

"The industry can always come back strong," he says. "At least AI gave us a chance to learn more about flock management."

Lancaster Holstein Club holds annual meeting

BY SALLY BAIR

STRASBURG — The Lancaster County Holstein Club met for the annual banguet on Thursday evening at Historic Strasburg. Numerous awards were presented to the Lancaster dairymen and directors were elected for the coming year.

J. Mowery Frey Jr., Willow Street, took home a majority of the county production awards. Awards for high milk and fat were presented for five categories: Jr. 2-year-old, Sr. 2-year-old, 3-year-old, 4-year-old, and Aged cows.

The high milk record for all categories was 31,029 lbs. from MD-Gaywinds Astronaut Flo, owned by J. Mowery Frey Jr. Flo also earned the top fat award for the 4-year-olds with a 1113 lb. record.

Frey picked up the top milk awards in every category. Fultonway Conducter Molly topped the Sr. 2-year-old category with 25,431 lbs. milk, while Fultonway Veration Tonya, the Jr. 2-year-old, produced 26,925 lbs in 305 days. Tonya also earned the fat award in her category with 904 lbs. butterfat.

The 3-year-old winner, Bowmont Elevation Name Coral, milked 26,992 lbs, while Frey's aged cow, Fultonway Superior Ida, topped her category with a 30,792 lb. record.

The top butterfat producer in the aged cow category, Tops-Up Connie Jet Stream, was owned by John H. Howard, Willow Street. She produced 1157 lbs. butterfat, the top fat record of all the categories.

And in the Sr. 2-year-old category, J. Warren Bender's Milmay Elevation Arlinda Heidi had the top fat record with 1037 lbs. in 305 days.

Finally, the top fat award in the 3-year-old category was earned by another Frey cow. Sunny-Craft Miranda Valiant - ET produced 991 lbs. butterfat.

In other awards, Lamar Witmer, chairman of the Conestoga Classic, presented a trophy to Gemstar Holsteins for consigning the top-selling animal, Walabe Jason Fantasy - ET, which sold for $5,000.

In Holstein club elections, Roger Mills, Willow Street, Donald Risser, Bainbridge, and Harold Shellenberger, Mt. Joy, will begin three-year terms as new directors.

County agent Glenn Shirk told the group that "it's time to work smarter, not harder." He said dairymen should make financial commitments with caution, but he said he is optimistic about the future.

Shirk urged dairymen to do forage testing and to pay attention to details.

State director Jay Landis announced that breeder institutes will be scheduled in January and February. He encouraged breeders to consider consignments to the spring sales in Harrisburg.

PHA Director of Sales Steve Wilson also spoke briefly to the group and reminded dairymen that Nov. 15 is the deadline for ads in the Annual.

Chester County DHIA

During the Chester County DHIA banquet on Thursday evening, six dairymen averaging over 750 lbs. butterfat for the year were recognized. Winners included, from left, Alan Mason; Alvin Stoltzfus, of Dunwood Farm; Melvin Stoltzfus of Melwood Farm; and Bobh Pepple. Not pictured were Jonas B. Stoltzfus and Ardrossan Farms. Melwood Farm received the plaque for the top record of 870 lbs.

REAL®

You load 10.7 tons of alfalfa and what have you got?
A darn good yield.

We got it with Saranac AR in an official measured trial—10.7 tons per acre. That's because Saranac AR is Northeast-Bred to stand up to harsh winters and come on early and strong each spring. Bred to produce consistent top yields and long-lived stands.

Anthracnose resistant...Race 1 and 2
What's more, Saranac AR is the only one to plant where anthracnose, Race 1 and 2 is a threat. Saranac AR is resistant to both strains of this crop killer.

Now, Verti-Clean Plus™ Pre-inoculation plus Verticillium wilt protection.
Verti-Clean Plus makes Saranac AR seed-box ready out of the bag. No inoculant to buy. No mixing required. That means real savings in time and money.

The Verti-Clean treatment controls the seed-borne spread of Verticillium wilt spores. Keep Verticillium wilt from shrinking your yields.

Verti-Clean PLUS™
for the control of seed borne verticillium wilt.
This seed is
NOT SUITABLE FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION

When you plant Verti-Clean Plus treated Saranac AR, you're planting the seed for better performance, higher yields, and greater value.

dustry, other groups were invited because infection can be transmitted to other species and cause fatalities.

The sum total of some two hours of discussion on Wednesday was the calling of a second meeting for this coming Wednesday morning to precede an Animal Health Advisory Committee meeting scheduled at PDA at 1 p.m.

Dr. Max Van Buskirk Jr., of the BAI, told the Pork Producers to carry the ball to get the various livestock segments together and arrive at a concensus recommendation on how to proceed.

Repeatedly, at Wednesday's session Henkel and other pork producers asked Van Buskirk to take action on its request to rescind the current PRV program, particularly the mandatory depopulation. Wednesday's meeting had been called by PDA in response to a letter from the Pork Producers Council asking for that action.

"We are not prepared to do that today and will take it under advisement," Van Buskirk said.

He also indicated that any state response would be to recommendations from the entire livestock industry and not just the Pork Producers Council.

Results of a survey of the economic consequences of depopulation were presented at Wednesday's session by the Lancaster-Chester Swine Producers Assn. The survey included 16 operations who have been depopulated or are in the process of depopulating. Ten are farrow to finish and six are farrow only.

The farrow to finish operations range from 80 to 300 sows and the farrow only from 100 to 370 sows.

Total sow inventory of all 16 operations is 3,312. Mark Nestleroth, spokesman for those hit by PRV, said he believed this total was approximately half of the 6,000 sows believed to be included in total depopulation efforts to date.

The survey cites a loss per sow unit average for both types of operations of $494.38. Ranges of loss for individual operations were from a low of $269 per sow unit to a high of $878 per sow unit, depending on the operation and particularly its overhead costs.

"We have had several with losses over $200,000," Nestleroth said.

"It's depopulating us as fast as it is the pigs," producers said at the session.

Producers also presented petitions from some 130 producers, representing about 7,000 sows, including a number with dairy operations too, calling for the rescinding of the mandatory depopulation.

The producers called for a middle-of-the-road approach of rescinding the mandatory depopulation, but keeping the quarantine program to identify infected herds but allow continued operation under quarantine to minimize financial losses.

Here are some comments by other participants in the session:

–Dr. John Cable, head of the swine division of BAI, outlined the history of PRV in Pa. since the initial outbreak in February of 1980. Quarantine figures showed a decline into last year when the mandatory depopulation and permit requirements were instituted to deal with a relatively small number of continuing infected herds.

But this past winter – January through March – quarantines increased again until the total as of Nov. 1 still stood at 16 breeding herds and 13 feed lots, all of which are tied together. Ten of the breeding herds are pretty well depopulated, Dr. Cable said, and six have a ways to go yet.

But, the producers pointed out, the underground activities are clouding a true picture of the number of herds that are actually infected with PRV.

–Dr. Max Van Buskirk – "We found it has been difficult to contain the virus with just a quarantine program. We have the opportunity to eliminate it while it's still a manageable problem. The only way to avoid becoming another Iowa is to do something about bio-security – the cleaning and disinfecting of vehicles is a weakness in our program."

--Jerry Clemens, Hatfield Packing: "We've been catching flak from clean producers because of taking permitted animals. We will not take anyone new but we will continue to work with our current producers (those who must ship under permit). The permit regulations are very lax, particularly concerning the cleaning of trucks."

–Penn State Extension Vet Larry Hutchinson of the Pa. Veterinary Medical Assn.: "We've changed our position and now favor some use of a kill vaccine in known positive quarantined herds to help reduce the spread of the virus within that operation. We also favor some indemnity paid for breeding stock only in operations following an approved control program."

--Terry Sheetz, state representative and Lancaster County swine producer who has been hit with PRV: "I'm totally opposed to the elimination of any kind of quarantine program. Looking at the Avian influenza and the Scheps dairy payments, you could say we're being shortchanged as hog producers. But we in the swine industry must take the initiative; we just can't keep going to the public trough for financial help from the state."

Hear what these farm leaders, ag marketers and economists say at the annual PFA/PACMA Marketing and Outlook Conference, November 19-20 at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center, Hershey, Pa.

- Broaden your marketing horizons with more farm exports?
- How is the State Milk Promotion Board going to sell more milk?
- What's outlook for farm commodity prices in the year ahead?
- Should you use the futures market as a hedging tool?
- And what about the new ag options on the futures market?
- What innovations in marketing are being used by ag industries?
- How are USDA Crop Reports estimated?
- What options do fruit and vegetable growers have if their buyer defaults?

Answers to these and other questions and issues facing farmers will be covered at PACMA's Marketing and Outlook Conference to be held in conjunction with Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Annual Convention.

Kevin Hampton's grand champion Angus bull was shown by Cheryl Hampton.

BY JACK HUBLEY

HARRISBURG — As in Sunday's Junior Beef events, Pennsylvania fared well in the Keystone International Livestock Exposition's Open Breeding Cattle shows, placing grand champions or reserves in five of the seven breeds shown.

Open Charolais heifer competition was a clean sweep for Pa. breeders, with grand champion honors going to Miss CCC Annie, owned by Fence Post Farms and Circle C Charolais of Franklin. The Apocalypse daughter was also the show's senior champion.

RCC Royal Heiress, a junior heifer calf owned by Paul Miller of Spring Grove, made her successful debut in the show ring by capturing the reserve champion title.

After watching her sister, Crystal, take the grand championship in the Charolais Junior show, Carla Clutter of Prosperity, did likewise in Open Charolais bull competition. Her bull, 4C Temeon, was sired by RCC Constructor.

John Eaton,Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Eaton of Windsor, took reserve champion bull honors with his late summer yearling named John's Mr. Cochise. Named grand champion at the York Fair, Cochise was bred on the Eaton's farm out of their own bull and cow.

Judge William Curry, of Winchester, Kentucky, was satisfied that he'd found the top two Polled Hereford females when he named a pair of heifers owned by Spring Bottom Farms of Fairfield, Pa., to the grand and reserve grand champion heifer positions.

"This (win) is a direct result of what your cows can do at home," said Spring Bottom's owner, Frank Darcy, after winning the titles with a pair of home-bred cows. Darcy's grand champion was SBF Royal Red Rose, a Klondike Banner daughter. The reserve champion heifer, SBF Royal Gypsy, was sired by BT Nomad 421N.

The grand champion Polled Hereford bull was bred and owned by Georgetown Farm of Va. Also the show's junior champion, the bull was sired by Jogger, Georgetown Farm's main herd sire.

Reserve Polled Hereford honors went to Pa. exhibitor Douglas Stape, of Schellsburg, together with Slitor Hill Farms of Naples, N.Y.

Unwilling to relinquish their grand champion and reserve grand honors earned in the Junior Chianina show, Jamie Kohr of York, Pa., and Robyn Davis of Lewistown, Ohio, maintained their positions in the Open show.

For his grand champion Chianina bull, judge Herman Purdy singled out M's thunder, owned by Larry and Donna Moore of Moving M Farm, State College, Pa. Named the show's senior champion, Thunder was sired by VF Prospector.

This was the first time in the show ring for the show's reserve champion Chi bull, HVF Bandit's Super Black, owned by High View Farm of Bellefontaine, Ohio. The home-grown bull was sired by last year's grand champion, Super Bandit.

In Angus competition, grand champion honors went to a Power Play daughter, Summitcrest Miss Angus owned by Summitcrest Farms, Summitville, Ohio.

At reserve was Kinannie 901R of GU, jointly owned by Rosebank Angus Farm of Germantown, N.Y., and Genetics Unlimited of Coatesville.

For his top Angus bull, judge Steve Simmons of Williamston, Mich., tapped HAF Sky Power, a Pine Drive Big Sky son owned by Kevin Hampton of Genoa, Ohio.

The show's reserve Angus bull was Southern Pride, a Krueger's Foolish Pride son, owned by Stivers Angus of Pittstown, NJ, and Circle G Angus, of Georgia.

The champion Simmental heifer was Triple F Miss Shauna, owned by Sutherland Valley Farm of Lewisville, Ohio. Sutherland, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Ritchie, also exhibited the junior champion, with both winners out of the Movin-On sire.

The reserve champion heifer was Circle B Miss, owned by Roberts Simmental of Cumberland, Ohio.

Simmental breeder Scott Crull came all the way from Elwood, Ind., to take top honors in the bull competition with Crull's Radar, a Mr. Clean son that was reserve champion at last year's Indiana State Fair.

The race for grand champion heifer in the Shorthorn show proved to be a repeat performance for at least one the McLaughlins, of Woodsfield, Ohio. Ed McLaughlin retained his grand champion title, also earned in the Junior show, with CF Miss Marjorie, a summer yearling sired by CU Gator.

The reserve champion heifer was an Albo daughter owned by Terry and Rhonda Kibler of Woodstock, Va.

Gerrobin Sheriff, owned by Ronald Bates and Family of Blue Rock, Ohio, was named champion Shorthorn bull by judge Steve Simmons.

Terry and Rhonda Kibler also exhibited the reserve champion bull, K Chairman, sired by Albo.

In the Hereford show, judge Herman Purdy singled out his calf champion, KML1 Markette, for grand champion heifer honors. Owned by Diane Moody of New Concord, Ohio, the top heifer was sired by Lone Star Domino.

Reserve champion heifer honors went to Pa. cattleman Richard A. Kralj of Saegertown.

Once again Ohio's Diane Moody took top honors when two of her Hereford bulls, both sired by Lone Star Domino, were named grand and reserve grand champions in Hereford bull competition.

Only 13 breeders share top KILE breeding swine honors

Larry Arnold, of Womelsdorf, was premier breeder in Duroc competition at KILE.

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

HARRISBURG — Only 13 breeders shared in the 28 top champion and reserve champion honors in the seven breeding swine shows at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition on Tuesday.

Most of the Pennsylvania breeders were repeat winners from previous years and many were multiple winners in several categories.

Just about the only new faces and thus new hogs in the competition were those that traveled from the Midwest to participate in the Eastern Berkshire Fall Classic Sale.

Sometimes the only new things you see or hear at these shows is the different type criteria that various judges use in making their selections.

On Tuesday, the big thing in swine at KILE was their "flat tops." Judge Gale Bressner, Chester White breeder from Chenoa, Ill., sure liked their levelness on top. Over and over he kept citing that as he made his selections.

So here are the best "flat top pigs" as selected by him on Tuesday:

Smith's Hog Farm of Washington, Pa. just about swept the top Durocs, capturing the champion boar and the champion

HARRISBURG — At the conclusion of the barrow on-foot shows at KILE this week, a junior exhibitor captured the grand champion award. Gretchen Christman, Chambersburg, showing her brother Gregg's barrow, received the top honors.

This was the first swine championship for the Christman family. While brother Gregg was busy at the sheep and steer shows, Gretchen took the first place spot in the heavyweight class of the junior barrow show, then earned the championship of the junior competition, and finally captured the overall grand championship of the barrow shows.

The reserve grand champion barrow on-foot was shown by longtime KILE exhibitor, John Strawbridge, of Strawbridge and McCleary, Stewartstown. The reserve grand champion was the winner of the Hampshire breed show and champion in the open competition.

Yeazel Durocs, Eaton, Ohio, earned the open reserve championship with their winner in the Duroc competition. Exhibiting the reserve champion in the junior show was Matthew Horchler, New Wilmington.

The KILE open barrow on-foot competition included Duroc, Berkshire, Chester White, Hampshire, Poland China, Spotted, Yorkshire, and Crossbreed breed shows.

Following are the results of the open shows as well as the junior barrow on-foot competition.

One pass proves you can't beat T1100.

You worked and waited all season for this moment. But it's finally time. And before you finish your first pass through that fine stand of T1100, you'll be calling for the grain truck.

You've already seen how it yields. Not just on paper. But right here, where all those extra bushels really mean something. So, line up your combine, and let 'er go. With T1100, that first pass says it all.

Farmers and neighbors pledge $12,000 toward bridge

FALMOUTH — A group of farmers and neighbors from Lancaster and Dauphin Counties recently pledged $12,000 in personal funds to help replace a covered bridge over the Conewago Creek that was destroyed by fire six years ago.

For the six years since the bridge was destroyed, poultry farmer Clair Nissley of Falmouth has had to travel several miles out of his way to reach fields on the other side of the creek and the egg truck has had to change its route.

For Nissley and some of his neighbors the bridge was a vital link between their farms and fields, and although superviors in Conoy and Londonderry Townships talked about replacing it, no action was ever taken.

Nissley said area farmers wrote a letter to the Lancaster County Commissioners about two years ago, requesting that the bridge be rebuilt. About a year and a half ago, Lancaster and Dauphin Counties decided to split the cost of replacing the bridge, but the two townships joined by the bridge were requested to finance the approaches on their respective sides.

Conoy Township supervisor Bob Strickland said the engineer's estimate for the approach on the Conoy side was for $22,800, but the supervisors felt they could afford to appropriate only $5,000 toward the project.

At this point, Nissley and a group of his neighbors who wanted the bridge rebuilt got together and pledged $12,000, leaving $5,800 unaccounted for, Nissley said.

In a special meeting with supervisors and farmers, the engineering firm lowered its estimate to $17,000 - the total of the money pledged from the township and farmers.

"We got them (the engineer) to eliminate some of the items on this job to bring the price down to $17,000," Strickland said, noting that the items eliminated were not essential to the bridge's structure.

Strickland says he believes the group's persistence is the reason the bridge is finally being replaced. "They kept the thing alive until the two counties decided to build the bridge," he said.

Construction of the concrete box-frame bridge that will replace the wooden covered bridge which once spanned the creek should start late this year or early next spring, Strickland said.

Nissley said he and the other farmers who pledged money for the project hope they will be reimbursed with public money, but Strickland said the township does not intend to reimburse them.

Others who contributed funds to the bridge are: Chris Becker, R4 Elizabethtown; Melvin Nissley, Middletown; Robert Gruber, Middletown; and Glenn Hipple, Elizabethtown. Plain and Fancy also contributed to the fund.

PDA to enforce Yule tree theft law

HARRISBURG — The approach of the Christmas holiday season brings many decisions, including the purchase of a live Christmas tree from one of the thousands of tree growers and vendors across the commonwealth.

"Unfortunately, legitimate sellers and consumers often face higher prices due to tree thefts and unscrupulous dealers," said state Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell. "Until December of 1983, tree farmers and legitimate dealers had little protection from theft, which may cost the industry $100,000 a year."

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Department of Environmental Resources and law enforcement agencies, are enforcing the act.

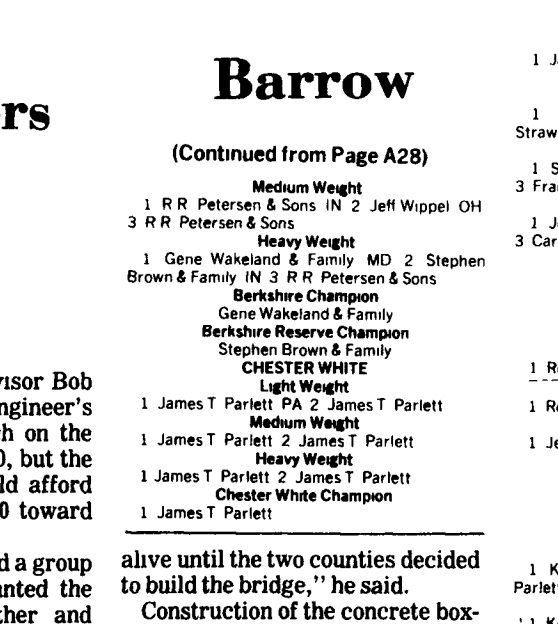
W-L Alfalfas. Why grow anything but the Best.



"We started out with 10 acres. Now all we plant is W-L Alfalfa. We had read about W-L's performance, and that first year we tried it, it turned out real well. Now we plant all our acres in W-L Alfalfa. We get a good full stand and good comeback.

Some of our neighbors have commented about our alfalfa. When a neighbor tells you that you've got a nice stand, and he isn't getting the same good results in the same type of soil, that tells you something about the alfalfa you're planting. We've always stuck with W-L."

Nittany Lion Fall Classic

The only other consignment to bring over $3000 was Cedarcrest-Vu Bootmaker Monica, a first-calf Bootmaker heifer consigned by Robert and Jane Pepple, Oxford. Out of Kinglea Astro Marcie, Monica has a maternal brother, Killdee Astrochief Wiseman, at Sire Power.

Tim R. Peachey, Petersburg, purchased Cedarcrest-Vu Bootmaker Monica for a top bid of $3,300.

Volume buyer of the Classic was Earl and Tamie Campbell, of Lykens. They purchased 6 head, mainly bred heifers, for a total of $6550.

Along with their newly-acquired heifers the Campbells picked up two Penn State football tickets. To add a little excitement to the sale the dairy science students offered Penn State vs. Boston College football tickets to the purchaser of the high-selling animal and to the volume buyer of the sale.

Fifty-seven animals were sold, as well as six half-lots, for a sale average of $2080. Bill Nichol, executive director of PHA, noted that the average was better than expected, and he thought the consigners were satisfied with the outcome, too.

"I thought we had a spirited and excellent crowd in the new Ag Arena," remarked Nichol. "The dairy science club members were a joy to work with. They worked hard and learned a lot through the selection process. Everyone involved benefited."

PHA President Samuel Minor also commented on the success of the event, and he commended the PHA staff and the students for taking the initiative in managing the sale.

Finally, student manager Mark Wolfskill added that he was proud of all his fellow dairy science club members for working beyond expectations to make the sale a success.

Will they do it again? Everyone replied with a resounding yes. The Nittany Lion Fall Classic is an significant learning opportunity for the Penn State dairy science students as well as another opportunity to promote the Pa. Holstein industry.

Del. pesticide applicators being recertified

DOVER, Del. — The Delaware Department of Agriculture is in the process of recertifying all applicators of restricted use pesticides in the State.

Grier Stayton, Pesticide Compliance Supervisor, says renewal applications have been mailed to current certification card holders. Those who have not received an application should call the Department at 1-800-282-8685; Monday-Friday, 8:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

Stayton says applications should be returned by Friday, Nov. 16.

Pesticide Applicator Certification Tests will be given closed book on the following dates. New Castle County tests will be administered at the University of Delaware, room 32, Townsend Hall at 7 p.m., Nov. 19 and 28 and Dec. 6 and 12.

Kent Countians can take that test at the Delaware Department of Agriculture, 7 p.m., Nov. 21 and 28 and Dec. 5 and 12. In Sussex County, the test will be given at the Georgetown Substation, Meeting Room #2 at 7:00 p.m. on Nov. 21 and 28 and Dec. 5 and 12.

Test can be taken at any location. Applicants should contact the Department of Agriculture, Pesticides Section and reserve a seat at their selected location.

Any questions should be directed to Stayton at 1-800-282-8685.

Advanced - yet simple

The Dairy Herd Management Program is designed to assist the dairyman and veterinarian in the overall management of today's modern dairy herd DHMP is based on an "easy-to-use" philosophy; no prior knowledge of computers is required This program includes the most complete production and health information available on the market today

We took existing styles of on-farm record systems and automated them to increase the usefulness of the information. It is streamlined and useful in daily management of a dairy herd. Anyone capable of maintaining and using a manual card system will be able to easily convert to this system

Full Range of Features

- Cow cards similar to present manual systems
- Management evaluation reports
- Vet check list identifies cows in need of attention
- Reproductive summary reports - identify problem areas
- Conception rates report - identifies success of technician or bull
- Production grouping ranks cows
- Production summary - group cows and identify feed rates
- Breeding worklist - no way to miss
- Built in error detection features
- Many other features included

Have your printouts in hand when meeting with your accountant or banker. Optimize your efficiency - you'll know, almost immediately, how your technicians are doing You can project future action, forecast milk production, minimize delays in freshening, make better use of vet time, and you can operate the system anywhere DHMP provides Quality, Service, and Expandability at a low cost Compatable with most micro computers - Dairy Herd Management Program will work for you freezes. Mulching is a very good practice to insure a better crop next summer.

To Check Standby Generators

The winter season brings with it snow and ice storms that can damage and knock out our supply of electricity. Most farmers are badly crippled without electricity so the need for a standby generator is recognized. I know that many poultry farms in particular, already have this equipment. However, if the generator is not in good working condition, it may not do the job in case of emergency. These generators should be run once a week to reassure yourself that it's in good running condition. If it is a tractor hookup type, then take the time to make that connection each week. When the power goes off, you don't have time to run tests of the equipment to make sure it's in proper working order.

Draft horses make KILE debut

BY SUZANNE KEENE

HARRISBURG — Massive draft horses trotted into the show ring Wednesday morning during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Harrisburg. It was the first time draft horses have been part of KILE.

About 100 Belgians, Percherons and Clydesdales were entered in this year's show, which was organized with the help of Gerald Allebach of Spring Mills, James and Dail Corl of State College, and Lewis and Gail Biddle of Boalsburg.

Allebach said he and other Pennsylvania breeders pressed for the show because they wanted to attract competition from other states. Most of the Pennsylvania breeders have been competing against each other at the Farm Show for years.

Allebach said he believes entries were limited to around 100 this year because the show date fell during the Royal Ag Winter Fair in Toronto, the largest draft horse show in North America.

Next year, Allebach said, he hopes the timing of the show will be better and will attract more exhibitors.

Larry Honsberger of Port Clinton showed the grand champion Percheron mare, Lakeshore Honsi, a one year old. Reserve grand champion mare went to Thomas Gilmore's Mary Lou, entered in the five-year-old and older class.

In the Belgian show, Ellen Holdsworth of Claysville took grand champion stallion with Orndorff's Marcus Ro, a two year old. Reserve honors belonged to Herb Frantz of Waynesboro, who showed his two-year-old Arnold's Marlin.

Arthur Reist of Lancaster showed the grand champion mare, Mountainscent Mamie. Reserve honors went to Mountain Echo Molley owned by Lewis and Gail Biddle of Boalsburg.

The champion Clydesdale stallion, Bardrill Ambassador, was owned by James and Dail Corl of State College.

The last show of the day was the hitch horse show. John Cole of Centre Hall took first place in the open cart class, while James and Matilda Dorsey, Upperco, Md., took first place in the ladies cart class.

First place in the two-horse class went to John and Susan Cole, Centre Hall, who also took firsts in the unicorn, four-horse and six-horse classes.

Featured in this issue of Lancaster Farming are the results of this year's five-day event that began on Nov. 2, and came to a close this past Wednesday, Nov. 7.

Though show coverage can be found throughout the paper, for the most part, results will be grouped by species for our readers' convenience. Open beef shows, hogs and horse results will be found in Section A, with the junior livestock events, sheep-to-shawl contest and Lamb and Wool Queen coverage found in Section B.

And if what you're looking for seems nowhere to be found, keep an eye on next week's issue.

Farm Show theme announced

HARRISBURG – Agriculture has been a constant, stable force in the Pennsylvania economy. As an economic and cultural cornerstone, it remains a continuing source of pride for all its citizens.

In an effort to emphasize those qualities, state Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell has announced that "Pennsylvania Agriculture – The Pride of Pennsylvania" will again serve as the theme for the 69th annual Farm Show, January 13-18, 1985.

"The theme for Farm Show recognizes the efforts of our devoted 59,000 farm families and the agribusinesses whose contributions make agriculture the number one industry in Pennsylvania," said Hallowell. "Our agricultural sector generated over $30 billion in economic activity last year and provided employment for one-fifth of the state's workforce," he added.

"Pride in Pennsylvania agriculture has its roots in the farmers and business who exhibit their blue ribbon animals and equipment at the Farm Show each year. Visitors to the annual event are impressed by their hard work, and share in this celebration of tradition and heritage," Hallowell noted.

Ray Bicksler, Richland, and Helen Seidel, Kutztown, accept awards for their herds on Friday evening at the Berks County Holstein Club Awards. Bicksler, of Russeldale Holsteins had the high selling animal in the annual club sale. Seidel, of Kerchenhill Holsteins, owned by her father, Ray, received the award for the highest B.A.A. (106.6) in the county.

Berks Holstein Club presents youth awards

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

SHARTLESVILLE – The Berks County Holstein Club honored its outstanding members and youth at an annual banquet and awards meeting on Friday, Nov. 2 in Shartlesville. The President, Donald Myers, presided over the business meeting, election of directors and committee reports. Awards and recognition were then given to several high herds and distinguished junior members.

Recognized for consigning the highest selling animal in the annual county sale was Ray Bicksler, Russelldale Holsteins, Richland. Helen Seidel was also on hand to accept the award for her father's Kerchenhill Holstein herd which had the highest B.A.A. in the county. Owned by Ray Seidel, Kutztown, the Kerchenhill herd records a 106.6, including eight "Excellent", 16 "Very Good" and 12 "Good Plus". The award was won several times previously by this same herd.

The 4-H Dairy Judging team from Berks County was also recognized. Placing first in the state dairy judging competition, the four young men were not present at the banquet. They traveled to Louisville, Ky., for national competition. The boys include James Younker, Todd Miller, William Lesher, and Charles Seidel. Seidel honored the county and state earlier this year when he placed seventh overall in the individual judging in Madison, Wisc. Each of these youth received a $50.00 savings bond from the county Holstein club

The junior club announced their 1984 milk and fat awards. In the two year-old category, Constance Ohlinger, R1, Mohrsville, secured the milk and fat trophies with Reu-Hel Farms Valient Robini, and her record of: 2-02 22,385M 3.6% 798F.

Her sister, Cathy Ohlinger, commanded both awards in the three-year-old division with her cows, Reu-Hel Farms Glendell Fuzzy with: 3-06 27,023M 3.2% 854; and Reu-Hel Farms Mile Supreme with: 3-06 25,710M 4.2% 1068F.

Scott Troutman, Richland, dominated the four-year-old division with his cows: Y Brookside Star-4-03 23,988M 3.7% 898F, and Y Brookside Big Valley-4-02 22,665M 4.09% 917F.

Cathy Ohlinger took the milk award in the aged cow division with Reu-Hel Farms Mack Kirby-6-01 30,235M 3.1% 952F; and Constance Ohlinger received the award for fat with Reu-Hel Farms Rorae Shanon-5-11 23,586M 4.5%, 1069F.

Showing and Fitting awards were also given to the Ohlinger sisters.

Distinguished Junior Members were junior division, Mark Moser, Bally; senior division, Charles Seidel, Hamburg, and Stacey Meyers, Kempton.

Election of directors for the county club were also held. Newly elected, to serve a three year term are Tom Rentschler, David Schantz, and Kenneth Sanner. The new junior directors for Clark Sattazahn and Stacey Meyers.

and reserve champion gilts. Yeazel Durocs, of Eaton, Ohio, had the reserve boar and Larry Arnold, of Womelsdorf, was premier exhibitor.

James T. Parlett, of Airville, swept the Chester White competition.

In the Hampshires, Strawbridge and McCleary, of Stewartstown, took both boar honors and the reserve champion gilt. Smith's Hog Farm had the champion gilt.

Jeff Wippel, of Ashville, Ohio, had three of the four in Poland China competition, including the champion boar and champion and reserve champion gilt. The reserve champion boar went to Rocky Acres Farm, New Tripoli; while Bonnie Wessner was premier exhibitor.

In the Spots, Greg Christman Jr., of Chambersburg, had the champion boar; while Smith's Hog Farm had the champion gilt. Both reserves were shown by Parlett.

In Yorkshire competition, Strawbridge and McCleary had the champion gilt and the reserve champion boar. Champion boar was shown by Franklin Feeser, Taneytown, Md.; and reserve gilt by Wilson and Rehman, of New Freedom.

Only in the Berkshire competition did four different exhibitors win top honors and three of these came from out of state attracted by the special sale.

Champion Berkshire boar was shown by AcMoody Farms, of Union City, Mich.; and the reserve by Phenotypic Acres, of Ames Iowa. The champion gilt was shown by Ken Shaffner and Family of West Union, Ill. Only Dennis Grumbine of Myerstown, was able to slip in as a top Pa. winner with the reserve champion Berk gilt. Premier exhibitor was R. R. Peterson and Sons of Ligonier, Ind.

Kooker gets Del. post

NEWARK, Del. — Mark G. Kooker has been appointed assistant farm management specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Delaware, effective Nov. 1. The position was created with the support of a one-year federal crop insurance grant. Kooker's assignment will be to hold educational meetings and short courses on risk management for farmers. He will be working out of the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences in Newark.

Before joining the extension service, Kooker served the State of Delaware for 7½ years as executive assistant secretary of agriculture.

Why Tie Up Your Money?
USE THE GATES HYDRAULIC CRIMP MACHINE LEASE PROGRAM

REDUCE DOWNTIME
It used to be that when a hydraulic hose broke, you had to wait hours — sometimes days — to get a replacement.
NOW THERE'S NO MORE WAITING!
With a Gates crimper in your shop, you can make assemblies any time you need them.

QUALITY
The components you use are the same Gates uses in its factory.
Every assembly you make is factory quality.
The only difference?
You made it instead of us.

SAVE MONEY
Don't pay a premium for immediate replacement. No delivery charges, either. With a Gates crimper, you never have to pay extra to get an assembly right now.

LEASE THE MACHINE THAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU
Your Gates Distributor has a full line of crimpers at easily affordable lease prices to meet your assembly requirements. You can handle anything from 3/16" to 2" I.D. 6-spiral wire hydraulic hose.

The Gates Hydraulic Power Crimp Equipment Guide will help you decide which Gates crimper will meet your needs.

COMPLETE LEASING SERVICES
When you lease from Gates, we will work with you to set up your equipment, determine your inventory requirements, train your shop personnel, and establish a quality control program. And we can keep your inventory requirements to a minimum because we stock the full line of Gates hydraulic hose and fittings. With us as your partner, you'll be making your own top quality assemblies to your own specifications.

Inter-State annual meeting set

SOUTHAMPTON — Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative will hold its 67th annual delegate meeting Nov. 15 and 16 at the Host Farm Resort Hotel, Lancaster.

The two-day event gets underway Thursday morning at 9:45 a.m. with a meeting of Inter-State officers and delegates. At this time, the cooperative's 500 delegates, alternates and others will hear reports from officers and staff members of Inter-State, QC Inc. and Holly Milk Cooperative.

During the afternoon session, Secretary and General Manager Paul E. Hand will present the year's report to the delegate body. Comments will be made by Dr. Elwood W. Speckmann, vice president of nutrition research, the National Dairy Council, and a question and answer period will follow.

Highlighting the annual banquet Thursday night will be guest speaker Karl K. Kettering. Better known as "Mr. Enthusiasm," Kettering will present the topic, "Up Your Enthusiasm." Musical entertainment will be provided by the Philadelphia Boys Choir and Chorale. Serving as toastmaster will be George Steele, retired chairman of the board, Agway Inc.

Friday morning's session will begin with the Young Cooperator's breakfast program, addressed by guest speaker Richard Norton, Manager of the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area. The general session follows at 9 a.m. and will include delegate action on the annual meeting resolution.

A separate ladies program will run concurrent with the delegate sessions. On Thursday, a choice of either a shopping trip to the Park City Mall or a tour of Lancaster County historical sights will be available. Lunch will be provided at the Good 'N Plenty Restaurant. Friday will feature an arts and crafts show to begin at 9:30 a.m.

Inter-State Milk Producers Cooperative represents about 3,100 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia and markets more than 2.49 billion pounds of milk.

Order 4 milk $15.42

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine today announced a Class I milk price of $15.42 per hundredweight for December 1984. The price is unchanged from November and is 12 cents above last December's Class I price. The Order 4 Class I milk price averaged $15.02 per hundredweight for the year, down 30 cents from the 1983 average.

Mr. Shine announced a Class II milk price of $12.72 per hundredweight for October 1984 and a butterfat differential of 18.2 cents for the month, both unchanged from the previous month.

The December Class I price and the October Class II price are based on the October 1984 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $12.64 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

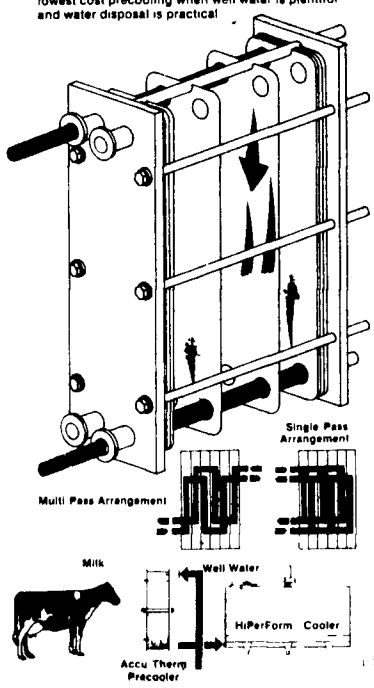
Mr. Dairyman If You Are Interested In Saving Energy Or If You Are Having A Cooling Problem, Please Call us For A No Obligation Demonstration

The Mueller Accu-Therm™ Precooler

...uses well water to precool your warm milk before it goes into your milk cooler!

In seconds 100 degree milk is cooled to within 15 to 20 degrees of well water temperature Milk flows between every other stainless steel heat exchanger plate while well water flows in the opposite direction on the other side of these plates cooling the milk Choose Accu Therm for lowest cost precooling when well water is plentiful and water disposal is practical



MUELLER
Accu-Therm
PLATE HEAT EXCHANGER

FOUR REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD HAVE A MUELLER ACCU-THERM PRECOOLER ON YOUR FARM!

1 Reduces Energy Cost
Milk from the cow is about 100 degrees F Precooling milk by 20 degrees shortens the time the milk cooler refrigeration system must operate by one third Precooling warm milk by 30 degrees will cut your milk refrigeration system operation in half A Mueller Accu Therm lowers your energy costs and reduces your operation expenses

2 Flexibility
The Accu Therm is available in wall mounted or floor models to fit any milking operation or space restriction As your dairy operation grows Accu Therm can be easily adapted to increased volume by adding heat exchanger plates This is a simple job requiring only a hand wrench and a few minutes and does not require moving the Accu Therm

3 Low Maintenance
The Accu Therm Plate Heat Exchanger is a closed system and can be quickly and efficiently cleaned in place with the rest of the milking system

4 Pays For Itself
The money you save in reduced energy costs will soon repay your investment in a Mueller Accu Therm milk precooler For example with 60 degree F well water for cooling milk temperature is lowered by 20 degrees and energy requirements are reduced one third The typical 5 HP milk cooler condensing unit uses approximately 5 kilowatts per hour of electricity

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS...

...After more than twenty years of serving agriculture in southeastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, Howard W. Anderson and Charles R. Enloe announced on October 22 their retirement and the sale of their business, Penn Jersey Products, Inc., New Holland, PA, to Frank Possessky.

New Holland Farmer's National Bank provided the financing for the purchase, according to Charles A. Bender, Vice-President in charge of lending.

Frank Possessky, a native of Shenandoah, PA and a graduate of Penn State University has been with Penn Jersey for fifteen years. He resides with his wife, the former Barbara Levers, and four children in Narvon, PA.

Frank has pledged to continue the quality service that Penn Jersey has been noted for over the past 20 years with no changes in our efficient sales and staff personnel. The company will pursue new ideas and programs to keep pace with today's agriculture.

A hearty salute to agriculture's hard-working women!

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

Nov. 11-18 is Women in Agriculture Week, and we salute all women who help sustain agriculture. It is well known that women work as equal partners on farms, making important decisions and carrying their share of the workload.

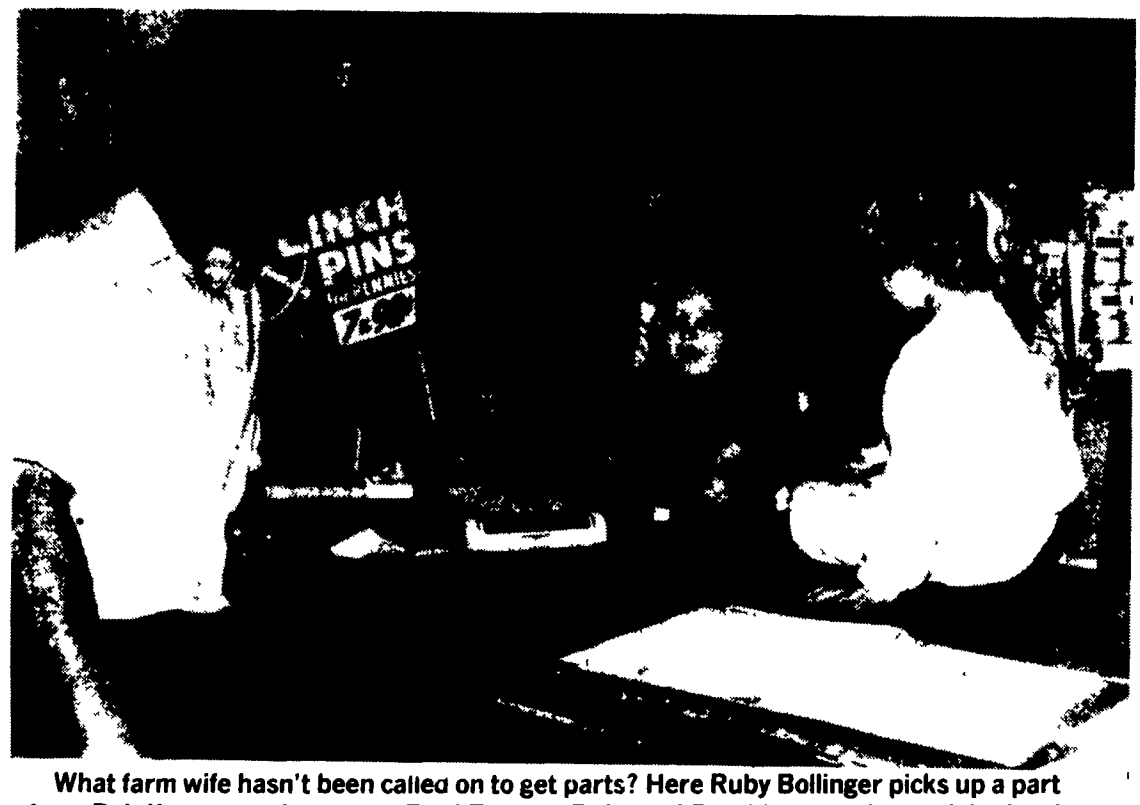
Women can be found in almost every job on the farm - from milking, to feeding to driving tractors to keeping records - and each contribution is valued.

But their importance goes far beyond the obvious. Keeping nutritious food available and delivering food to fields during harvest helps keep things moving smoothly. And what about all those phone messages and "letting their fingers do the walking" to track down the right part for the tractor or the best price for a product? Driving children to 4-H meetings, soccer practices, ballet classes and band rehearsals are also important contributions. And farm wives who choose to work off the farm are contributing in their own way.

Thousands of hours of volunteer time at churches, community organizations and in promoting agriculture also count as valued donations.

At Lancaster Farming, we salute all women in agriculture - your job is an important one!

Georgia Fry loves living on a farm and enjoys the outdoor work that goes with it. She supervises the tobacco crop on the farm she and her husband, Larry, operate at Washington Boro R1.

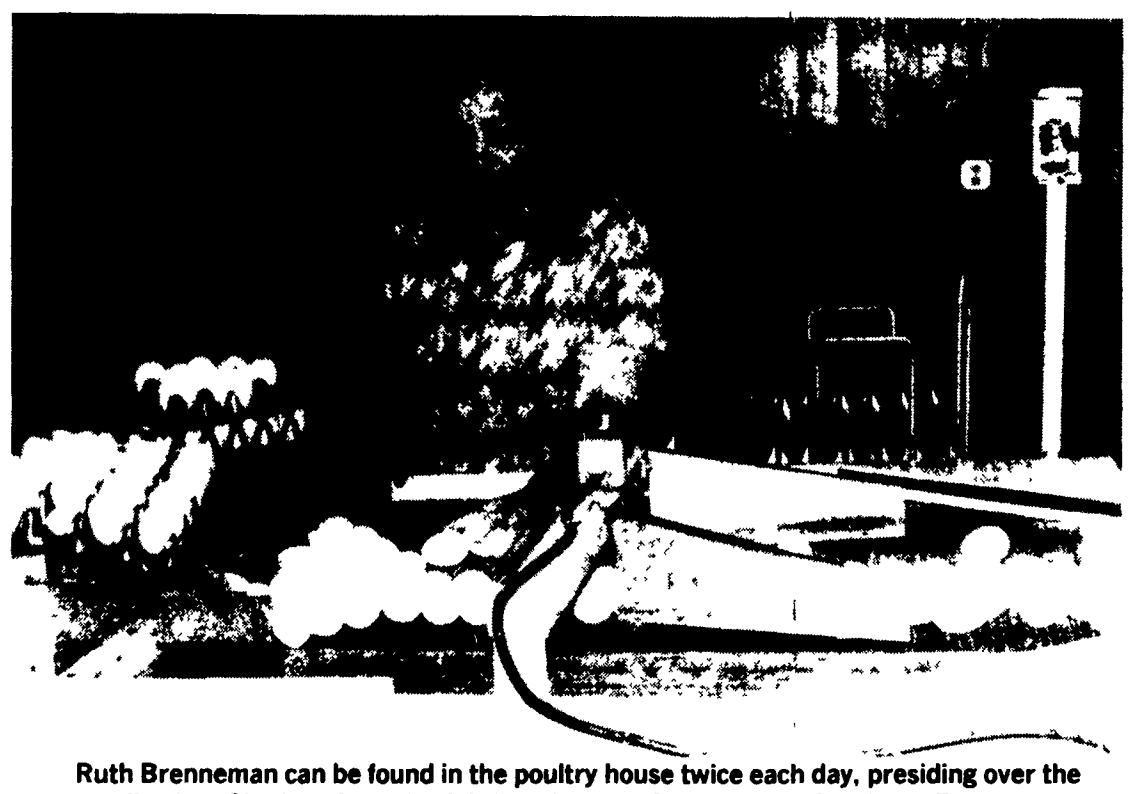


What farm wife hasn't been called on to get parts? Here Ruby Bollinger picks up a part from Bob Keeport at Lancaster Ford Tractor. Ruby and Daryl have a 40-cow dairy herd at R7 Manheim. Ruby's two assistants, Denise, 3, and Danny, 17 months, often go along on her errands.

Hog operations tend to be very automated, but there is still a need for the human touch. Norma Frey checks feeders at the fattening operation she and her husband, David H., operate on their Washington Boro farm, where they have up to 1,000 hogs at a time.

Homestead Notes

Milking is a job done by a lot of farm women, perhaps because they are so good at it. Here Doris Landis, Colebrook Road, Lancaster, takes her place in the milking parlor. She and her husband, John, now milk 150 cows three times daily.



Ruth Brenneman can be found in the poultry house twice each day, presiding over the egg collection. She has done this job for 21 years. She is married to Amos Brenneman, R2 Columbia.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Even if there were no colored leaves, even if the corn fields hadn't paled in the frost and faded to dusty brown, even if the nights weren't crystal clear with a refreshing nippiness, we'd still know it.

Fall simply couldn't pass without our knowing, even if the most physically obvious signs weren't quite so pointed. For, the "critters"know it.

Yes, the migrating season once again is upon us.

No robins have hopped around worm-searching the back yard for weeks, and the mockingbird that haunted the garden has sought other territories. Even the usual noisy, everyday chattering of the birdlife that frequents the meadow was ominously still and silent during a gray, overcast afternoon walk.

Then the rains fell, softly at first, gaining relentless, wind-blown momentum. Through the storm sounds came a mystical, mournful calling, from somewhere up on the hill striped with corn and hayfields.

Geese, probably forced down by the weather, interrupted on their journey toward the greening grain fields of Eastern Shore, were calling to one another in the darkness. Their migration never fails to stir a mixed emotion of joy in simply seeing their symbolic V-shaped flock flight pattern, and a sadness of the departure of more pleasurable weather with them.

Still another migration, though, sends other "critters" stirring toward distant parts unknown. A most unwelcome migration, I might add.

It begins with a jangling telephone, the voice at the other end that of the owner of a pasture some distance. For the past few summers, this pasture has hospitably housed and amply fed a number of bred heifers and select dry cows.

Lush grass, clusters of shading trees, freshets of water bubbling up from beneath swampy humps of wiry grass, all fulfill the needs of this group, which grows fat and lazy from May through September.

But, come late October, the frosts wither the grasses and pasture evolves to a condition which the teenagers might label "boring." Within these bovines wells a dormant longing for new scenery, untrodden carpets of grass, and the classic greener forage beyond the fence.

This, however, is just not any old greener grass. It belongs to a local golf course, whose groundskeepers hold decidedly different viewpoints about what greener grass is to be used for. Certainly not for yanking off by the mouthfuls, or for dancing through with dainty hoofed feet.

Prompt policing halts the impending migration of the restless flock and two trailerloads of heifers find themselves once more back within the more confining corrals of home.

Would you believe, on the same day, I glance across the meadow to distant hills, where black and white bodies against a green background turn up at a particular suspicious corner.

Several minutes and many anxious glances later, the spots are surely moving, heads buried deep in lush alfalfa, on a course as purposefully straight as if it had been computer charted by NASA.

Memories of Ladino clover (the neighbors), sampled before we discovered that a lightning strike had totaled the fence charger, die reluctantly inside the hard heads of heifers. Rounded up by the pickup, the yearlings giggle and kick their heels in disdain one last time before fleeing back to the safety of the fence.

Migration? Beautiful, majestic, inspiring - when it's geese.

But heifers? Forget it!

Holiday homemaker meeting set in York

YORK — Hand-created fashions, herbs, gingerbread houses and the Holy Land are lined up for the annual York homemakers holiday meeting, set for Wednesday, Nov. 28, at the county's 4-H Center, from 9:30 a.m. through 2:30 p.m.

A style show opens the holiday meeting, with garments made and modeled by county homemakers. Creative designers of hand-sewn, hand-knit or hand-crocheted fashions, in York County, are invited to model in the style show by contacting extension home-economist Marcy Seckman at the extension office.

Doreen Graham is next on the program, with her "Herbs around the house," presentation. Ms. Graham is known for growing and cooking with herbs and will be demonstrating methods of decorating with the popular natural materials.

A tour of the Holy Land, by way of a slide show presented by Lorretta Allison, of Weatherly, follows, lunch.

Patti Hudson, the "gingerbread lady" wraps up the day-long program designed to put homemakers in a holiday mood. Along with her demonstration on making gingerbread houses, Ms. Hudson offers gingerbread cookie ideas and door prizes.

Tickets for the holiday meeting are $2.50, and available from York Homemaker group members, or by contacting the extension office at 757-9657. Participants are asked to bring a bag lunch, with beverage provided by the host groups.

Slice a hefty piece of cake

Few people can resist a hefty piece of cake topped with creamy icing. Even dedicated dieters occasionally give in to their cravings and splurge on their favorite flavor.

With the holiday season just around the corner, thoughts of serious dieting should be put on hold until the new year anyway. And now is a good time to start planning for holiday guests who will come for dinner or coffee. Treat your guests to a slice of your favorite cake and then be prepared to share your recipe.

The Bonnie Butter Cake and Blender Double Fudge Cake are two simple, but delightful cakes that don't take long to prepare and allow plenty of time to fuss with the rest of your dinner.

DUMP CAKE

Pour 1 can cherry pie filling in a 10¾-inch pan. Drain 1 can crushed pineapple and pour over pie filling. Sprinkle white or yellow cake mix over top. Melt 2 sticks of margarine and pour over cake mix. Sprinkle coconut over top. Bake at 350°F. for one hour.

New Smithville

BROWN SUGAR NUT CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
2⅔ cups cake flour
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
1½ cups chopped walnuts

Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten egg yolks, then nuts and almond flavoring. Sift baking powder and flour together and add alternately with milk. Last fold in egg whites that have been beaten to moist peaks. Pour into greased and floured 9x13-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 35 minutes or until done.

West Newton

BANANA PINEAPPLE CAKE

3 eggs
2 cups sugar
½ cup oil
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Little salt
1½ teaspoon vanilla
1 8½-ounce can crushed pineapple
2 cups diced bananas
1 cup chopped walnuts

Mix together the above ingredients with a wooden spoon. Don't beat. Place in a greased and floured tube pan and bake 1 hour and 10 minutes at 350°F.

CHOCOLATE LOAF CAKE

Melt in double boiler:
2 squares chocolate
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons sugar
Butter the size of an egg

Add:
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon cream of tarter
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup milk

Add 2 unbeaten eggs. Beat until smooth. Bake in loaf pan at 275°F. for less than one hour. Serve from pan. Add Creamy Nut Icing (below).

Betty Biehl
Mertztown

CREAMY NUT ICING

½ cup shortening
2½ tablespoons cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
3 cups confectioner's sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts

Melt shortening over low heat. Remove from heat, blending flour and salt. Stir in milk slowly.

Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil for 1 minute. Mixture will look curdled. Stir in the confectioner's sugar. Set saucepan in bowl of cold water. Beat until consistency to spread. Beat in vanilla and chopped nuts.

Betty Biehl
Mertztown

GERMAN APPLE CAKE

1 cup liquid oil
3 eggs, beaten until frothy

Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 2 cups sugar. Blend well.

Add:
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Fold in 1 cup nuts and 4 cups sliced apples. Pour into greased and floured 9x13-inch pan. Bake 45 minutes at 350°F. If using tube pan, bake for 1 hour.

ICING

1½ tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup 10X sugar
3 ounces soft cream cheese

Blend well and spread on cake as soon as it's out of the oven.

Mrs. Belinda Myers
Dallastown

BLENDER DOUBLE FUDGE CAKE

¼ cup nuts
1 egg
3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk
3 envelopes (1 ounce each) premelted unsweetened chocolate
½ teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups flour
1⅓ cups sugar
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup semisweet chocolate pieces

Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour baking pan, 9x9x2 inches. Measure nuts into blender, chop on low speed. Set nuts aside. In order listed, measure remaining ingredients except chocolate pieces into blender.

Blend 30 seconds on high speed, stopping blender occasionally to scrape sides with rubber spatula. (Batter may be slightly lumpy.) Pour batter into pan.

Bake about 35 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Immediately sprinkle chocolate pieces over cake. Place baking sheet over pan so contained heat will soften chocolate pieces. Spread softened chocolate evenly over cake; sprinkle with reserved nuts. Serve warm.

Few things slide down as easily as a piece of cake. The Bonnie Butter Cake pictured here makes a quick, but tasty treat.

BONNIE BUTTER CAKE

⅔ cup butter or margarine, softened
1¾ cups sugar
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
2¾ cups flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups milk
French Silk Frosting (below)

Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour baking pan, 13x9x2 inches, or 3 round layer pans, 8x1½ inches. In large mixer bowl, mix butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla until fluffy. Beat 5 minutes on high speed, scraping bowl occasionally.

On low speed, mix in flour, baking powder and salt alternately with milk. Pour batter into pan(s).

Bake oblong 45 to 50 minutes, layers 30 to 35 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cake. Frost with French Silk Frosting.

FRENCH SILK FROSTING

2⅔ cups confectioner's sugar
⅔ cup soft butter
2 ounces melted unsweetened chocolate (cool)
¾ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons milk

In small mixer bowl, blend sugar, butter, chocolate and vanilla on low speed. Slowly add milk; beat until smooth.

JACK HORNER PRUNE CAKE

1 cup boiling water
1 cup cut-up uncooked prunes
2 cups flour
1½ cups sugar
1¼ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup salad oil
3 eggs
1 cup chopped nuts

This week's featured recipe comes from Thelma Yingling of Gettysburg. Thelma operates Yingling Implements, Inc., a job she assumed when her husband died in 1958.

In addition to her work in the implement business, Thelma enjoys crafts, especially crocheting and knitting. The recipe below for Apple Bread is one of her favorites and she often makes it for bake sales.

To learn more about Thelma and her role in the business world, see the story featuring her in this section.

Apple Bread

1 ½ cups cooking oil
3 eggs
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups flour
1 ½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup coconut
1 cup raisins
3 cups chopped apples, peeled

Mix all ingredients together well and pour into 3 small greased loaf pans, or 2 large loaf pans, greased. Bake at 350°F. for about 1 hour or until done.

Cake recipes

Pour boiling water over prunes; let stand 2 hours. Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour baking pan 13x9x2 inches. Into large mixer bowl, measure prune mixture and remaining ingredients. Blend 1 minute on low speed, scraping bowl constantly. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally. Pour batter into pan.

Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean.

VELVET CRUMB CAKE

1½ cups Bisquick baking mix
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup cold water or milk
2 tablespoons shortening
Broiled Topping (below)

Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour baking pan, 8x8x2 inches, or layer pan, 9x1½ inches. In large mixer bowl, blend all ingredients except Broiled Topping on low speed for ½ minute, scraping sides and bottom of bowl frequently. Beat 4 minutes on medium speed.

Pour into pan. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until top springs back when touched lightly. While warm, spread with Broiled Topping.

Broiled Topping

Mix 3 tablespoons soft butter, ⅓ cup brown sugar (packed), 2 tablespoons light cream, ½ cup coconut and ¼ cup chopped nuts. Set oven control at broil and/or 550°F. Broil cake 3 inches from heat about 3 minutes or until topping is brown. Watch carefully!

SWEET CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE

4 ounces sweet cooking chocolate
1 cup sugar
⅔ cup softened butter or margarine
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¾ cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup buttermilk
3 egg whites, beaten stiff

Combine chocolate with ⅓ cup water; stir over low heat until chocolate melts, then cool. Gradually add the sugar to the butter, creaming until light and fluffy. Beat in the egg yolks, one at a time.

Blend in vanilla and the chocolate mixture, set aside. Sift together flour soda and salt, and add to the creamed mixture alternately with the buttermilk, beating after each addition. Fold in the egg whites. Bake in two paper-lined pans at 350°F. for about 35 minutes. Fill and frost as desired.

BLUEBERRY CHEESECAKE

1¼ cups graham cracker crumbs (about 16)
¼ cup sugar
½ cup butter, softened
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cinnamon
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 15-ounce can blueberries, drained (reserve liquid)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Sweetened whipped cream

Heat oven to 300°F. Mix crumbs, ¼ cup sugar and the butter; press firmly and evenly in bottom of ungreased baking pan, 9x9x2 inches.

Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored; beat in ½ cup sugar, the cream cheese and vanilla until smooth. Pour over crumb mixture. Bake 30 minutes. Sprinkle cinnamon on top; cool.

In saucepan, mix ½ cup sugar and the cornstarch. Stir in reserved blueberry liquid and lemon juice. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in blueberries. Cool.

Pour over cream cheese mixture. Chill at least 8 hours. Serve with sweetened whipped cream.

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON CAKE

¾ cup boiling water
½ cup cocoa

Mix and cool.

Sift together:
1½ cups cake flour
1¾ cups sugar
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt

Make a while and add:
½ cup Wesson oil
8 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla

Add the cocoa mix. Beat well. Add the dry ingredients and beat again. In a large bowl beat together 8 egg whites and ½ teaspoon cream of tarter. Beat until very stiff. Add the cocoa mix and fold with a scraper. Put in tube pan and bake at 350°F. for 45 to 60 minutes.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As we had an extended period of warm weather in October, I decided to take advantage of it by going fishing.

One morning a man knocked on my door and presented me with a bag of nice fish all ready for the pan. He also informed me that the fish were biting the previous day and he was going to try his luck again. So I too decided to forget my work and get my fishing pole and find a quiet spot behind the barn.

In fact as I sat on a rock outcropping in the woods watching some thirty ducks paddling around on the Conestoga River, there were only two sounds that reminded me of modern technology. One was the big tank truck that came to pick up the milk and the other was the commuter plane overhead that travels between Lancaster and Philadelphia.

The neighbor's cows in the meadow across the way were black and white and so were some of the ducks as they have crossed with wild ducks that live on the river. A few even have blue-green feathers.

But to get back to my fishing story—they really were biting. In two hours I caught twelve fish and at least two got away. There were rock bass commonly known as sunfish and golden-bellied catfish. The problem was that my husband, Allen, had to skin the catfish for me after his evening work. I'm good at scaling and cleaning fish but not at skinning them.

I just found the bill for the first rod and reel that I bought in 1941. The rod was $1.15 and the reel cost $1.50. Even simple pleasures are much more expensive today.

Healthy breakfasts in a hurry!

Recently, we have heard a lot about changing our diet to avoid heart disease and cancer. One recommendation, often repeated, is to increase the complex carbohydrates in our diet by increasing the whole wheat flours and grains we eat. A delicious way to do this is to substitute high protein muffins for an eggs-and-bacon type breakfast.

Since a microwave can bake six muffins in two or three minutes, you can have this healthy breakfast in a hurry. Muffins baked in a microwave will be soft, moist, and tender, but will not brown. I think they are good, but not great! I cook them in the microwave when I'm in a hurry. However, I prefer the brown, crispier texture muffins get when I bake them in my range oven. I like to bake muffins ahead of time in my range oven, and freeze them. Then use the microwave to defrost and reheat them as needed for a meal or snack.

Defrost frozen muffins on high for 15 seconds per muffin then let them stand for a minute or two while you get the plates, etc. ready. Then warm them for another 10-15 seconds per muffin on high. Warming them in two steps lets the center thaw and warm without overcooking the edge. Cut and butter the muffins after the defrosting time if you want the butter melted.

If you are baking the muffins in the microwave, use a microsafe muffin pan, and line it with paper baking cups. The muffin pans with holes in the bottom let steam escape from around the paper. Muffin pans without holes can be used for baking or poaching eggs too. Remove the muffins from the pan as soon as they come out of the oven, and let stand and cool on a cake rack. If you don't, the muffins will get soggy around the sides from the condensed steam in the cups.

Here are two muffin recipes that I like. They make a fast, but healthy breakfast when combined with fresh fruit and milk or coffee, etc. Both recipes freeze and defrost well. Soyflour can be found in healthfood stores, and adds to the protein value of baked goods when combined with wheat flour. Sift soyflour if it is lumpy. If you are not familiar with using molasses, look for the "unsulphured" kind, it is sweeter than the "blackstrap" variety.

Quick Apple Muffins

2 cups Bisquick
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon wheat germ
1 tablespoon soy flour
2/3 cup milk
1 egg
1 cup chopped apple (1 large)
Cinnamon sugar (2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon) for topping, if desired

1. Combine dry ingredients in a mixing bowl. Beat egg into milk, and mix into dry ingredients just until moistened. Stir in apple.

2. To bake in a microwave: Line a microwave safe muffin pan with baking papers. Fill papers only ½ full, and sprinkle tops with cinnamon sugar. Bake six muffins at a time, on high for 2-2½ minutes, until the tops are almost dry. Remove to a rack immediately to stand and cool for a minute or two before serving.

3. To bake in a range or convection oven: Preheat oven to 375° F. Grease metal muffin pans, or line with baking papers. Fill 2/3 full, and bake for 12 to 15 minutes until lightly browned on top.

It takes a while to mix up this bran muffin recipe, but the muffins are delicious and the batter can be stored in the refrigerator for up to 4 weeks without spoiling. Makes 12.

Lani's Bran Muffins

1 cup water
2½ cups All Bran cereal, separated
1½ cups unbleached flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
½ cup wheat germ
¼ cup soy flour
½ cup sugar
2½ teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups buttermilk*
2 eggs
½ cup corn oil
½ cup molasses
1 cup raisins, chopped dates, or nuts, optional

* You may substitute "sour" milk in place of the buttermilk: put 2 tablespoons vinegar in a 2 cup measure cup and add regular milk to equal 2 cups.

1. Bring water to a boil (high for 3-4 minutes) in a small bowl or 2 cup measure. Stir in 1 cup All Bran cereal and set aside.

2. Mix the remaining bran cereal and the other dry ingredients together in a large bowl.

3. In a separate bowl combine milk, eggs, oil and molasses and beat until blended; stir in soaked bran cereal. Stir milk mixture into the dry ingredients, mixing well.

4. Refrigerate overnight before baking. If desired, stir in chopped raisins, dates, or nuts just before baking.

5. For microwave baking: (These muffins are better baked conventionally, but they can be baked in a microwave if necessary.) Fill muffin papers ½ full, and bake on high for 2½ to 3 minutes for 6 muffins, until the tops are almost dry.

6. For range or convection baking: Preheat oven to 400 degrees, and bake for 20 minutes.

Note: These times are for microwaves with 600-700 watts of power. If your oven has 500-600 W, add 10 seconds to each minute; for 400-500 W, add 20 seconds to each minute. Makes about 30.

I you have questions about any of Lani's recipes or about her column, you can write to her at Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

Clay tablets found at Tell Brak

WASHINGTON — Two clay tablets more than 5,000 years old, showing examples of a pictographic script that led to cuneiform writing, have been found at Tell Brak, an ancient site in northeastern Syria.

"They are unique and represent the earliest examples of a sort of communication that led to the cuneiform script and hence to writing as it is known today," says David Oates, the University of London archeologist who led the expedition that discovered the tablets.

One tablet holds a drawing of a sheep, the other a goat. Both contain a circular hole-like depression denoting the number 10.

PALACE CROWNS MOUND

Excavating near the top of the 150-foot-high mound at Tell Brak, Oates also found some important things from a later millennium–the remains of a Mitanni palace and throne room. On the ground floor of the building were two cuneiform tablets.

The founders of the Mitanni kingdom were Indo-Iranians from the northeast, one of several groups that overran Mesopotamia between 1700 and 1500 B.C. By 1400 B.C. the Mitanni ruled an empire that controlled Assyria and rivaled the Hittites. It extended across the northern plain that today is Syria and Iraq.

"Up until now neither a Mitanni city nor royal residence has ever been found," says Oates. "To find both, complete with a royal tablet, is quite extraordinary."

The royal tablet records a legal decision made in the court of Artashshumara, the Mitanni king, and contains his seal.

Commenting on the early pictographs, Oates, notes that similar but more stylized works showing just the heads of animals have previously been found in Uruk, an early Sumerian city in southern Mesopotamia.

"These two new finds are not only the first discovered in northern Mesopotamia," says Oates, "but they seem to be older because they show the whole animal instead of the more sophisticated versions from Uruk that showed only the heads."

The first pictographic signs, which were developed well before 3000 B.C., were scratched in damp clay. The Sumerian scribes used sharpened reeds. The resulting tablets were used mainly in trading. For instance, when a person shipped 10 head of sheep or cattle, he sent a crude bill of sale in clay with a pictographic symbol for cattle or sheep plus a sign for the number 10. The buyer responded with a similar receipt.

KEEPING TABS ON TAXES

Thus, ancient businessmen and the inevitable tax collectors could maintain their ledgers.

By 2500 B.C., Sumerian scribes had devised a more efficient script. A stylus with a blunt triangular tip could be manipulated to make cuneiform, or wedge-shaped, impressions in rapid succession. Clusters of such marks formed characters that were based on pictographs. The characters grew increasingly abstract.

When an unknown genius realized that the signs could also represent sounds, the art of writing was born.

The Sumerians were probably the world's first city dwellers. They founded numerous cities and towns that were nourished by the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and their tributaries.

After a city was destroyed by a pillaging army, the population tended to rebuild on the ruins because the water supply was nearby. Excavating a tell–a large mound covering the ruin of a city–is like slicing through layers of history. Each stratum with its embedded trove of artifacts offers a glimpse of events from one catastrophe to the next.

Brak, whose central mound covers more than 86 acres, is a good example. Oates believes people were attracted to the place as early as 6,000 B.C., but that it experienced its first flowering as a

HAVE FUN WITH VEGETABLES

Savor the flavor and garnish your meals with a sprig or a sprinkle. Eating right can be as tasty as you want to make it, so give yourself a nutritional edge. Cut down on saturated fats and salt, total calories that may negatively affect your health. Eat more vegetables and add vitamins and fiber to your diet.

Fiber, found in the cell wall of plants, absorbs water and eases the passage of food through the digestive tract. Vegetables contain varying amounts of cellulose, hemicellulose and lingin, so they differ in fiber content. For example, carrots and cabbage add more bulk to a diet than do peas and potatoes.

Serve vegetables with a touch of crunch. Steam or stir-fry for tendercrisp texture that preserves natural nutrition. Try new combinations like carrots and celery or perk of plain cabbage with tomatoes and green pepper. Make a salad with green beans; sprinkle nutmeg on broccoli. Garnish a soup with the curl of a carrot.

Deep green vegetables provide vitamin A; dark yellow ones do, too. So add variety to meals. You might consider collard greens, winter squash or sweet potatoes as substitutes for carrots.

Fruits and vegetables make healthy partners. Use them together in salads and side dishes. Try red cabbage and apples for a sweet-sour sensation full of vitamin C.

Vegetables are naturally low in calories. Your family will benefit by eating them with herbs and spices instead of butter, salt or sauce. Fresh mint, rosemary and chervil, basil, chives and bay leaf are just a few of the zesty tastes you can keep bottled in your cupboard.

Combined with seasonings and cooked to taste, vegetables can become family favorites rather than an ambiguous mound on the side of a plate. Dare to be different. Stir-fry carrots, cabbage and onion. It's an easy vegetable combination you can serve tonight.

TIPS ON GIFT GIVING

The Christmas shopping season is approaching rapidly. Remember, a gift you give should add excitement – something that the receiver will cherish and appreciate. And yet a gift shouldn't noticeably dent your bank account.

You have gifts to buy all during the year. That's why you need to thoughtfully plan them. Christmas gifts are the ones that often make one "go for broke." Start shopping and making items early if you want to put your personality and originality in giving. Know the interests and personality of the person to whom you're giving the item. This will help you select appropriate gifts. Be original; put some of you in the gift. This is more important than money.

Let your special talents and skills show as you plan and make gifts. There's no limit to gifts you can make of grow. Something that comes from your garden, kitchen, workshop, or sewing room is always appreciated.

Something you make yourself has value not measured in money. Often a personalized gift such as initialed stationery or recipe cards are a real boost to a person's ego.

Plan, prepare, and personalize your gifts so you give gifts with flair. And remember, you don't have to spend a lot of money.

commerical and religious center about 2,000 years later.

Excavated some time ago, the "Eye Temple," one of the buildings from this period, yielded thousands of small plaques fashioned in human form with exaggerated eyes. Most of the plaques are incised, but in a few cases–called "spectacle idols"–the eye sockets are pierced. Oates recently found one of these in the ruins of a house near the temple.

CONTROLLED TRADE ROUTE

In another level of the tell, Oates found a decorated copper ax and harness ring dating from about 2250 B.C., a time when the city served as a provincial capital of the first Mesopotamian Empire and was ruled by kings in Akkad. A metal-working center at the time, Brak also controlled a major copper trade route from eastern Anatolia to southern Mesopotamia.

Besides the artifacts, Oates discovered private houses and two major public buildings dating from the Akkad period. Soon he hopes to find written archives that will shed new light on the period.

The turmoil that surrounded Brak for centuries didn't bring about its downfall, however. Weather and climate accomplished what conquering armies never could--the total abandonment of the site. A prolonged drought forced people from the fields. The city eventually was abandoned. By about 1300 B.C., bedouin herders claimed the precincts where royal decrees had once been issued.

Halloween was orange-letter day

NEWARK, Del. — Halloween was an orange-letter day for Delaware 4-H'ers. It started back in June, when 1,700 school-age children received pumpkin seeds and fertilizer from 4-H, along with planting instructions.

During the summer, these pumpkin growers received monthly pumpkin newsletters with growing instructions, recipes and other interesting information. Kids in Kent County also participate in growing pumpkins. Between both counties, nearly 2,500 children received pumpkin seeds.

The pumpkin growers from New Castle County had a chance to display the fruits of their labors recently at the Agway Newark Store. Agway mascot, "Big Red," provided refreshments and prizes during the contest.

The "big winner was Jordan Bollin of Commodore McDonough School, who grew a 67-pound pumpkin, topping the 50-pound pumpkin grown in the first year of the contest by Kim Grebe of Bear.

Amy Webb of Dover grew the largest 4-H pumpkin in the state. Her Big Max weighed in at 132 pounds, easily outdistancing a second-place, 105-pound pumpkin. Chris Brown, also of Commodore McDonough, had the best decorated entry in the "Cheer-a-Child" class. The 28 entries in this class were donated by the pumpkin growers to Our Lady of Grace Orphanage.

Holy Angels School in Newark produced four winning entries. Lisa Twardus had the pumpkin with the largest circumference (49 inches) and the smallest. Mark and Jennifer Timko had the best Decorated 4-H pumpkin and Michelle Schwartz had the best overall pumpkin judged in quality.

Erica Jackson of H.B. Du Pont School had the Most Unusually-Shaped pumpkin. It was grown through a fence which had to be cut apart to free the pumpkin. Ellen Garrett had the Best Carved pumpkin.

The Best Decorated pumpkin award went to John Mitchell of White Oak 4-H Club and A.I. DuPont High School. Using hundreds of toothpicks, John created a porcupine pumpkin.

Halloween is a time of community service for many 4-H'ers. In addition to the 28 pumpkins headed to the orphanage, the Highlanders 4-H club decorated and donated 29 pumpkins to A.I.DuPont Institute. The Blackbird 4-H club donated 40 pumpkins to the Kent Convalescent Home and the Fantastics 4-H club donated pumpkins to the Episcopal Church Home and to Union Hospital in Elkton.

Barbara Mummert: a woman making it in a man's world

BY DONNA McCONAUGHEY
Staff Correspondent

YORK — We all face crises at one time or another. Sometimes it seems that farm folks face more than the "normal" share of crises. Many times people come away much stronger for having to face a difficult situation; other times they walk away broken and defeated.

One crisis that many farm women across the nation must face is widowhood. It is never easy. But, consider what you would do as a farm wife in your early thirties facing widowhood with four children from age 16 to one year old.

That is exactly what Barbara Mummert of York County confronted eight years ago. Barbara is a survivor. She and her family have not only survived, they have grown strong and close together.

Today, they do not regret their decision to keep the farm. In fact, if Barbara had any doubts, they have been erased when her two oldest sons said to this reporter: "Where would we be today if mom had not kept the farm? We wouldn't be able to start out on our own today. That would be real hard since we liked it so much as teenagers."

The Mummert family has continued the reputation their father earned as a breeder of prize-winning Landrace and Duroc hogs. Harold "Butch" Mummert began raising hogs with a few Berkshire sows. He purchased his first Landrace when he went to a consignment sale with Barbara's uncle. Barbara liked the hogs, but "wasn't that excited about them."

Butch was determined to get her in the hog business, though. One year after he began raising Landrace he took the truck to work with him and came home late. He came in the house and was "being real nice" to her.

He said, "Guess what I got you on the way home from work?" Like most farm wives she pictured furniture or appliances that she needed. But as is often the case, Barbara found instead that the truck contained livestock. Butch had bought her a Landrace gilt and registered it in her name. But it worked; she was hooked on hogs.

Butch worked worked away from the farm during the day and left Barbara in charge of the operation. She also peddled vegetables and meat when her two oldest children were small to supplement their income. Through this hard work they were able to purchase a small farm and eventually build a new home.

When they first moved to the farm, they lived in a house trailer they owned and the first building to go up on the farm was a hog barn. The house was built almost entirely by Butch and Barbara. They moved in on Christmas eve.

John, Harold, and Barbara look over the guilts they will enter in the 1985 Farm Show. They have won several championships there.

Barbara remembers that Christmas well. They were laying carpet on Christmas eve and she fell asleep while trying to put the carpet down. She awoke to find that the carpet still needed finished, and they had toys to assemble before morning.

Although their hog operation was not large in size, it was high in quality. They have won awards at the Landrace Winter Conference in North Carolina, including champion and reserve champion bred gilts. They also showed the champion bred gilt at the National Summer Conference in Springfield, Ill.

It was at the Summer Conference that Butch was first sick. He was so ill that he could not stand for part of the show. When they returned home, he was diagnosed with cancer and given six months to live.

Butch lived only three months after he learned of the cancer. That three months was spent at home trying to help his family plan for the future. Butch insisted on going to all the county fairs he had shown at to say good-bye to his friends and colleagues.

However, there was one area that Butch never could bring himself to turn over to the family. His hogs. He transferred property, the truck, and everything else, but he could not face giving up his hogs. His family accepted this but had to deal with their lack of knowledge after his death.

Although they knew how to care for the hogs, they had no idea how to do the paperwork necessary to maintain a purebred herd. John, the oldest son, learned how to register the hogs by calling people to ask questions and by reading books.

At the time Butch died they had over 200 hogs. Barbara's first action after the funeral was to call her family to the kitchen, where they sat down together and looked at what they had. "I laid it all out in front of them. They knew what we had financially, what it would take for us to keep the farm going, and that we had to work together if were to do this."

They had always worked together as a family and the children had each had their own chores. Barbara recommends that other families faced with this decision make it a family decision. This encourages everyone to work together for the best of the family. The Mummerts decided to cut their hog herd to about 100 head, a size they felt they could manage.

Barbara then faced the decision of returning to work off the farm. With a small child, she didn't feel she could leave her family. So they determined to live on the social security the family would get. This is another decision Barbara does not regret. She feels her presence

(Turn to Page B17)

Barbara Mummert has led her family to become a strong farm family as they have continued their purebred hog operation after the death of her husband. The Mummert family consists of Todd and Barbara Sue (on table) and Harold and John (in back).

Carbon Copies

Creativity! I was reminded of this as I sat down with four children (ages 4-13) to decorate pumpkin cookies. I had prepared the cookies and icing and prepared the decorator bags so everything would be just right for the project. However, before I got a sample cookie decorated the way I thought it should be done, the children were well under way, creating their own versions of decorated pumpkin cookies. Each child had his own creative energies to bestow on this project. Instead of four dozen "carbon copies," we had an interesting display of creativity. (And they tasted good, too!)

All individuals, no matter the age, have creative energies. You may know someone who you consider to be very creative. Sometimes in comparing ourselves to these individuals we feel that we do not have any creativity. Actually, we are all unique individuals and we all have unique ways of expressing our creativity. The purpose of creativity is to learn, grow, and enjoy, and to express love and beauty, to share with others.

I don't think anyone would knowingly swap an original in favor of a copy, yet adults can stifle the original creativity in their children in favor of a "carbon copy" of their own interpretations of life.

Parents have always had the responsibility to gently mold their children as they mature. Today's parents have an even greater responsibility to their children in seeing to it that they remain flexible and capable of change to meet the challenges of the future. Here are some things that parents can do to encourage creativity.

First, provide materials or space. These do not have to be expensive. Homemade play dough and finger paints work as well as those you purchase. Secondly, have suggestions ready of activities. Action is the key word here as children learn by doing. Then, be interested. Too much guidance can be hampering. Children need freedom to express their ideas, but this doesn't mean complete freedom. Limitations and rules are needed, too.

Provide vivid experiences in your child's life. Take your child for a walk and talk about the things you see. Emphasize how different things feel: the sun, the wind, the grass. Also, talk about size, smell and color.

As children draw or paint they sometimes paint feelings or experiment to see what happens. If you are puzzled about the finished product, avoid the comment, "What is that?" Instead try asking your child to "tell me about your picture."

Unless we want carbon copies of ourselves, we need to encourage the natural creativity of each child by allowing him to think for himself and feel free to express his own ideas. As millions of snow flakes each have their own unique, incomparable beauty, so each expression of creativity — however small or simple — is a ray of love expressing its own unique beauty.

Lebanon County honors 4-H'ers at Achievement night

BY DONNA McCONAUGHEY
Staff Correspondent

LEBANON — Fall is traditionally the time to recognize the accomplishments of 4-H'ers during county 4-H achievement night programs. Lebanon County's Achievement Night was held recently at Lebanon Valley College.

As 4-H'ers proudly walked to the front of the auditorium to claim their awards, many parents reflected on the hard work and persistence invested to earn the honor.

The highlight of the evening was the naming of the Lebanon County Outstanding 4-H'ers. Deb Bolles of Mt. Zion and Damian Shiner of Myerstown received this highest county honor based on the quality and variety of their 4-H activities over the years.

The 4-H records of these young people are excellent and qualified them as recipients of scholarships sponsored by People's National Bank of Lebanon. Deb received the $250 agriculture scholarship and Dan received the $250 home economics scholarship. Dan also received recognition as the state winner of the Allen Baker Scholarship.

The Susan Heilinger Werner Memorial Award was presented to Marcy Barnhart of Palmyra. This award is given to a 4-H dairy member who is selected on the basis of involvement in the 4-H dairy program, and in local, county, state and national 4-H activities, in leadership, responsibility, and future goals in the dairy industry.

Marcy is the daughter of Glenn and Gail Barnhart, who have a Holstein herd of approximately 40 cows. She is a freshmen student in the Northern Lebanon school district. Marcy has participated in county and district dairy shows and has been active in dairy judging competition. Marcy placed eighth in the All-American Dairy Judging Contest at Harrisburg two years ago. "Through 4-H I've developed self-assurance and pride in myself and in my accomplishments," said Marcy.

Also honored were "Club's Outstanding 4-H'ers" as selected by club leaders on the basis of project work and involvement. Receiving this honor were: Ann Fale-Avon-East Lebanon; Keith Blauch-Bellegrove Clovers; Betsy Schmuck-Country LA Lads and Lassies; Esther Brown and Daryl Hackman-Fort Zellers; Jean Day-

Ken Winebark, county extension agent, presented the Susan Heilinger Werner Memorial Award to Marcy Barnhart of Palmyra.

Lebanon Co. holds 4-H Dairy Banquet

BY SUZANNE KEENE

ONO — Lebanon County dairy clubs gathered at the Ono Firehall on Nov. 2 to recognize their outstanding members and to thank their leaders.

After enjoying a covered dish meal, the 4-H'ers and their families were treated to a presentation by Lebanon County dairy princess Ellen Hanson, who talked about "Daisy — The REAL Thing."

Later in the evening Nelson Bomgardner was recognized as the county's Outstanding Dairy Judge. "Nelson did really quite well all season long," extension 4-H agent Ken Winebark said.

4-H'ers Krista Hetrick, Heather Hernley and Angela Bollinger were recognized for taking top placings in the County National Awards Program.

Marcy Barnhart received the Susan Heilinger Werner Memorial Award, a cash award of $100 and a certificate.

Anndrea Fisher and Becky Sonnen, champion and reserve champion fitters at the fair, and Nelson Bomgardener and Kathy Mase, champion and reserve champion showmen, were recognized for their work.

Outstanding Rookies for the year were Kendra Mase, from the NoSoAnn Club, Debra Shuey, from the Norlebco Club, and Karen Heilinger from the Elco Club.

Ellen Hanson, NoSoAnn Club; Lynette Shuey, Norlebco Club; and Becky Sonnen, Elco Club, received awards for their outstanding record books.

In an effort to recruit members for a dairy bowl team next year, Sue Bomberger, who will coach the team, led two teams of 4-H'ers and parents through a simulated contest. The county has never had a dairy bowl team in the past, but recently purchased a buzzar system and hopes to have a team go to regional competition next year.

Extension 4-H Agent Ken Winebark congratulates Nelson Bomgardner, the county's outstanding dairy juudge for the year.

Becky Sonnen, Lynette Shuey and Ellen Hanson received plaques for their outstanding record books during the Lebanon County 4-H Dairy Banquet.

Holiday Cookie Contest

HARRISBURG — Your yuletide season's finest Christmas cookies can be showcased in the "Great Holiday Cookie Contest," scheduled for Nov. 26 and Nov. 29 in the Farm Show Complex.

The contest, held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Christmas Show, Nov. 26 through Dec. 2, is open to all Pennsylvania residents. According to entry rules, 12 cookies should be brought to the show on a disposable plate accomanied by a three by five-inch card listing the name, address and phone number of the contestant, plus recipe ingredients. If affiliated with a group, please list the group name.

Cookies are judged on ease of preparation, originality and taste. Prizes are as follows. For Monday, Nov. 26: $50 first; $30 second; and $20 third. The first prize recipient on Nov. 29 receives $40; second prize $25; and $15 third prize.

Contestants should arrive at the show between 10 a.m. and noon. Judging begins at noon and winners are announced at 3 p.m. The contest is co-sponsored by Mahoney and Mahoney, Inc., of Holmes, Pa. and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

In addition to the contest, the Pennsylvania Christmas Show also features a host of holiday activities, including construction of a life-size "Christmas Village" within the complex; entertainment by the Pennsylvania Youth Ballet and other organizations; and displays and sales of holiday gift items and much more.

at home provided the security and stability that her children needed at this time.

Barbara had been involved in all aspects of the farming operation with her husband. This left her with the knowledge and skills she needed, but it was hard for her to function independently when she had been used to "doing everything together."

Barbara is very candid and open in reflecting on her early months of widowhood. She believes that what she has learned and experienced may help someone else to cope with this crisis.

One of the most difficult aspects was dealing with her children's reactions to their father's death. The teen-agers had the most difficult adjustment. John was 16 and Harold was 14. The boys had just begun a phase of being "buddies" with their father when he died. John found this extremely difficult to handle. He reacted with anger which he turned into constructive energy as he took over the "man" of the farm.

Describing that time today, John says: "You learn to grow up fast, and it is scary." John learned to run the farm equipment and a neighbor taught him how to plow and to do the fieldwork.

While John expressed his anger outwardly, Harold, then 14, withdrew. He would go to his room and came out only when had to do something. Harold chose to deny his father's death for some time. He was always waiting for his dad to come down the road or in from the barn.

Todd, who was 7, reacted by becoming "devilish." Barbara Sue was only one year old. She had been her "daddy's girl."

Barbara responded to these reactions by supporting all her children in their coping mechanisms and encouraging them to talk with her. She also reinforced continually that they were a family and would survive this together.

In addition to losing their father, Butch's father had passed away only a few months before Butch. He too had cancer. The children faced the loss of both father and grandfather.

The most difficult part of this crisis for Barbara was being a single woman in "a man's world." "You find out who your real friends are," is Barbara's summary of the situation. She was surprised to find out that some of her "friends" were not around when she desperately needed them and other people surprised her with their support.

At a time when she needed support, assistance, and mostly understanding as she adapted to a new role, these things seemed hard to find in many settings. One of the best sources of support was other Landrace breeders.

She received cards, letters, and even money from across the nation. These were the people John turned to when he had to learn the paperwork involved in a purebred operation.

Throughout Pennsylvania other hog breeders supported her too. Probably the most difficult thing she had to deal with were the wives of many of these breeders. "They didn't seem to want you out there with their men. The last thing I wanted at that time was their husbands. I only wanted to be treated like any other hog breeder and to have some respect."

Barbara found a lot of social stigmas to deal with. She was no longer invited to dances or other people's homes. She had many people look at John and react as though he were her husband and she had married a younger man.

One of the most difficult situations was when she went to purchase a new truck a few years

3 Pa. heifers top KILE Jr. Breeding Cattle Show

BY JACK HUBLEY

HARRISBURG — A trio of young Pennsylvania exhibitors accounted for three of the seven grand champion heifers named at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition's Junior Breeding Cattle Show last Sunday. York County exhibitors led the way, taking grand champion honors in both the Chianina and Simmental Shows.

Angus competition kicked off the breed show, with judge Herman Purdy of Alexandria, Pa., going to Ohio exhibitor Molly Jane Cooper for his champion. Cooper, 15, paraded her stylish heifer, PVF Barbaramere 983, to the number-one spot only a month after taking top junior show honors at the Eastern National Livestock Show in Timonium, Md. A Pine Drive Big Sky daughter, Cooper's heifer was also champion of the Bred and Owned division.

Right behind Miss Cooper was Pa. exhibitor Diane Krause with the reserve champion female, DSK Grand Erica 683. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Krause of Slatington, Miss Krause also took reserve Bred and Owned honors with her Power Play daughter.

The Charolais Show belonged to Pennsylvania, with Crystal Clutter of Prosperity, and Kent Fisher of Oley, taking grand and reserve honors, respectively. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clutter, Miss Clutter, took grand champion honors with Riverwood Streamline F429516, a Wha-Cha sired female that remains undefeated during the 1984 show season.

The show's reserve champion Charolais was RCC Queen Victoria 4243, owned by Kent Fisher. Sired by Sir Stonedell King Jr. 029, Victoria was named champion at Timonium's Eastern National last month. Fisher also exhibited KILE's calf champion, out of the same bull.

Top honors in the Simmental Show went to Ms. Prime Time Annette, shown by Joseph Druck, 15, of Dallastown. A Prime Time daughter, Druck's 4-H project heifer also took first-place in the Bred and Owned division.

At reserve was Circle B Miss 1R, shown by Corby Hendrickson of Winchester, Ind.

Another York Countian, Jamie Kohr, won the Chianina Show with her leggy fullblood heifer, Lauxmont Lacey J. An Ino daughter, Kohr's heifer maintains an unblemished show career, logging championship honors at the Northeast Region Chianina Field Day, the York Fair, and the Eastern National Livestock Show. Miss Kohr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Kohr of York.

At the reserve spot was Robyn Davis of Lewistown, Ohio, with her American Purebred Chianina female, HVF Ms Bronze Lady.

Both champion and reserve champion Polled Hereford titles went to Maryland exhibitors, with Laura Tessier of Laytonsville, exhibiting the show's top female, PRL536 Cherry 757R. Sired by the celebrated bull, Driver, Tessier's heifer was also this year's champion junior heifer at the Eastern National.

The reserve champion female was Ridge Sunset Showgirl, exhibited by Michael Cummings of Westminster, Md. Sired by the family's bull, GS Flagwaver 82M, Showgirl was also named champion of the Bred and Owned division.

Ohio and Pa. exhibitors shared top honors in the Hereford Show, with a heifer owned by Diane Moody of New Concord, Ohio, taking grand champion laurels. Exhibited by Cheryl Hampton, Moody's heifer also placed first in the Bred and Owned division.

At reserve was Richard Kralj of Meadville, Pa., with his heifer, R.F. Miss Dominette.

Both champion and reserve honors in the Shorthorn Show went to the McLaughlin family of Woodsfield, Ohio. Champion female was SH Miss Marjorie 83. Exhibited by Edward McLaughlin, the top heifer is a CU Gator daughter who won her class at the National Junior Shorthorn Show held in Louisville in July.

Following are the results of the show:

Barbara Mummert

ago. She had John with her, but found very few dealers would deal seriously with a woman, especially when they found out she wanted a four-wheel drive equipped to pull a trailer. One experience was so bad that she walked out of the dealership.

Financial independence wasn't easy either. She had never had a loan in her own name and there were no laws to encourage fair lending practices. She was also involved in a right-of-way lawsuit regarding their property at the time of Butch's death.

One experience sticks in Barbara's mind as a perfect example of what she faced every day. Two men came to her farm to purchase a boar. They tried to buy him for a very low price, as had many buyers since Butch's death.

After finally agreeing on a price they asked, "Who's going to load him?" They then offered to load the boar if she would take less money. She just looked at them and said she and her son would load the hog.

While she did just that, one guy stood there and laughed, while the other seemed shocked. Barbara said there was a moment at the top of the loading chute when she thought the boar might turn around, but she just kept thinking "I'll show them" and the boar went right on the truck.

Of all the businesses Barbara dealt with, the feed mill treated her "normally." They were supportive and treated her as a competent farmer. In fact, this helped her to have the strength to face the other businessmen, she said.

"I've gotten tougher through this. I am as good as any man, and I can take my punches with the best of them. I don't get worked up by the reactions now. I've come to expect to be treated badly sometimes and to have to deal with the wives of some of the men I deal with." Barbara feels this is what she has gained through this experience. "It is good to win in a man's world — to know that you can."

Barbara's advice to all women is to get involved in the family's farm operation. "At least be aware of the financial aspects; that is critical to your success," she advises.

Barbara has some advice for newly-widowed farm wives too. "Sit down with your children and discuss the situation. Pay your bills together; let them help with the decisions to buy and sell. Many people will tell you that 'you can't do it,' (Barbara's father told her that), but if it is what you and your family want, stick to it. Devote quality time to your family. Most of all, talk to each other."

Barbara believes the most important advice she can give is: "Don't do anything for two months. Stay that long and try it and to get your head clear to make good decisions."

The Mummert family continues to show at Landrace shows throughout the nation. They have captured many Farm Show championships. John and Harold work in a furniture factory and farm part time. They both plan to stay involved in agriculture.

Barbara has a male friend who is very supportive of her family and their hog business. She is involved in many craft activities and loves to take her children hunting and fishing. Barbara has always been an "outdoors person," but was not involved in hunting with her children until Butch died.

The family plans their vacations so that someone is always home to take care of the farm. The boys have been encouraged to bring their girlfriends home with them to become involved in an aspect of their lives that is very important. As the children have grown to become adults, they have stayed committed to the family.

Future plans include purchasing or renting more land and continuing in raising and showing Landrace hogs.

The Mummerts received a plaque from the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders Co-op in honor of Harold which reads, "In memory of Harold Mummert, who over the years has gained the respect of every purebred swine breeder for his accomplishments."

Certainly if you talk with Pennsylvania swine breeders today they would say Barbara Mummert and her family have also earned this destinction. They are a family who has gained the respect of many people.

Women in agriculture — the road has not been easy, but the rewards have been and continue to be great. As Barbara says, "Don't give up — you can make it in a man's world."

Insects cause explosions

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Insect-produced dust increases the potential fo grain dust explosions by adding to the existing dust load at grain-handling facilities.

Hobart P. Boles, an entomologist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, says lesser grain borers and rice weevils, the main dust producers, are the most damaging insects in stored grain in the hard red winter wheat-growing areas.

Boles and engineer Charles R. Martin, both at the research agency's U.S. Grain Marketing Research Laboratory, Manhattan, infested wheat samples with lesser grain borer and rice weevil adults and tested the explosion potential of the dust created by the insects.

Amounts of kernel fragments, starch granules and fecal pellets collected were less than the actual amounts present in the grain because they did not include the "hidden" dust that larvae produce as they develop within the kernels.

"The insects pack these pieces into the space they excavate around themselves," Boles says, "and the material is not released until the emerging progeny cuts through the kernel wall."

Boles and Martin found that one lesser grain borer could turn one tenth of a gram of grain into dust in 56 days. At that rate, bin infestation from this insect would increase the total fine dust load in stored grain by 83.3 percent in 56 days.

Stored-grain insects ar divided into two groups. The inside feeders include the lesser grain borer, rice, granary and maize weevil and the Angoumois grain moth. Larvae develop within the kernel and comprise the hidden infestation in a grain mass. Surface feeders are red and confused flour beetles, saw-toothed grain beetles, flat and rust grain beetles, cadelles and Indian meal moths. Adults and larvae feed on grain dust or kernels broken during handling or on particles from the inside feeders.

Boles says the explosibility of insect-gererated dust is similar to that of clean grain dust of the same size. The most explosive elements are the fine grain dust and the starch particles. Fine dust comprises 60 percent of normal grain dust and plays an important role in dust explosions, he says.

The family farm is the backbone of agriculture

At Hamilton Bank one of our primary objectives is to serve, and help preserve, the family farm

We still believe that agriculture is the backbone of America, and the family farm is the cornerstone of agriculture in our area

That's why we have developed a complete range of financing, credit, trust and estate services — all designed to help you — the family farmer — fulfill your obligations

With the value of farm production in our area increasing every year, the need for capital continues to rise along with it We are here, and will continue to be here, to help you meet that need

When we work together, through a relationship of mutual trust, we can all continue to move ahead We can continue to keep agriculture strong

Champions named at KILE junior breeding sheep shows

BY WENDY WEHR

HARRISBURG — Junior sheep breeders from across Pennsylvania and the surrounding states found it worth their while to participate in KILE on Sunday in Harrisburg. As the junior breeding sheep shows went on all day, more than 15 champion exhibitors were named for the six different breeds shown.

The Dorset show offered the stiffest competition for the juniors, but Margaret Herr, of Narvon handily won three of the four championships. A winner in other KILE competition this week, Herr picked up the titles of champion and reserve champion ewe, as well as the reserve champion ram.

Vying for the champion ewe, the Lancaster countian edged out Billy and Jimmy Wade, of Greenville, Va, last year's champions in the Dorset competition. But the Wade brothers did hold onto their champion ram title in this Sunday's show.

Another Pennsylvania junior picked up the champion ewe title in the Suffolk breed show. This was a first time win for Becky Black, Avella. The 17-year-old Washington County FFA and 4-H member was pleased with her success, especially since this was her first year of exhibiting at KILE.

Other Suffolk champions were shown by Maryland juniors. Greg Hevner, of Keymar, Md., exhibited the champion ram. Matthew McFann and Karen Fleishell, both of Woodbine, Md., showed the reserve champion ram and reserve champion ewe, respectively.

At the conclusion of the Southdown and Shropshire shows, some more Pennsylvanians were found in the winners' circle. Joyce Harpster of Boalsburg, exhibited the champion Shropshire ewe.

Jeff Bricker, Carlisle, and Matthew and Arlisa Snavely, Lancaster, brought the reserve champions into the show ring. Jeff exhibited the reserve ram and the Snavely siblings had the reserve ewe. Jeff Bricker and Arlisa Snavely both were winners in last year's show as well.

Deanna Stumbo, Honeoye, N.Y., showed the champion rams in both the Shropshire and Southdown breeds.

The champion Southdown ewe came from the Lehigh County FFA flock. This is the first year on the show string for the FFA'ers, so earning the KILE title was a pleasant surprise for them.

Reserve winners in the Southdown competition were Peggy McCrumb, Mars, and Suzan Falvey, Bedford.

Hampshire competition was dominated by Rebecca Hope, Knoxville, Md. She walked away with the champion and reserve champion ewe, and reserve champion ram titles, an exact repeat of her wins at last year's show. The 13-year-old daughter of Betty and Marvin Hope, Rebecca has also picked up championship titles in the open breeding sheep shows.

Honey Hill Hampshires, Pittstown, N.J. exhibited the champion Hampshire ram.

The Oxford show also ended with only two exhibitors taking the championship titles. Kurt and Walt Johnson, Alliance, Ohio, showed the champion ram and ewe, as well as the reserve champion ewe. The only other exhibitor to capture a title, the reserve champion ram, was Anita Stoddard of Quarry Hill Farm, Kingston, N.Y.

Judge for the KILE junior breeding sheep show was Jim Westhaven, a Dorset and Oxford breeder from Lancaster, Ohio.

Following are the top three placings from each class of the junior breeding sheep shows.

The champion Southdown ewe came from the Lehigh County FFA flock. FFA member Aaron Humes exhibited the chapter's winner.

Lead-Line, sheep to shawl & Queen competition add color to KILE

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

HARRISBURG — Color and glamor dominated the KILE schedule last Saturday when lead-line and shawl competition, plus the crowning of a new Pennsylvania queen moved into the spotlight of the sheep arena.

A large contingent of some two dozen lead-line competitors paraded both their well-groomed animals and wool wardrobes before the judges, who selected Valerie Kerr, of R1 Carmichaels, as the winner.

And to keep abreast of the times, the name of the competition will need to be changed deleting the gender designation of "Ladies Lead Line." For among the competitors was a lone youthful male, showing that "barriers" in agriculture continue to fall, providing equal opportunity for all.

Other top 10 finishers in the competition, from second through 10th, included Jennifer Mawhinney, R2 Waynesburg; Melissa Dale Wilson, R2 Greenwood; Roberta Foreman, R2 Meadville; Susan Garlick, R1 Augusta, N.J.; Michelle Mylin, R6 Manheim; Tricia Musser, Elizabethtown; Pam Kerr, R1 Carmichaels; Jennifer Hoke, R3 Hanover; and Susan McClellan, R2 Saegertown.

Top Sheep to Shawl team in the two-team Northeast Regional Contest was the Pick-A-Way Spinners of Berks County. Members of the team are Sue Hollowbush, Marna Mackay, Shirley Waid, Candy Franklin and Randy Spitzel.

Despite the frigid temperatures in the Farm Show Complex last Saturday morning, which affected the lanolin in the fleece, they completed an 80 by 21-inch hyacant and sand shawl with cream Romney fleece in two hours and 55 minutes. The shawl brought $90 at auction.

Second-place team was the Butler County Pedalers, who include Barbara Homison, Linda Gross, Connie Haswell, Blanche Hall and Scott Longdon. Their shawl was a salmon and medium blue piece with a special slit, giving a fan appearance when worn. It brought $70 at auction.

New Pa. Lamb and Wool Queen, is 18-year-old Peggy McCrumb, of Mars, Butler County, daughter of Bob and Sally McCrumb. She raises Southdowns, while her parents also have Merinos and Shropshires.

She currently attends Lyons Business School and works for Dr. J. Robert Brown, VMD. She has participated in both 4-H and FFA.

Runnerup in the contest was Mary Jane Appel, of Washington County.

Peggy succeeds Amy Sheeter, of Washington County, who has served as Lamb and Wool Queen promoting her industry during the past year. The contest is sponsored by the Pa. Growers Assn. in coop and Wool PDA.

New Pa. Lamb and Wool Queen, Peggy McCrumb, right, of Mars, Butler County, is shown with last year's queen, Amy Sheeter, Washington County.

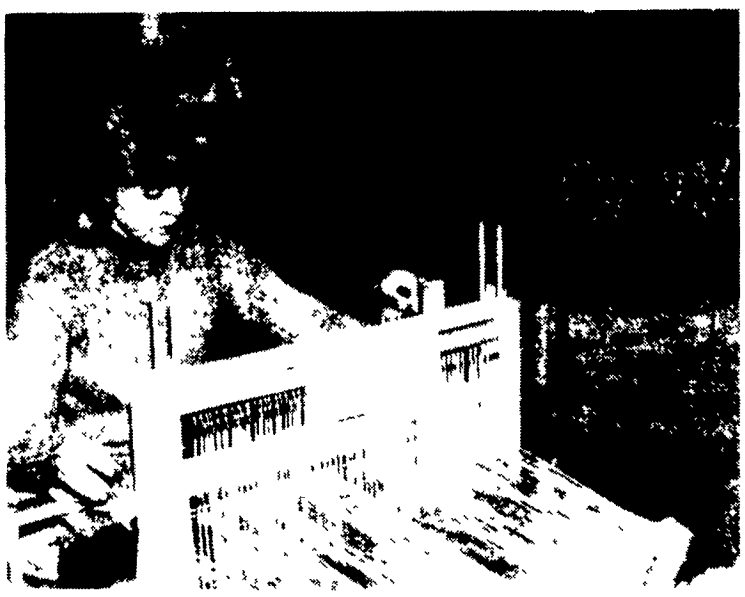
Winner of KILE lead-line competition is Valerie Kerr, of R1 Charmichaels.

Two-dozen competitors in lead-line competition more than fill arena and include one male participant.



Pick-A-Way Spinners of Berks County won the Sheep to Shawl competition at KILE. Shown here are Candy Franklin, weaver; and Marna Mackay, spinner.

Berks Co. plans farm City Week

Berks County is planning two big events to help celebrate National Farm-City Week, Nov. 16-22.

A farm-city banquet will be held on Nov. 15 at 6:30 p.m. in the Berks County 4-H Community Center in Bern Township. Judging contests will be held before the meal and reports from individuals who participated in a farmer-businessman exchange will follow the meal.

Farm tours will be conducted on Nov. 17 and 18 from 1 to 5 p.m. Berks County farmers are opening their businesses to the public and trying to build a bridge of understanding with their city neighbors.

Farm-City week is a week-long series of events aimed at bringing about better understanding between the urban and rural segments of society, and to increase the knowledge and appreciation of the American way of life.

It is an activity which has caught the imagination of farm, business, governmental and lay leaders alike.

The necessity of closing the breach in understanding between the rural and urban segments of the American economy is a very real one. Farm-City Week has taken the lead in closing this breach through a concentrated exchange of ideas and information and through widespread "get acquainted" affairs between farm and city folks.

Lebanon Co. 4-H Achievement Night

Jonestown Bake and Eat; Kelly Heisey-Livestock Club; Dottie Connor-Mill Acres; Damian Shiner and Larissa Smith-Myerstown Raiders; Lisa Hammer-Schaefferstown; and Ellen Hanson-South Mountain.

Honor 4-Her's, recognition for young members of the county 4-H program, were also named. Members honored were: 8-year olds: Dawn Edris, Lisa Hammer, and Becky Peters; 9-year olds: Tony Ebling, Heather Sowers, and Tanya Weyd; 10-year olds: Leigh Hitz, Jill Hoffer, and Ralph Major; 11-year olds: Chris Harding, Jennifer Sauerwein, and Emily Swanger; 12-year olds: Dottie Conner, Linda Boeshore, and Eric Funk; 13-year olds: Jon Boyer, Lori Brandt, and Andrew Smith.

A new contest was added this year. The county sponsored a Scrapbook Contest. This contest was begun to encourage news reporters to publicize 4-H activities and to keep records of club programs throughout the year. The Equestrians 4-H Club received the first place award and honorable mention went to Hoof and Horns, Country Lads and Lassies, and Norsolebco.

Winner of the Outstanding Community Service by a Lebanon County 4-H club was the Myerstown Raiders. Their activities included raising money for the Ronald McDonald House in Hershey. Honorable mention went to the Lebanon County Rabbit Club for their efforts in educating new owners of rabbits during the Easter season.

Also included in the evening's program was a demonstration on foods by Heather Sowers and a slide program by the Lebanon county 4-H Ambassadors. This group of teen 4-H'ers presents programs throughout the county describing 4-H and 4-H activities.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 12

Nineteen members and two guests of Lancaster Society 12 met recently at the Country Table Restaurant in Mount Joy for lunch and a regular meeting.

The group elected officers for 1985-86.

The next meeting will be at noon on Nov. 17, when the group will entertain Society 6 at the Farm and Home Center for a covered dish luncheon.

Lancaster Society 24

Lancaster Society 24 met recently at the Stauffer Mansion Lancaster. Reports were given on the county board meeting and Farm Women's Day.

The group discussed legislation; Ruth Shultz and Cindy Yingling will keep the group informed about the issues facing farmers.

Joyce Mast was installed as a member in September.

The state convention will be held on Jan. 14 and 15. The theme will be "All in the Family."

Members assembled draw string bags for the cancer society and made favors for the guests at the Valenti Home.

The next meeting will be on Dec. 10 at the Evans Country Mill with husbands in attendance.

Berks Society 7

Eleven members of Berks Society 7 recently attended a Halloween dress party at the home of Betty Kissling, Robesonia.

The group will have a bakeless bake sale at their November meeting on Nov. 14 in Reed's Church. Joanne Dreibellis will also show slides of her trip to Europe.

The Christmas party will be on Dec. 8 at the Robesonia Borough Hall.

Berks Society 9

A short business meeting was held after a Halloween party for members and their families of Berks Society 9.

New officers were elected as follows: president, Sue Hendricks; vice president, Peggy Lewis; secretary, Joan Hafer; and treasurer, Cindy Kerper.

The Halloween party was at the home of Karen Schreier with nine members present. Prizes were given for different costume categories and for games in which everyone participated.

For the November meeting members will go to the 4-H Community Center to see the Christmas Homemaker's Program.

Fulton Grange to meet

OAKRYN — The public is invited to attend a special program Monday, Nov. 12, at 8:30 p.m. at Fulton Grange Hall, Oakryn, when a representative of Philadelphia Electric Company will speak on "Wild Life At Muddy Run Park."

The Grange will have a short business meeting at 8 p.m.

Messick shows grand champion KILE steer

BY JACK HUBLEY

HARRISBURG — Challengers from surrounding states were overpowered by the "home team" as a Pennsylvania steer won top honors in KILE's Junior steer show on Sunday, and went on to be named grand champion over both the Junior and Open shows. Pennsylvania steers were also named to first-place in two-thirds of the open and junior classes.

A home-grown champion, Messick's Chianina-Angus steer was sired by a Messick bull, MF Ideal, owned by her sister, Patty Wolfgang. A resident of Middletown, and a junior at Hershey Senior High School, Miss Messick had campaigned her steer to a class win at the Northeast Region Chianina Field Day in August.

Close behind the number-one steer was Ellen Bergfeld of Summitcrest Farm, Summitville, Ohio, who took reserve grand champion honors in the overall show after her steer was named Open show champion. Bergfeld's 4-H project steer wa a Chianina-Angus crossbred sired by the Chianina bull, Black Ben.

Following are the Junior and Open show results:

The grand champion steer in open competition was shown by Ellen Bergfeld, Sum mitville, Ohio.

Sally Messick's steer won grand champion honors in junior competition, then went on to be named grand champion of the entire steer show.

Lancaster Farm Women honor Barbara Moore at annual convention

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER — Nearly 500 members of Lancaster County's 35 Farm Women Societies gathered at the Farm and Home Center on Saturday to celebrate their 67th annual convention.

Special tribute was paid to Barbara Moore, a member of Society #1, who has attended each of the 67 conventions, and who is celebrating her 100th birthday this month. Mrs. Moore, Lititz, is a charter member of Society #1, and helped organize Societies #2, #3, #5, and #7. For a short time she was a member of Society #4. Mrs. Moore served as the county's first secretary and was the fifth county president.

Before giving the blessing for the noon meal, Mrs. Moore said that her daughter is treating her to something special in each month of her birthday year. Mrs. Moore is employed part time and drives her own car. In recognition of her contributions to the Society of Farm Women, county president Joan Hershey presented her with a shawl.

Richard McMillian, executive director of the Water Street Rescue Mission, accepted a check in the amount of $3,495, representing contributions of all the societies as their county project. McMillain said the money is earmarked specifically for the Mission's women and children shelter which is in its third year. The facility has 28 beds and is available to homeless women and children.

During the business meeting, Judy Greenleaf, a member of Society #15, was elected secretary, and Betty Geib, Society #2, was elected treasurer.

Speaker karl Kettering, president of Progress Through People, Inc., told the women they must know what they are doing, love what they are doing, and believe in what they are doing, to get the most out of life. In his unique imspirational style of laughter and conviction, Kettering told the women they must believe 100 percent in themselves.

Musical entertainment was provided by Dawn and Rich Winey, Elizabethtown, with Andrea fertilizer can get your corn crop off to a super start:

It has a high concentration of water-soluble Phosphorus that gets to young seedlings quickly. Helps plants establish a good root system – the starting point for top yields. Its quick-acting and long-lasting Nitrogen team up to feed the young plants for full yield potential, continually from sprouting to harvest.

This is the Starter Special that corn growers know from good experience. It's highly effective as a banded starter. And it's SAFE . . . no chance of ammonia damage to tender, young seedlings when used as a "pop up" and applied directly with the seed at 50 lbs./acre.

How can we fit UNIPEL 13-34-10 into your corn fertility program?

Running implement business is as natural as crocheting for Thelma Yingling

Editor's Note: Women in Agriculture Week offers an opportunity to recognize all the women who work behind the scenes to make agriculture what it is today. Some of these women work along side their husbands on the family farm. Others, like Thelma Yingling, have stepped into roles traditionally held by men. But whatever their roles, each one of these women is a vital part of the agricultural community.

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

GETTYSBURG — Thelma Yingling is as much attuned to the economy and its effect on agriculture as any farmer. She operates Yingling Implements, Inc., and when the economy is bad, she feels it.

She says, "When farmers don't make any money we don't,"

Last year's drought took its toll, and Thelma says, candidly, "We didn't sell as much new equipment. Now we are only selling when something flys apart. But our repair business has been tremendous."

Weather affects her business directly. During good weather, farmers are in the fields and call only in emergencies. During rainy weather, farmers will come in and get parts to make necessary equipment repairs.

Despite the ups and downs of the economy, the business remains fairly steady, because as Thelma puts it, "The diversity here is helpful."

Yinglings serves customers in Adams County, Pennsylvania, and in Carroll and Frederick Counties in Maryland. One faithful customer even returns from Virginia after having moved there.

Thelma has been running the business on her own since the death of her husband, Danny, in 1958. Five years ago the business was incorporated with her sons Bud, 41, and Donald, 38, but Thelma was the driving force through the intervening years. Her face is as familiar to customers as to suppliers.

The business began with a retail grocery store and milk truck business. The trucks delivered milk in cans to Baltimore, and instead of returning empty, the Yinglings purchased bulk green groceries and brought them back to sell in the retail store or at weekly auctions held there.

In 1945, Danny got into the implement business with Minneapolis Moline and Fox out of Waynesboro. The grocery store business dwindled as the Yinglings began concentrating on farm implements. In 1947 they began handling New holland equipment and in 1966 they added New Idea, lines they continue to handle.

Why did they get into the implement business? Thelma shrugs and says, "Danny just expanded. It was his ability to get ahead. He grew up on a farm and was always interested in farmers and helping them."

Even as the business was growing and she was busy with four young children, Thelma recalls, "I handled the money and ran for parts." This often included taking children along in the truck. She adds, "It's nothing for me to go to Harrisburg twice in one day." Traveling to Mountville or New Holland in Lancaster County for a part is just as much a way of life. Even now, Thelma enjoys being behind the wheel.

A practical nurse by training, Thelma worked in private duty nursing for four years before marrying and raising her family. She remembers being paid $10 per month while in training, and $25 a month upon graduation. She turned over her first paycheck to her mother, who was able to purchase a new winter coat and dress with it.

There have been many changes in the implement business over the years. One is that farmers now do a lot of comparison shopping before they commit themselves to the big ticket items. "They are better informed," Thelma says. "They study company advertising, and they know something new is coming before we do."

Because car transporation is so readily available, farmers travel to dealers in a wide area before making a decision. "There is no dealer loyalty anymore, and when they decide to buy, you know they have made the rounds," Thelma says.

(Turn to Page B30)

While she doesn't personally repair any equipment, Thelma knows what needs to be done. Here she checks on a job with son Donald, left, and nephew, Richard.

Manager George Shriver discusses some incoming parts with Thelma in the office of her dealership. A part of Yingling's Implements since 1945, Shriver helps run the day to day operations.

Prices have gone up tremendously, Thelma notes. She cites the example of a bill hook for a baler which now costs $41.10, from a price of $2.95 years ago. The problem is that farmers are getting almost the same price for a bushel of corn that they have gotten for years, and even through they get more bushels per acre, they can't keep up with the high costs.

Getting parts for old equipment is sometimes a problem. Thelma says they take pieces of equipment in trade, but usually repair and sell them, so they do not have a large stock from which to get spare parts.

George Shriver has been with the dealership since 1945 when he came as a salesman for white goods, which they used to carry. Now manager, he says, "Maintenance is getting more complicated. It's getting beyond the average individual if they don't have the extra schooling."

Thelma points out, "Every year somebody has to go to school to learn something new."

In addition to her sons, Thelma's nephew, Richard helps with the repair business. About her sons' interest in the business, Thelma says, "They never knew anything else."

Advertising has not been necessary for the business, except for some co-op advertising with the companies they represent. Thelma says, "Word of mouth is the best advertisement we have."

Thelma and George both agree that they enjoy the clients they work with. George puts it this way, "We have really good, interesting people."

Concerned about the future of farming, Thelma says, "Smaller farmers can't survive." George adds, "It's definitely much harder for smaller farmers today with the interest rates they have to pay."

Obviously it is to her advantage to have a prosperous economy, and she says, "I hope farmers have plenty of feed for this winter so they can come to Yinglings and buy new equipment." After the good weather of this summer, the farm outlook does look a bit more promising.

A member of the Gettysburg Business and Professional Women, Thelma is also active in St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Harney, and serves as president of their Ladies Aid group.

In her spare time, she can always be found with crotcheting or knitting needles in her hands. She says she learned to do handwork when she was a nurse and spent long hours sitting by patients.

She takes her hobbies with her when going for parts where she may need to wait while they are loaded, or to doctor and dentist appointments. Local nursing homes, fire companies and others are the recipients of her many crafts. She is the kind of person who will look at something once and then go home and recreate it. She says, "I can't follow instructions very well."

Over the years, the family also operated Twin Hemlock Pheasant Farm near Gettysburg, but sold in in the 1960's. Thelma continues to own a 275-acre farm near Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm, and rents the land. She is also a landlord, with eight residential homes.

Because of her success in the implement business, Thelma has received many trips from companies for having reached certain quotas. Consequently she has a great love of travel, and has traveled to London as well as to Hawaii and many other states.

She often travels to Maine to visit her daughter, Donna. Another daughter, Audrey, lives on a dairy farm near Biglerville.

Carrying out the implement business every day is as natural to Thelma as picking up her crotcheting when she relaxes in the evening. It's a successful business that she has built up and maintained, and a business she feels is a service to the farming community of the area.

Thelma Yingling fills out forms at the desk in the office of Yingling's Implements, Inc., which she operates.

Oberholtzer playing accompaniment and singing with one song. The David Brubaker family of Mount Joy gave devotions in the morning.

Three ninety-year old members were recognized. They are: Carrie S. Lichty, Society #4; Bessie Evans, Society #10; and Ruth Henry, Society #11. They received a pin-necklace combination which was designed just for 90-year-olds.

Two other 100-year-old members were recognized: Ida Hiestand, #4; and Ada Kraybill, #8.

State President Marie Baughman said that her greatest concern is membership. "It has to be an everyday concern to add new members and start new groups." State membership is now 4,000.

The meeting was presided over by Joan Hershey, who had written a poetic tribute to each person featured on the program. She also reported on her year as president, and first vice-president Mary Shellenberger gave a report from all the societies, recognizing their contributions to the communities in which they are located.

York Farm Women aid injured dairyman

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — In an unplanned highlight of the York County Farm women's convention Nov. 1, the nearly 300 members and guests attending responded to their theme "sharing love and fellowship," with a love offering of $450 for a young county dairy farm family.

The impromptu giving climaxed the group's annual meeting, held at Wisehaven Hall, with members responding to the invitation from president Arlene Miller to join in supporting the Gary Thoman family, Dallastown dairy farmers.

Thoman's arm was severely injured recently when a falling forage wagon elevator knocked him into a silage blower. His wife Gail is a member of York Society #18.

Farm women generosity also culminated in the presentation of a $515 check to the York County Mental Health Association. That contribution to the work of the mental health group represented the county farm women's ways and means project for 1984.

Accepting the contribution was Marta Peck, executive director of the Mental Health Association, and featured speaker for the convention's morning program.

Ms. Peck outlined a brief history of the county's mental health programs, beginning in 1951 with the founding of the fledgling organization. She related how mental health patients at that time were held in jail until they were admitted to the State Hospital at Harrisburg.
Harrisburg.

According to current statistics, 20 percent of society, or 1 in every 5 persons, will at some point in their lives be affected by a mental health problem. Anxiety is the most common, says Ms. Peck, with about eight percent of mental health patients suffering impaired function due to anxiety.

"Contrary to popularly held beliefs, the mentally ill are less likely to be violent than 'normal' people," she added. "Instead, they become isolated, and avoid social contacts, withdrawing into themselves."

One pressing concern of mental health leaders is the mushrooming numbers of teenage suicides.

"The teen suicide rate has tripled in 30 years, and is the second high killer of young adults," Ms. Peck told the farm women. Among the factors believed to be contributing are child abuse and increasing numbers of children, especially in single parent households, who rarely see a parent with whom they can discuss their growing-up problems. She related how even school nurses are finding it necessary to stock their offices with food for children arriving for classes, having had no breakfasts.

Volunteers continue to be the backbone of the mental health association's ability to work in the community on limited budgets, and Ms. Peck praised the Farm Women societies for their continuing support of such programs as Operation Reindeer. This holiday gift drive supplies Christmas gifts to mental health clients and families in both the state hospital and the community. In 1983, over 900 people were remembered through Operation Reindeer.

"They are gradeful for such little things, perhaps something as simple as a flannel shirt," she related. "We have a large demand for flannel shirts."

The mental health staffers also spend large blocks of time working with advocacy programs, such as effecting legislation in support of mental health needs and at legal hearings for clients.

State Farm Women president, Marie Baughman of Franklin County, related upcoming events and shared a note from the state's first lade Ginny Thornburgh, thanking the state society for a commodity basket presented to the Governor's family during a recent signing of the Oct. 14 Farm Women's day proclamation.

Marta Peck, left, director of the York Mental Health Association, accepted a check for $515 from York County farm women president Arlene Miller. The donation represented the group's annual county ways and means project for 1984.

Spring Rally will be hosted by president Baughman's home Franklin County group, at the Hagerstown Ramada Inn, Hagerstown, Maryland, on May 22, 1985. In 1986, the spring meeting will return to York County, Plans are already underway for the group's 75th anniversary celebration in 1989, to be hosted in Somerset County, where the Farm Women's first society organized in 1914.

In an election for the office of county treasurer, Miriam Young was returned to another term. Other officers completing the second half of their two year terms are Arlene Miller, president, Ruth Santiago, vice-president, Susan Lehman, 2nd vice-president, and Hazel Lighty, secretary.

Nine members received special recognition and gifts as Farm Women 80-year-olds. They are Mary Wise, Carrie Saylor, Viola Leiphart, Emma Myers, Arzula Bose, Lulu Rennoll, Kathryn Hoover, Grace Perry and Sarah Myers.

In special ceremonies, eight past members who died during the past year were memoralized. Those remembered were Romaine Keener, Alverta Hale, Mabel Lehman, Clara Plitt, Rebecca Warner, Charlotte Kimmel, Helen Beard and Margaret Keller.

Rounding out the day-long program was the musical group "Spirit," from Dallastown High School, and York dairy princess Judy Perry with her promotion skit and a reminder on the importance of milk in preventing osteoporosis.

E-Z DUMPER®

- STRUCTURAL INTEGRITY
- QUALITY CONSTRUCTION
- DESIGN INNOVATION

FOREMOST IN ROLLBACK DESIGN
SINCE 1959

DIRECT FROM FACTORY

DUMP UNIT FOR PICKUP TRUCKS SAVE TIME....LABOR....MONEY

The E-Z DUMPER is hydraulically operated and is powered by the 12 volt truck battery. The safe removable key switch is standard equipment. The dump angle of 47° assures quick and clean unloading. The removable tailgate can be opened from the top or bottom for easy flow control.

Designed for do-it-yourself installation - the E-Z DUMPER comes ready to install, including hydraulic fluid. Most pickup trucks require no alterations. Just slide the E-Z DUMPER and secure with clamps using existing bolts and holes. Installation is fast and simple. Dump over 4,000 lb. of firewood, gravel, topsoil, coal, corn, mulch, etc. in seconds.

TAX LAW CHANGES

It is getting to that time of year when you should be preparing for tax season. The tax reform act of 1984 did not receive a lot of publicity, but is going to cause some problems. Let's take a look at some of these changes.

Imputed Interest

Most of you don't know what this means. I didn't either until I looked it up. It means that if you don't charge enough interest when you sell something on an installment sale, the IRS can call part of your principal income interest.

The 1984 act pegged this interest on a multiple of the so called federal rate (10 percent this year). This meant the imputed rate would be 12 percent. Recently I received a report that this action has now been postponed until July 1985. Hopefully your Congressmen will get enough mail on the subject to retract on that law.

Interest Free Loans

IRS has been fighting this for years. They are now getting their way by convincing Congress to pass a bill not allowing below market rate loans. Thus the money you lend a child or any one else will have to carry a certain interest rate. It will be interesting to see what the IRS regulations will call "market rate."

As is often the case with new tax laws, the wording of this law will result in a lot of court cases as well as upset and frustrated people. Over the next 3 or 4 years, the IRS and Tax Courts will develop a set of rules to govern the issue. At any rate, it will more than likely cause a harship on families who are trying to help a child get started in farming.

Depreciation Recapture

From now on anyone who sells depreciable property on an installment sale will have a larger tax to pay in the year of sale. Previously you could pay tax on the gain as you received it. Now you will pay tax on the entire amount of gain the year you sell the item.

It hardly seems fair to do this since you are not allowed to depreciate the item off in the year you purchase it.

Investment Credit Change

You will have to be more careful with items you purchase that are for both the business and personal use. If business use is less than 50 percent you will not be allowed to take investment credit on it. Some examples would be cars, computers and water wells. I don't know how anyone is going to prove percentage use of any item. You may be forced to keep a daily log of use. Example: On October 28, 1984 - used the car to go to church (10 miles) On October 29, 1984 - used the car to pick up parts at the dealers (10 miles), etc. That's 50 percent business use so far.

Mortgage Interest Reporting by Payee (starts in 1985)

For several years the person who pays interest to anyone other than a corporate being, was supposed to file a 1099 reporting it. Now in some cases the person who receives the money will also have to report it.

Do not treat this item lightly. At present, anyone who fails to file a 1099 reporting interest payments (as well as rent, contract work, etc) is subject to a fine of $50 for each missed report. Once the new law takes effect, there will be the same penalty.

Estimated Tax Payments

The IRS is clamping down on estimated tax payments. For those who are supposed to pay quarterly estimates, the safest way to do it is to pay 25 percent of the previous years tax for each quarter. Full time farmers are not affected by this. They are under the same rules as before. One estimated payment by Jan. 15 then file final return by April 15 or pay total amount due by March 1.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Something is happening out West that could have enormous implications for Delmarva farmers. They're running out of water. Not that some of those Plain States were exactly the Garden of Eden in the first place, but a substantial share of our feed grain in produced in states where adequate rainfall is always a problem. And now the whole concept of irrigatin may be in trouble.

A study done at the Center for Agricultural and Rural Development at Iowa State University indicates that an area stretching from the Nebraska, South Dakota border down into the Texas Panhandle is using up ground water much faster than it's being replaced. And the Center is predicting that by 1990 this shortage of ground water will cause that region's farm production to decline by 970 million dollars.

The area, known as the Ogallala Aquifer region, is already facing a crisis with some counties drawing water from the ground at a rate 10 times faster than it is being replenished. The problem is compounded by the fact that as the water table drops, it costs more to pump water for irrigation, and that makes it even less profitable for farmers. As a result of the decline in available ground water in that region, the study points out that there will be a dramatic decline in irrigated land. That means a return to the much less productive dry land farming common before the widespread use of irrigation.

The problem in the Ogallala Aquifer may be more pronounced and the impact more dramatic than in some other places. But is points to what a lot of experts have been saying all along – that farmers are drawing more water out of the ground than nature is putting back – and that a day of reckoning is at hand. We can't just keep going deeper into the ground to find a declining water supply.

While this may work for a while, eventually it becomes economically impossible. It just costs too much to drill the wells and pump the water. Farmers in those situations would be unable to compete with farmers in areas of more plentiful rainfall, or where irrigation water is more readily available.

It stands to reason that some of the semi-arid parts of this country are that way for a reason. They just don't get enough rain. Modern agriculture's efforts to modify that situation by drilling wells and pumping water to the crops is at best a short run solution because it relies on reserves stored over the centuries – reserves that aren't being replenished at nearly the rate of use.

Obviously, if those dry areas were getting the rainfall they needed irrigation wouldn't be necessary and they wouldn't be dry areas. But they are, and farmers have tried to cultivate them anyway, and in the long-run natural scheme of things, that just won't work.

So it looks as though some of those irrigated oases of the Great Western Plains States are going to be drying up, perhaps even sooner than some experts were predicting. And that's where the implications lie for Delmarva farmers. Those with plenty of water, at least for the short run, or with moisture retaining soils that will produce an adequate crop year in and year out, have a considerable advantage. Combine that with the fact that local farmers are within easy shipping distance of half of the nation's population, and it becomes apparent that locally produced farm commodities are going to continue to enjoy strong demand.

Of course, these are long range situations. Kansas isn't going to dry up overnight and the Delmarva peninsula won't be a breadbasket for the East in the next few years. But the trends seem to be pointing in that direction.

There are good logical reasons why some of the Western states will return to more dry land farming while some other areas of the country, including the Delmarva peninsula, step up their production of both food and feed crops. It's a matter of comparative advantage. If we have the water and the other factors of production and we're closer to the markets and to the people who need food, then it makes sense that we're going to be strong in the farming business for a long time. Therein lies a serious challenge to farmers, politicians, land use planners and others who have a stake in the long-range health and well being of Delmarva agriculture.

Hay Assn. elects officers

JACKSON, Mich. — Everett Van Drisse, Casco, Wisc., has been elected the 89th President of The National Hay Association at their annual meeting held in Dearborn, Mich. Van Drisse has owned and operated the Van Drisse Hay Company for the past 35 years. Van Drisse reported the 90th annual NHA meeting will be Oct. 10-12, 1985, at the Hyatt Regency, Milwaukee, Wisc.

Other officers installed were: First Vice President Dayton Lane, Tampa, Fla.; Second Vice President Lorne Niemann, Beecher, Ill.; Directors, Donald R. Ast, Hazelton, Id.; Neil Cousino, Erie, Mich.; Arthur Dobson, Hamer, Id.; Kent Doke, Alachua, Fla.; Gary Freebury, Gayville, S.D.; Duane Johnson, Chanute, Kan.; William E. Martin, Dalhart, Tex.; Raymond Oates, Waldron, Mich.; Edward J. Ort, Jr., Appleton, Wisc.; and John Wilson, Artesia, New Mexico.

Lorne Niemann, Statistical Committee Chairman, said the majority of the United States hay producing states report fair to average crop production with the usual amounts of hay available.

Kenneth Hobbie, U.S. Feed Grains Council, Washington, D.C. explained how the U.S. Feed Grains Council found new uses for feed grains throughout the world. The Feed Grains council does not sell U.S. products, leaving that to the private industry. The U.S. Feed Grains Council and The National Hay Association have cooperator agreements with the USDA/Foreign Agricultural Service. The NHA has promoted the feeding of forages for beef and dairy cattle through seminars in several foreign countries. Ron Anderson, Ellensburg, Washington, NHA Export Chairman, said, "Much has been gained in the last two years and the export of U.S. hay products to Japan will increase annually."

Federal crop insurance available for Del. vegetables

NEWARK — The Delaware vegetable industry has experienced wide fluctuations in output over the years but it looks like things are picking up. One indication is the recent decision of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) to extend insurance coverage to several key vegetable crops grown on the Delmarva peninsula.

During the 1960's and 1970's, Delaware cucumber and tomato acreage declined because of increased labor costs and competition from the West Coast. Now, thanks to mechanical harvesting, increased transportation costs from competing production areas, and the availability of chemicals to promote uniform ripening (of tomatoes), both crops are making a comeback. Cucumber acreage has rebounded from not enough acres to report in 1973 to 1,700 acres in 1981. Processing tomatoes seem to be making a comeback in the state, too, though the increase is so recent it's hard to evaluate.

In recent years, lima beans–which are grown without irrigation–have lost acreage to corn and soybeans, while green peas have gained, thanks to the increase in center pivot irrigation and the ability to double crop peas in a rotation under irrigation.

University of Delaware extension farm management specialist, Dr. Don Tilmon, sees the recent extension of federal crop insurance to several vegetable crops on the peninsula as another factor which can further strengthen the industry by reducing grower risk. The Delaware Cooperative Extension Service, under Tilmon's guidance, helped bring this coverage to Delaware.

Last year the management specialist applied for a grant from the FCIC to enable the extension service to collect yield data on the major vegetable crops grown in the state in order to provide data on which to base crop insurance policies.

The result of this effort will benefit not only Delaware growers, but those on Eastern Shore Maryland as well. For the 1985 crop year, FCIC will offer four policies–on sweet corn, green peas, tomatoes and potatoes. More details on the policies will be available, Tilmon says, once local crop insurance sales personnel have received copies.

Applied Ag Institute board meets

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Members of the farm program advisory board for the Institute of Applied Agriculture met at the University of Maryland in October to discuss issues concerning the Institute's two-year programs in farm production and agribusiness.

Meeting in committees, the groups discussed recruiting, making businesses more aware of the specifically trained students from the Institute of Applied Agriculture, determining the demand for two-year graduates of the farm program, placement of farm students in agriculture-related industries, and improving teaching facilities.

The following tasks will be investigated by staff and board members in the upcoming months:

1. Preparing a survey for former students and industry regarding strengths and weaknesses of training offered at the Institute of Applied Agriculture.

2. Researching the need for an agriculture mechanics curriculum.

3. Having the IAA adminstration appear at agricultural associations to share information about the IAA.

4. Sending news releases to Board members for publication in local and association publications.

5. Having instructors make a list of specific facility shortcomings or problems that affect the program.

Representatives of the ten agricultural organizations on the advisory board who met included:

Howard County--William Brendel, Woodbine, Md., Livestock producer and member-at-large.

Out-of-state--Ray Browning, Purcellville, Va., Mar-Del-Va Farm and Power Equipment Association.

Out-of-State--Bob Bryan, Richmond, Va., Southern States Cooperative.

Prince George's Co.--Max Buckel, Adelphi, Md., member-at-large.

Charles Co.–Travis McPherson, White Plains, Md., Maryland Assoc. of Agricultural Extension Agents.

Frederick Co.–Rodman Myers, Thurmont, Md., Maryland State Grange.

Harford Co.–Wilbur Pearce, Perryman, Md., Maryland Farm Bureau.

Baltimore Co.–Richard Price, Phoenix, Md., dairy farmer, member-at-large.

Anne Arundel Co.–Ernie Shea, Annapolis, Md., Maryland Dept. of Agriculture.

Wicomico Co,–Gerry Truitt, Salisbury, Md., Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc.,

Other members of the Board, who were not able to attend, included John Morris, Frederick Co., Maryland Holstein-Friesian Assoc., Robert Frazee, Baltimore County, Farm Production and Credit; and Bert Waybright, Gettysburg, Pa., IAA Alumni Association.

According to Dick Price, chairman of the board who presided over the meeting, the next full Board meeting will be at 10 a.m., March 5, 1985, at the Institute of Applied Agriculture building on the College Park campus.

Tobacco growth outlined

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Strange as it may seem, scientists have not been able to define the growth stages of a fairly common crop plant — tobacco.

Until now, that is. Agronomists with The University of Maryland propose that tobacco has eight distinct stages of growth that can be identified readily by growers.

Those stages are germination, dollar, transplant, rosette, bolting, button, flowering, and mature, according to Marvin K. Aycock, Jr. and Herbert A. Bruns, researchers with the university's Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Like other crops, where such information is useful to manage and study the crop, tobacco's distinct developmental stages help the grower to make management decisions about pest control, fertilization, topping and harvesting," says Aycock.

"Our system of definition takes into account general procedures of management practiced across all types of tobacco and addresses differences relating to plants grown for seed, rather than leaf," Aycock adds.

AI's Unit 1 marks 45th year

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — It went unnoticed by most of the 200 dairy farmers and friends that this was the artificial breeding co-op's 45th year. The occasion was Unit #1's annual dinner meeting at Stanton Grange Hall, just off rt. 31, midway between Clinton and Flemington.

Unit #1 was the first artificial insemination cooperative formed in the U.S. And, the first calf born to the a.i. co-op's service was on the farm of the late Richard Schomp, a mile, as the crow flies, from the grange hall.

Unit #1 is now a part of Sire Power, Inc., headquartered at Tunkhannock, Pa. It is in District 4 area of the large breeding co-op, which serves Maryland, West Virginia, much of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and beyond.

Early Headquarters

The unit had its beginning in Hunterdon, Somerset and Warren Counties. Opening day was May 16, 1938. The late Dwight Babbitt, then Hunterdon County Agent, accompanied Jack Henderson, the unit's first technician, on his rounds. There were four farms on call for opening day. We still have in our file Babbitt's handwritten note listing the calls for the day.

Bulls were housed in the very early days at Peter Van Nuys' Hillsboro Farm; Belle Mead; Tranquillity Farm, Allamuchy; and Lloyd Wescott's Mulhocaway Farm, near Clinton.

To facilitate semen collection and processing, bulls were moved to Mulhocaway and housed there until a farm at Clinton Point was purchased and developed into a suitable headquarters.

The unit was joined as time went on by other units in the state, eventually forming New Jersey Cooperative Breeders' Assn. In 1964, NJCBA merged with three co-ops in Pennsylvania to form NEBA, Northeastern Breeders' Assn. And NEBA joined up with Maryland-West Virginia co-op to form Sire Power, Inc., some years later.

Still Unit #1

Unit #1 does maintain its identity...and proudly. The unit has four full-time technicians: Frank Baylor of Phillipsburg is Unit Manager, Rodney Harrison and Kevin Rush, Warren County, Peter Mishisk, Hunterdon, make up the staff. Will Hoser of Stewartsville was re[illegible] this past summer.

Baylor was recognized by Sire Power for 30 years of service. A pin and gift were presented by Willard Odenwelder, District 4 manager. Pete Michisk was recognized for 10 years of service.

The meeting was chaired by Ed Woolf, Unit #1 advisory committee. Elected to the committee at the meeting were: Mark Douglass, Pittstown; Wm. Mannon, Port Murray; Russell Smith, Warren Glen. Voting delegate was Ed Wood, Asbury; Holstein committee member - Floyd Schwab, Ringoes, and Brown Swiss committee - Ken Hoser, Stewartsville

Speaker at the meeting was Margin Stout, Jr., Sales & Service Director for the NEBA area. He discussed the financial health of the co-op, new facilities, and showed pictures of top sires and their daughters.

Enterainment was provided by the County Gate players of Belvidere. Members of the cast of recently presented "Oklahoma" performed to the pleasure of the audience.

Md. work-comp law changes coverage

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — A new Maryland workman's compensation law denies coverage to some farm workers covered under previous legislation, according to a University of Maryland agricultural economist.

The former version of the state Workman's Compensation Act covered only seasonal and migratory farm laborers who operate machinery. A new version extends coverage to other previously uncovered employees, according to Dr. Dean F. Tuthhill, but leaves one group of machinery operators without protection.

Maryland Attorney General Stephen Sachs interpreted the modified Workman's Compensation Act for Governor Hughes' office May 24, 1984 while it was under proposal. Now law, the Act has the following effect on farm labor, according to Sachs:

"Any person, including a seasonal or migratory farm laborer, who performs farm work for a farmer who has three or more fulltime employees, or a yearly payroll for his or her fulltime employees of $15,000 or more, is covered by the Workman's Compensation Act unless that person is employed within a 25-mile radius of his or her permanent place of residence and is employed for 13 weeks a year or less."

"It cuts back on the coverage of seasonal workers," Tuthill says, "especially those seasonal workers operating machinery and living within a 25-mile radius and working 13 weeks or less in a year."

Sachs noted this same problem last May when he interpreted the bill to modify employee coverage under the Act.

Tuthill says the problem with the new law is in the wording. Mr. Sachs pointed this out to the Governor's office in his letter and recommended the law be rewritten during the next season.

"I would think they intended to have anybody covered who is operating machinery," Dr. Tuthill says.

Tuthill says that, in view of the Attorney General's recommendation, he expects the language of the Workman's Compensation Act to be reviewed during the next state senate session.

Md. studying wheat yield gains

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Conventional tillage and intense management could help Maryland farmers improve their fall wheat yields by more than three-fold, according to a University of Maryland agonomist.

Three years of tests at the University's Poplar Hill Research Farm near Salisbury showed yields of up to 128 bushels per acre.

Project coordinator David Sammons points out that this research is only demonstration size.

Farm-scale plots this year should determine if it is practical to increase yields in larger plots, Sammons says.

Variety selection and planting are the first steps in fall wheat management, Sammons says. Fertilization, weed and fungus control follow in the management chain.

"You have to begin with a good set of practices," the agronomist says.

He recommends plowing corn stubble deep to keep the microorganism responsible for scab from affecting the wheat. "For this reason, we do not recomment no-till for wheat," Sammons says.

Seed treated with fungicide to control powdery mildew disease, and getting seed in the ground on time, aid the farmers' chances of getting higher yields, he adds. Four-inch rows allow the plants to cover the rows faster and reduce weed problems, Sammons says.

Some successful tests use herbicide application in the fall rather than early spring, he says. Spring applications can kill the plant as it emerges from the ground.

The University recommends spring follow-up with two treatments of nitrogen and possible fungicide application, depending on crop location.

"Everything we're saying is going to cost the farmer a lot of money, so it's important that he consider carefully what may and may not be needed in his particular situation," Sammons says.

Maryland scientists also have studied the use of growth regulating sprays to control lodging–the tendency of long strawed grain to fall over, he says. This is another expense, possibly unnecessary, that the farmer must weigh.

"In locations prone to lodging, and under heavy fertilization, you probably need to use a growth regulator," Sammons says.

He adds that if such products are not known to be of direct benefit in the area, the farmer is better off saving his money.

The results of this year's testing should tell Maryland farmers much, Sammons says. Because the plots are planted on a larger scale, researchers will learn whether the higher yields are commercially feasible.

Wheat yields of 150-bushels-per-acre are not uncommon in some parts of England. Average yields across Europe range from 80 to more than 100 bushels through intensive management.

Whether or not Maryland is capable of these yields remains to be seen. But state researchers say the results shown thus far are promising. Sammons says the research will continue at Poplar Hill and possibly move to other areas of the Eastern Shore and western Maryland.

ASGROW'S RX777 -

A CORN HYBRID TO BOOST YOUR YIELD.

You know the importance of seed selection in going for the greatest return on investment in your corn growing program. That's why this hybrid should be in your 1985 corn plan. It has a strong yield record. Its maturity, when combined with other hybrid maturities you'll be planting, can help you spread your risk under varying growing conditions, and still deliver the high corn yields you need.

RX777 – 112 day maturity

Key Features:

- High Yields - Excellent adaptation to the entire corn belt Especially outstanding in Pennsylvania Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey where mid to full season hybrids are grown
- Excellent Level of Disease Tolerance - In cludes leaf and stalk diseases This feature contributes to the tremendous performance success in the higher humidity Eastern grow ing conditions
- Excellent Test Weight - High Grain Quality - RX777 is on the approved list of most "food corn" processors and the hard starch kernel of RX777 is preferred by elevators shipping to export markets

RX777 tops plot with 208 4 bushels dry corn per acre for Eastern Berks Co. Farmer, Gene Moser, Oley, Pa , Oct. 17, 1984. Gene combined a 6½ acre corn plot and out of 17 eight-row strips of different corn varieties, Asgrow 112 Day RX777 had the high yield of 208 4 Bu/acre dry corn. Leading varieties of other corn companies were in the test Complete results are available by calling 717-764-9814

Co-op stays with NEDCO

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Members of the Syracuse Dairy Farmers Cooperative determined that it's to their direct benefit to continue marketing their milk through NEDCO, the Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation, according to Syracuse Dairy Farmers President Glen Seeley of Marcellus.

The decision was made at the co-op's October Board of Directors meeting held in Marcellus. The Syracuse' producers' marketing contract with NEDCO is up for renewal Dec. 31.

According to Seeley, the nine board members deliberated for hours, reviewing many options. "But," he said, "after all was said and done we couldn't gain a thing by changing.

"NEDCO's contract met the competition head-on and could not be bettered," he said.

The Syracuse Dairy Farmers co-op represents about 40 area producers who make over 31 million pounds of milk annually.

The co-op has been a member of NEDCO and its predecessor organizations since 1948. The group has marketed with NEDCO for the past ten years.

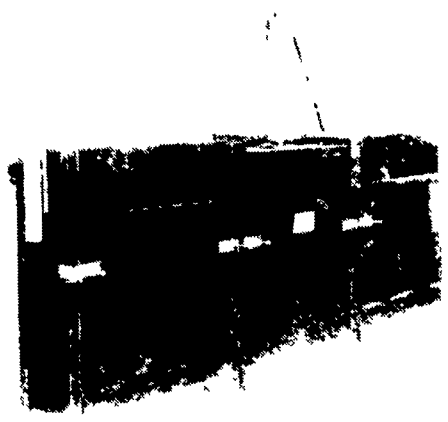
MARYLAND TOBACCO



"The Art of Baling Becomes A Reality" over the course of history. Maryland tobacco has found its way to market in a variety of forms. From barrels to burlap sheets, to tied leaves. Now, a new method has been designed which makes packed tobacco more manageable.

A baling box machine can be used which puts up tobacco in 22 inch bales that weigh 75 to 80 lbs. These can easily be stacked or stored.

The basic machine is a three-bin model where tobacco is laid in according to grade. The tobacco is compressed into bales by use of an hydraulic cylinder powered by air. A jack type system can be used for those who may not have electric available. After the bale is compressed, it must be tied with cotton twine.

The use of the three-bin press allows more tabacco to be processed in less time.

For more information and details on these new tobacco press units - Call LANCASTER SILO CO., INC. We have units in stock for sale.

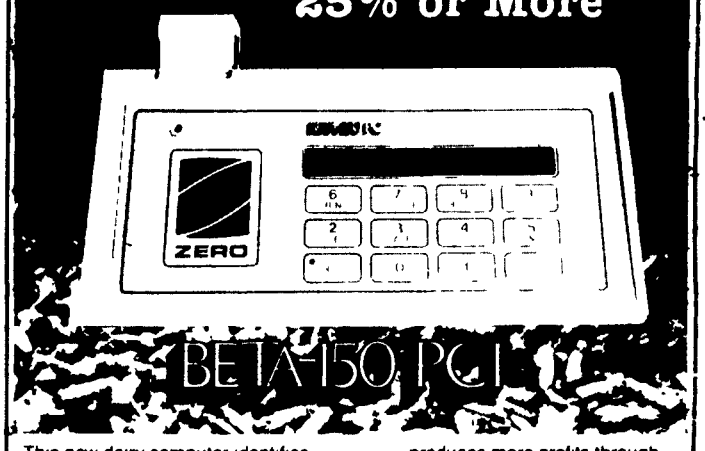
FICKES SILOS...
Dependable-Reliable
Systems That Assure Continuous Service Day After Day

FICKES SILAGEMASTER
Silo construction is not only an engineering science, it is also an art. Fickes Silos exemplify these principles, with their fine stave design and strength . durability... and manufacturer's care in building.

SWING BACK HINGED DOOR
The hardware used in this door's construction is heavy duty steel with a double hinge system to allow the door to swing back against the side of the silo A double lock system holds the door against the frame for a sure seal

SILAGEMASTER

Increase Production 25% or More



This new dairy computer identifies your cows with high potential and allows you to feed them accordingly
— has increased herd average production up to 25% —
— has paid for itself in less than a year in feed savings and increased milk & butterfat production — is easy to program and use — produces more profits through managing both feed and cows
— interfaces with home computers

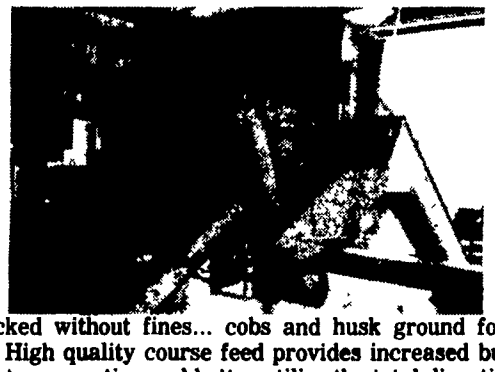
WHEN YOU WON'T SETTLE FOR LESS THAN THE BEST



Kernels cracked without fines... cobs and husk ground for maximum digestibility. High quality course feed provides increased bulk, allowing animals to eat more ration and better utilize the total digestible nutrients (T.D.N.) of the grains and avoid flash heat. Feeders who change to texturized feeds get better results. Beef cattle have a higher average daily gain. Dairymen report higher grain intake and 1 to 4 point increase in butterfat tests. Texturized ear corn gives you more profit per acre over shelled corn.

Hallowell named PLA 'Man of the Year'

JACK HUBLEY

GRANTVILLE — Award ceremonies highlighted the Pennsylvania Livestock Association's annual banquet on November 2, at the Grantville Holiday Inn.

State Secretary of Agriculture, Penrose Hallowell, was tapped for the organization's most prestigious award, Livestock Man of the Year. On hand to make the presentation was 1983 Man of the Year, Jesse Smith, who cited Hallowell's efforts in the areas of education, promotion and marketing of agricultural products as, "outstanding contributions to the agricultural and livestock community."

Also in the spotlight at the Friday evening event were four FFA and 4-H youths honored for outstanding achievement in livestock production.

Receiving FFA awards were Christine Hopple, 18, of Mechanicsburg and Clifford Horning of Denver. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Hopple, Christine is a sophomore at Cumberland Valley High School, and works on the family's livestock farm. The recipient of her FFA chapter's Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer awards, Hopple has exhibited the champion market steer, hog and lamb at the Cumberland Co. FFA Market Show and Sale. Hopple has received the Keystone Farmer Degree, and currently serves as chapter secretary.

The recipient of the FFA boy's award was Clifford Horning, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Horning, Jr. The vice president of Garden Spot High School's FFA chapter in New Holland, Horning has been named Lancaster Co. Star Farmer and has received a gold medal in the National Farm Management contest. He has exhibited dairy animals, hogs, sheep and steers at both the state and local levels, and was the recipient of the DeKalb Achievement Award.

Receiving the 4-H awards were Kenianne Rarick, of Reading, and Kirk Fisher of Oley. The 17-year-old Rarick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rarick and is a member of the Berks County Beef, Sheep, Swine and Poultry Clubs at Fleetwood Area High School. She has participated in state and national livestock shows, and has held all 4-H club offices.

A nine-year veteran of the 4-H program, 17-year-old Kirk Fisher is a junior at Oley Valley High School. He is a member of the Berks Co. Beef, Swine and Goat Clubs, and the Oley Saddelites. Fisher has held numerous club offices, has exhibited the N.Y. State Fair grand champion steer, and was the recipient of the Kiwanis Youth Award.

In addition to honoring their Man of the Year and young livestock producers, the Association was also on the receiving end of the award ceremonies. Accepting the National Partner in 4-H Award for the Association was York Co. Extension director, Tony Dobrosky, who received an engraved plaque and congratulations from Kemp Swiney of the National 4-H Council.

Swiney lauded the Association for its sponsorship of the first Regional 4-H Horse Judging event, and for its continuing support of all 4-H livestock exhibition and judging programs.

The evening's featured speaker was Congressman Robert Walker. In opening remarks concerning next year's Farm Bill, Walker said that the basic issue of more government control versus a free-market economy must be addressed before more specific problems can be solved. While Walker predicted a downward trend in subsidy programs, he cautioned that such a move would meet with stiff opposition from interest groups tied to government programs.

Walker emphasized that farm problems can only be solved through a "growth economy", and called for the development of more export markets to further growth.

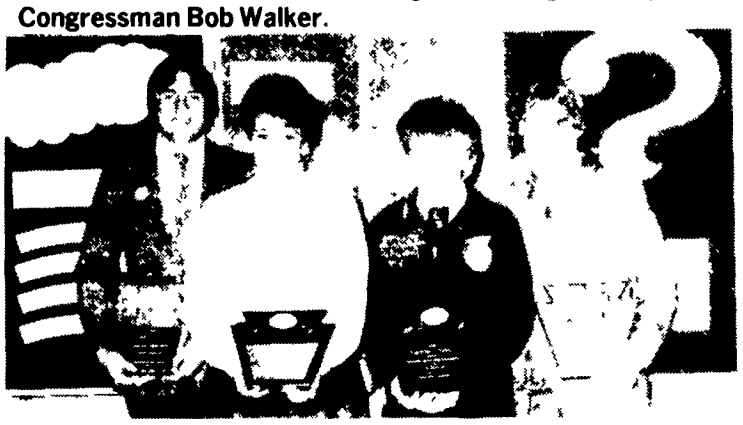
Decreasing interest rates are another key ingredient in a healthy economy, Walker pointed out, adding that the country cannot tax its way to prosperity.

Calling for a balanced budget amendment, the Congressman pointed out that such legislation would help to discipline congressional spending.

Also on the meeting's agenda was the announcement of new PLA officers. John Henkel of Strasburg was re-elected president, and Ray Lehr of Lancaster will serve as first vice president. Elected second vice president was Robert Kessler of Lemoyne, and James Fink of Boiling Springs will serve as treasurer

Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell was the recipient of this year's "Livestock Man of the Year" award presented by the Pa. Livestock Association. Making the presentation are PLA president John Henkel (left), and 1983 "Man of the Year", Jesse Smith.

On behalf of the PLA, Tony Dobrosky (right) accepts the National Partner in 4-H Award from Kemp Swiney of the National 4-H Council. Looking on is guest speaker, Congressman Bob Walker.



Livestock Production Youth Award winners at the Pa. Livestock Association's banquet were, (left) 4-H'ers Kirk Fisher and Kenianne Rarick, and FFA recipients Christine Hopple and Clifford Horning.

NY to offer sheep short course

ALFRED, N.Y. — Five speakers will be featured at a sheep short course to be hosted Friday, Nov. 16, by the School of Agricultural Technologies at Alfred State Agricultural and Technical College, Alfred, N.Y.

Arranged by the school and the Office of Special Academic Programs, the course will be taught at the college's lake lodge facility, with registration at 8 a.m. and the concluding session at 4:20 p.m.

Speakers will include Dr. S. Gordon Campbell of Cornell University; Professor Ronald Stutzman of Alfred State College; Dr. Clair Engle, extension animal scientist, Pennsylvania State University; James Forbes, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; and Kathleen Hayes-Harris, senior livestock grading specialist, NYS Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The speakers will cover the following topics: wintering pregnant ewes, flock health, lamb marketing, the predatory coyote, and pasture management for increased production.

In addition, a workshop on weaving will be presented by Debra MacCrea of Alfred.

Marie Babcock of the Office of Public Service said the registration fee of $10 includes lunch and that registration deadline is Nov. 12. Further information may be obtained by contacting her at 607-871-6335.

Sheep producers should be concerned with the winter care of their stud rams. Even though there has been very little research work done with the nutrition of the stud ram, some general recommendations can be made. The stud ram, like the brood ewe requires an adequate diet in order to perform efficiently. Can inadquate diet result in lowered fertility or even infertility, as well as loss of vigor and strength? For best results the ram should be in moderate condition at breeding time. This, however, is not the biggest problem for sheepmen in caring for the ram. Rather, it is care of the ram after the breeding season and through the winter months.

During the winter months feed the ram so that he gains some weight but does not become excessively fat. One-and-one-half pounds of a concentrate mixture and 3-1/2 pounds of legume or mixed hay per day should be enough for a 200 pound ram. Feed larger rams the same level of concentrate and 4 to 4-1/2 pounds of hay per day. When silage is fed, substitute 2 to 3 pounds of silage for each pound of hay replaced.

Management of the stud ram is just as critical to the success of the sheep operation as the management of the ewe flock. New rams should not be turned into the ewes as soon as they arrive on the farm, but should be allowed at least one or two weeks to become familiar with their new environment. The same is also true of show or test station rams. Gradually lower the condition of these rams and give them plenty of exercise for several weeks before turning them in with the ewes.

In addition, when you worm your ewes, don't forget to worm the rams also. You want to make sure the ram is in near perfect health at breeding time. Trim the feet of all stud rams at least twice a year before and after breeding season.

Pa. sheep top three KILE breeding shows

BY SUZANNE KEENE AND JACK HUBLEY

HARRISBURG — With open breeding sheep competition kicking off the 28th Annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition on Nov. 2, more than 250 sheep exhibitors converged on Harrisburg's Farm Show complex to watch judges pick and choose their way through a field of some 1500 sheep during four days of judging.

Six states shared top honors in the breeding show, with Pennsylvania breeders taking championship awards in three breeds.

The only Pa. exhibitor to take top breed honors in both the ram and ewe classes was well-known Dorset exhibitor, Margaret Herr, of Narvon. Her home-bred champion ewe had been named supreme champion sheep at this year's Elizabethtown Fair, and will now be heading for the North American International Livestock Expo in Louisville.

Judge Gary Ricketts, sheep specialist at the University of Illinois, also named Herr's ram to the championship position, and presented the Garden Spot High School senior with the J.R. Henderson Memorial Plaque for exhibiting the champion flock.

Though Charles Smith swept the Cheviot show, he had to travel a far greater distance than Herr to get the job done. Traveling south from Skowhegan, Maine, Smith exhibited sheep owned by Robert and Edith Kelley, winning both champion ewe and champion ram rosettes. The Kelley flock took top honors in all but one class of Cheviot competition.

A Pa. exhibitor shared the spotlight with Ohio in the Shropshire show. Bradford County's Kenneth Moore, of Rome, showed his ram all the way to the winner's circle, and also exhibited the reserve champion ewe.

Keeping Moore from the champion ewe position was Janis Kennedy of Kennedy Farms in Fremont, Ohio, who exhibited the champion Shropshire and took home three first-place wins in class competition.

In the Oxford show, Robert Elander of Saugerties, N.Y. proved unbeatable in the drive for champion ewe honors. Along with six first-place awards, Elander also showed the reserve champion ewe and ram, and was named premier breeder.

Exhibitor of the champion Oxford ram was Clarence Williamson and Sons, of Xenia, Ohio, a familiar name in the KILE winner's circle.

A ewe owned by B&B Livestock of Danville, Ohio, was named champion of both the open show and sale categories in Hampshire competition.

Rebecca Hope of Knoxville, Md., exhibited the champion Hampshire ram, and took top exhibitor's flock honors. Showing the second-place flock were Tim and Sarah Fleener of Lancaster.

The Corriedale competition was dominated by Jagger Brothers of Mt. Gilead, Ohio. Jagger Brothers showed both the champion ram and champion ewe.

The champion ram was a fall ram lamb, and the champion ewe, a yearling.

Show judge John Landers, a retired extension sheep specialist and secretary of the American Romney Association, was most impressed with the uniformity of wool on the champions. "We do have good fleeces," said Dick Matlack, who showed the champions for Jagger Brothers. Both champions will be traveling to Louisville next week to compete in the NAILE.

Jagger Brothers also showed the reserve champion Corriedale ram and ewe.

Ohio breeders also fared well in the Merino show. Exhibiting the champion ewe were Joan Hess and Sons, of Brasada Spur Farms in Cable, Ohio. The ram had been named grand champion at the Champagne County Fair and will also be going to Louisville.

Charles R. Clouser and Daughters of Nova, Ohio, showed the champion ewe, which earlier this year had been named champion at the Ohio State Fair. The ewe's fine white wool, bare face and light colored feet were winning characteristics. The Clousers also showed the reserve champion ewe.

Jerry Frame, of Blue Rock, Ohio, showed the reserve champion ram.

The champion Romney ram was shown by Jean Woodward, of Hemlock Hill Farm, Sabillasville, Md. The yearling had "a fantastic fleece and good confirmation," Woodward pointed out. This champion, which also won at the Shepherd's Harvest in N.J., is up for sale.

Brian DeBano of Rochester, Mich., showed the champion ewe, a big-bodied yearling. The yearling was reserve champion in the youth division at the Michigan State Fair earlier this year.

Reserve champions in the Romney breed were Vesper Valley Farm, Spring Grove, with the reserve ram, and the Raymond Gavin Family from Mich. with the reserve ewe.

In the Rambouillet division, Johnson Brothers, another Ohio exhibitor, went home with the champion ram, a fall lamb that has not yet been beaten. "He wins his class everywhere we take him," Russel Johnson said.

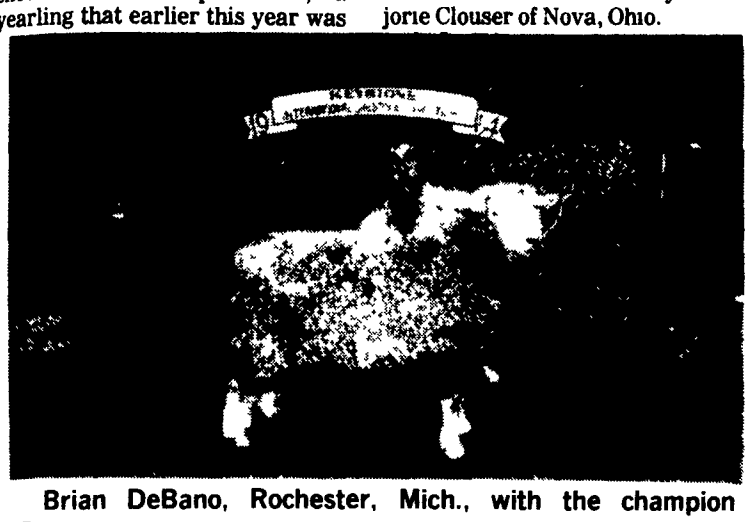
Kenneth T. Moore of Rome showed the champion ewe, a yearling that earlier this year was named champion at the New York State Fair. In naming this champion, the judge noted the ewe's outstanding fleece quality.

Moore also showed the reserve champion Rambouillet ram. The reserve ewe was shown by Marjorie Clouser of Nova, Ohio.



Brian DeBano, Rochester, Mich., with the champion Romney ewe.

Barbara Herr shares the limelight with the champion Hampshire ewe owned by B&B Livestock of Ohio.

Joan Hess and Sons, winners in the Merino competition, also picked up championships in the Columbia breed show. The Ohio family showed the champion ram and ewe, was named premier exhibitor, and also took top place in the exhibitor's flock class.

The reserve champion Columbia ram and ewe were also shown by a single breeder, Chester Farms, of Raphine, Va. The Columbia show was judged on Sunday by Dr. Leroy Boyd, Mississippi State sheep researcher.

Master Mix outlines ProTek dairy feed studies

FORT WAYNE, Ind. — A new dairy feed manufacturing process from Master Mix allows dairy producers to save on feed costs by reducing protein levels.

The process, Master Mix ProTek, cuts the amount of protein needed in milking rations by 15 to 20 percent, yet maintains milk production.

"With today's financial situation in the dairy business, the challenge for dairymen is to maximize profitable production instead of just maximizing production at any cost," says Dr. Rodney Dennis, dairy nutritionist at Central Soya Research.

"A good place to look at cutting expenses is in a feeding program since feed represents up to one-half of a dairyman's total input costs," Dennis says. "But at the same time, dairymen have to be careful not to neglect production. This is why ProTek can help. It cuts protein costs, but maintains milk production."

The ProTek manufacturing process allows dairymen to feed a grain ration wth three percentage points less protein. For example, if proper ration balancing calls for a ration with 20 percent protein, the dairyman could feed a ProTek ration with only 17 percent protein. That's where the cost savings come in.

How does the ProTek process work?

"ProTek technology enhances conventional protein," Dennis explains. "It actually alters the chemical properties of protein to yield higher utilization.

"This is not just another reformulation of protein sources like many other new dairy feeds," Dennis continues. "It's a technology owned exclusively by Central Soya. And because ProTek technology is so unique Central Soya has applied for a U.S. patent on it." European patents have already been granted.

University and on-farm trial results have shown that ProTek promises to be one of the greatest efficiency boosters available today, Dennis says.

Dairy cows fed ProTek-treated feeds averaged 44 lbs. of milk per day while control cows averaged 43.4 lbs. per day. Butterfat tests were maintained at 3.5 percent in both groups.

Although milk production was about the same, cows fed ProTek required only 3.3 lbs. of protein per cow while control cows consumed 4 lbs. of protein in the grain ration for a net savings of 0.7 lbs. of protein fed per cow per day. The average protein level of the ProTek-treated ration was 15 percent while the control cows received an 18 percent protein milking ration. Total feed consumption remained the same.

The trials involved more than 2,200 cows at the University of Tennessee, Ohio State University, the Central Soya Dairy Research Farm at Decatur, Indiana, and in individual herds in Florida, Georgia, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin.

Results were recorded at all stages of lactation. Several roughages and feed forms were included.

Available as either a concentrate or complete feed, Master Mix ProTek is designed to meet any of seven protein levels, ranging from 12 to 18 percent. The complete feeds are formulated with either 85 to 90 megacalories of energy per pound.

ROARING SPRING — Four salesmen were recognized for outstanding sales performance at a company-wide convention held by young's, inc., at the Sheraton Inn, Altoona.

Selected for Outstanding First-Year Sales Performance were: James G. Longenecker of 540 Valley Ave., Atglen; and Curt Umble, Landisville. Selection for this award is based on sales volume, new account growth, individual growth in selling skills, product and market knowledge, and other skill areas important in the development of a new sales territory.

Ray L. Brechbill of 845 Erbs Quarry Rd., Lititz; was presented the District Leader Award which is given to the sales representatives who accumulate the greatest number of points in their sales district. Points are awarded for sales volume and territory management.

Named to the Top Achievers Club was Ray Kline of 6 Arlin Circle, Lititz. Selection to the prestigious Top Achievers Club is based on sales volume, credit management, new account growth and other criteria involved in territory management.

Longenecker is a sales representative for young's, inc., Livestock Nutritional Services in Chester County, Umble in Northern Lancaster County, Brechbill in the New Holland area for 12 years and Kline in Western Lancaster and Southern Dauphin Counties for 2 1/2 years.

All work directly with area dairy and livestock producers in ration balancing and feeding management along with providing a complete line of mineral/vitamin premixes, supplements, and allied products.

Deere dealers meet at Mt. Joy

BY KAREN BELBER

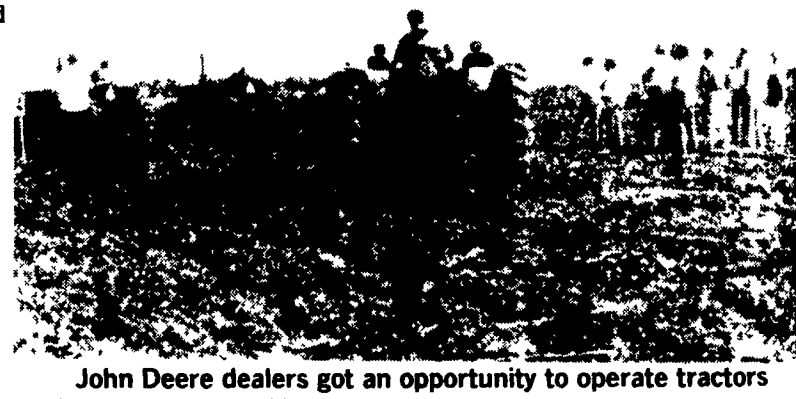
MT. JOY — The Kenneth Zurin farm in Mt. Joy was the setting for a two-and a-half day John Deere dealer convention Oct. 29-30. John Deere dealers from 13 Northeast states and sales representatives traveled to Lancaster County to participate in seminars on consumer products at the Host Corral and to test drive a full line of John Deere farm equipment.

An estimated 300 people attended the event, according to territory manager Gene Walker. Some of the John Deere products included a new heavy duty harvester, Titan II combines, a double wind row attachment for mower conditioners, a disc-type three-point hitch mower and a new Model 4250 120-horsepower quadrange tractor with mechanical front wheel drive, as well as numerous other equipment, Walker said.

Some of the John Deere managers at the field day event were Fred Rovere, branch manager; Don Stover, general sales manager; and division sales manager, Dan McGinn.

Factory representatives were available at the four different field stations set up on Zurin's farm.

New equipment is examined during John Deere dealer gathering at Mt. Joy, Lancaster County.



John Deere dealers got an opportunity to operate tractors during sessions at Mt. Joy.

SE Farm Credit offers scholarship

WEST CHESTER — The Board of Directors of the Southeast Farm Credit Association announces the availability of its fourth annual $500.00 scholarship toward the higher education of a student planning to pursue a career in agriculture.

The Southeast Associations have offices in Avondale, Silverdale and West Chester serving over 2,000 members of the agricultural community in Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties with long and short term financing.

One of the requirements of the applicant is that his or her parent (s) or guardian (s) must reside in one of these counties. The applicant must be a high school senior planning to attend a four year college on a full-time basis with agriculture or agri-business as the major emphasis of study.

Notification of the availability of the scholarship is being sent to the Administrators of the secondary schools in the five county area. We also intend to reach as many of the private school systems. Anyone whose educational institution was not contacted should not consider himself or herself excluded from requesting an application form. They are encouraged to contact the Southeast Farm Credit Associations, Administrative Offices, P.O. Box 514, West Chester, PA, 19381 or telephone (215) 431-1257.

A.O. Smith calls for more computer education

MILWAUKEE, Wisc. — The growing use of business computers by farmers places heavy responsibility for education on financial lenders and computer systems developers, Roger H. Zorn, general manager of A.O. Smith's Farm Management Products Division, told farm lenders at a fall conference in Chicago.

As professional farmers become more aware that computers — properly selected and used — can help their balance sheets," Zorn said, "lenders and software develpers must work together to present farmers with unique hardware/software systems that are more than record-keeping toys."

When used for its intended purpose," Zorn said, "a business computer on the farm today is a long-range strategic management tool that allows farmers to be more professional in their approach to financial planning, equipment monitoring, production unit development and decision making."

On the other hand, Zorn said, a farm-oriented computer program or system that is not skillfully developed for long-range use, with the capability of continual updating to incorporate new technology, can be more damaging than having no computer at all.

"Few farmers have the time or interest in recording information on so-called farm software if they will not allow them to use the data to make intelligent management decisions," Zorn said. "Nor will lenders derive the full benefit from client data if they are unable to use the information easily to make lending decisions."

Zorn recommended that lenders use five specific criteria when recommending farm business computer systems to clients:

1. The system must allow the farmer and lender to record information that will aid them both to manage the farm operation economically.

2. The hardware manufacturer should have a lengthy history of dependability.

3. The software developer should have a history of working with the farming community and understanding the farmer's short- and long-range needs for recordkeeping and record-retrieval.

4. The software developer should give evidence that it is constantly updating its programs to help users take advantage of new technology.

5. The software developer must be able to present farmers with easy-to-use programs that will not be a burden on his time.

Lenders and systems developers must coach farmers to understand that today's technology is tomorrow's history," Zorn said. "Computers are dynamic instruments that continually change for the better....Therefore, smart farmers align themselves with manufacturers that will remain available to them through the years as consultants and providers of new technology."

"Farmers look to their lenders for advice in matters related to recordkeeping and finance," Zorn said. "If lenders steer their clients to computer systems that are too complex, offer imcomplete software, or fail to satisfy joint lender/client needs for recording history and projecting future possibilities, both the lender and farmer will suffer."

The Farm Management Products division of A.O. Smith Corporation is one of the nation's leading suppliers of computer systems for farmers. The division has drawn on over 30 years of A.O. Smith experience in agriculture and data processing to develop the Agri-Key series of software programs. These programs help livestock farmers manage their enterprise in an efficient and profitable manner. The division provides IBM hardware, installation, training and an 800 toll-free telephone number to all customers.

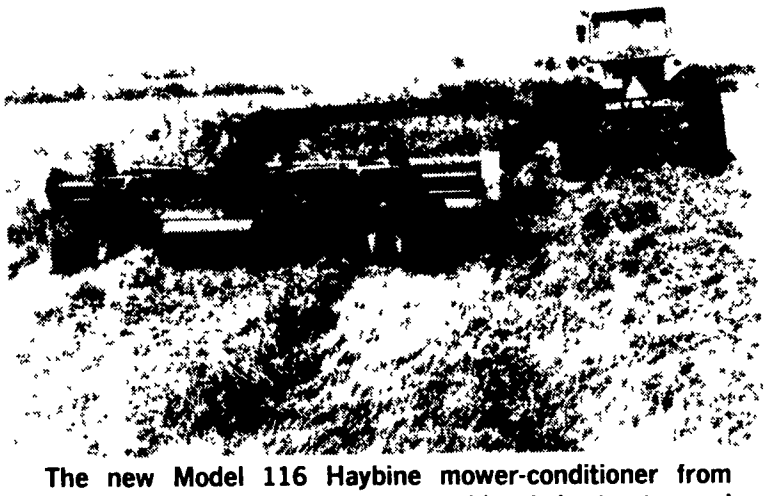
A.O. Smith, with its subsidiaries and affiliates, is a diversified manufacturer. Its product lines include electric motors, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, auto and truck structural components, water heating equipment, fiber glass reinforced plastic piping systems, computer services and software, and agricultural financing.

Haybine MC announced

NEW HOLLAND — A new pivot-tongue Haybine mower-conditioner from Sperry New Holland cuts a 16-foot swath and conditions with 8'6" rubber rolls. The crop can be left in wide swath for fast curing or a controlled width windrow for baling or chopping without raking.

An optional kit and easily removed conditioning rolls allow the new Model 116 to windrow crops such as grass seed that do not require conditioning. Other features include counter-stroking twin sickles to reduce cutterbar vibration, and cutterbar angle adjustment from six to 12 degrees below horizontal. An optional transporter results in an 11' wide towing width.

A 14'3" header is also available. A 60 HP tractor is required.



The new Model 116 Haybine mower-conditioner from Sperry New Holland cuts on either side of the tractor and leaves the crop in a wide swath or controlled width windrow.

2 bulls to ABS

DE FOREST, Wisc. — Two Holstein bulls, Burket-Falls Polled Ed-Red-ET, bred by David Burket, Burket Falls Farm, of East Freedom; and Glendas Pen-Col Great-ET, bred by Pen-Col Farms, Millville, have been selected by American Breeders Service to enter their Progeny Testing Program.

They have been moved to that company's facilities at DeForest, Wisc., where they will join approximately 200 other bulls being tested this year.

Burket-Falls Polled Ed-Red-ET is sired by Coldsprings Elevation Fagin, +$55, +426M and +16BF. Burket-Falls Mini Mae-Red-ET, His dam, has production records to 17,306 lbs. of milk. She is classified VG-87 and is sired by Burket-Falls Houdini.

Glendas Pen-Col Great-ET is sired by Browncroft Jetson, +$164, +1,643M and +34BF. Whittington Glendell 53, His dam, has production records to 25,390 lbs. of milk, She is classified VG-87 and is sired by Glendell Arlinda Chief.

Hesston improves round balers

HESSTON, Kan. — The addition of several new or improved features have been announced to two of Hesston's Round Balers.

A key advantage incorporated in the balers in the new automatic bale ejector which rolls bales away from the machine when unloading. This eliminates the need to back off the windrow each time a bale is ejected. The operator can just close the tailgate and start baling again.

Depending on crop and conditions, the Model 5545 builds solid 4-foot wide by up to 70" diameter bales weighing up to 1,200 pounds. The 5585 builds 5 foot wide by up to 70" diameter bales weighing up to 1,500 pounds. Work capacity translates into 10 and 12 tons of hay per hour.

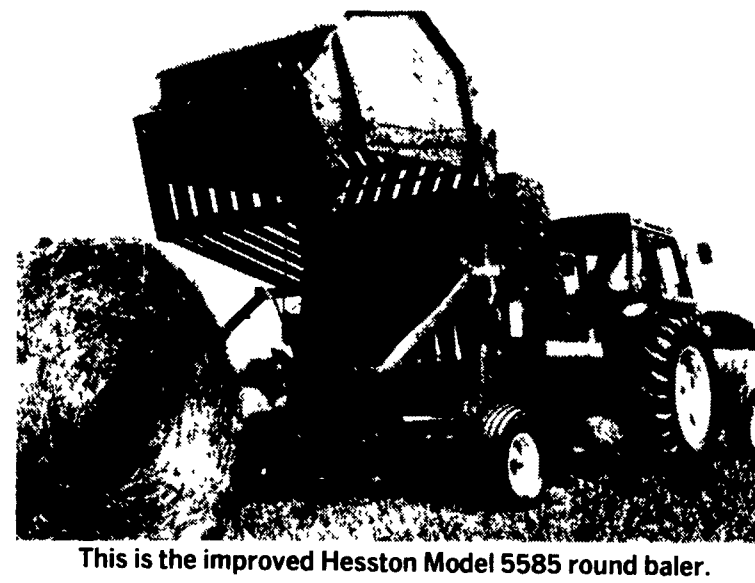
"We have also introduced a new rubber surface on the bale forming belts," said Bob Granaas, product sales manager. "This has been shown to increase traction. Both models also have a special belt slacking system. This belt slacker, combined with our open throat and vertical chamber, gives fast, easy bale starting. Nearly anyone can bale like pro with these two units!"

Another standard feature on these Rounder models is the Pak-Ur-Bale Windrow-Gathering Wheels which increase effective pickup width by 16 inches. The optional axle extensions available on both models increases tread width for better center of gravity in hilly conditions.

The low-profile pickup tines have been redesigned with a 15-20 degree tine angle that produces improved performance in dry conditions. Pickup width ranges from 54 inches for Model 5545 to 66 inches with the 5585.

The 5545 will operate with a 50 hp tractor and a 55 hp is required for the Model 5585. Other standard equipment includes a bale counter, hydraulic "lockout" on tailgate, and automatic pickup declutcher.

Optional equipment includes a bale shaper electronic monitor, automatic twine threader and high flotation tires.



This is the improved Hesston Model 5585 round baler.

Mushroom meeting on Tuesday

KENNETT SQUARE — The American Mushroom Institute will be the first agricultural association nationally to arrange a personal briefing by USDA on an important new law: Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act Trust Amendments (PACA).

First-hand information on the PACA trust protections will be given at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13 at the Hockessin, Del. Fire Hall.

Copies of the new regulations will be distributed. Bring your questions to be answered by Washington's PACA expert, Jack Flanagan. Find out how your farm can get the most benefits from the PACA law.

A plan of action for promotion of mushrooms for 1985 will be discussed.

Sire Power

TUNKHANNOCK — The Maryland Sales Division of Sire Power recently held its annual Open House with several hundred dairy farmers and other guests attending.

General Manager, DuWayne Kutz greeted the members, guests, and friends.

"The patronage equity you have in the co-op assures you that you have a say in the pricing of the sires," he said. "Sire Power is proud that it can return 50% in patronage dividends and invest the other 50% in your facilities and bull programs. "Last year Sire Power returned $357,000 in patronage dividends to all Sales Division members."

Marlin Hoff, President of the Maryland Sales Division Board, reviewed some highlights of Sire Power's accomplishments and events over the past year. He also conveyed a strong message on reasons not to deal with a "semen jockey" on any level. Marlin said. "When you buy from a 'jockey', you are only helping him, he doesn't pay dividends to you, and besides you have no idea where the semen has been."

An annual event at this Open House is the induction of someone into the Maryland Dairy Shrine. Edwin Fry, Chestertown, Md. was honored and became the 21st person inducted into the Maryland Dairy Shrine. Fry, the founder of a well-known registered Holstein herd with the Fair Hill prefix, has made many contributions to the dairy industry in Maryland and across the country.

Concluding the day was the traditional "parade" of Sire Power daughters. This feature provides a "first hand" impression of the outstanding Sire Power genetics working in the Maryland members' herds.

BVD vaccine introduced

DES MOINES, Ia. — A new killed virus vaccine for Bovine Virus Diarrhea (BVD) offers producers increased safety has just been introduced by Syntex Animal Health (Diamond Laboratories, Inc.). Resprotect vaccine is available only by prescription from veterinarians.

The new killed virus BVD vaccine is safer and more effective compared to modified live virus (MLV) vaccines, according to Syntex. In some cases, MLV BVD vaccines have been associated with problems in stressed calves, calves with limited ability to produce immunity, and pregnant cows. The killed BVD virus used in Resprotect is safe for cattle of all ages, including pregnant cows, the company said.

In addition, Resprotect vaccine is supplied and administered with Prolong, a new adjuvant, that provides increased levels and duration of immunity. Prolong is mixed with the vaccine just prior to injection and helps enhance the effectiveness of the vaccine.

Extensive testing by Diamond Laboratories as well as independent veterinarians shows Resprotect is safe and effective, according to the company. Label directions are for two doses at a 21 to 28-day interval. Laboratory tests indicate the vaccine can provide adquate BVD immunity levels after a single dose. In field studies, antibody levels were considered sufficient to produce effective immunity.

Bou-Matic claw introduced

NORWALK, Ct. — Spectra International, Inc. 61 Smith St., Norwalk, Ct. has introduced a Bou-Matic Standard and Wide Body Claw with a TeSa Stainless Steel Shutoff Valve.

The shutoff valve allows positive vacuum cutoff before removal of the milking cluster for improved udder health and sanitation. The TeSa valve is precision machined from a solid bar of stainless steel for perfect alignment, positive vacuum shutoff and smooth turning action. A machined valve is superior to a welded valve since welding can distort the alignment of the plug and body and leave pits and impurities on the inside of the valve. The valve is welded close to the claw body for balance and easy handling.

All the features of the Bou-Matic Claw have been retained: stainless steel construction, plexiglass windows for visibility, 3/4 self draining outlet and long, wide placed inlet nipples to accommodate a wide range of udders. "Good grief, the animals got out again!"
It's time to buy Springtight.

You never can rest easy if you rely on old, patched-up fencing and "feed-store" chargers to keep your animals in. Repairing rusty fencing and replacing rotting posts wastes your time and energy while it puts both your animals and crops at risk.

We're the people who pioneered a new, integrated System of our own Springtight high-tensile fencing and Gallagher high power energizers from New Zealand. It's a System that costs you less in the long run, and lets you stop worrying at last about animals getting out.

Do your spring fencing now! Our System easily shrugs off snow loads and winter storms. By installing Springtight/Gallagher fencing in the next few weeks, you can take advantage of fall grazing and be ready for spring.

Wild horse transportation costs dropped

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Wild horse and burro adopters no longer will be charged transportation costs for excess animals shipped from one adoption center to another, Bureau of Land Management Director Robert Burford has announced.

Burford said transportation costs are being eliminated to encourage greater participation in the Bureau's Adopt-A-Horse Program, a 10-year-old effort that finds foster homes for excess wild horses and burros removed from public lands in the West.

"Transportation costs added to our nationwide basic adoption fee were discouraging adoptions," Burford said. "This ultimately resulted in increasing costs to taxpayers due to the expense of feeding large numbers of horses already in corrals for extended periods of time. We want to do everything possible to find good homes for these excess wild horses and burros."

Elimination of the transportation charges means the cost of adopting a horse or burro will be the same anywhere in the Nation, $125 per horse and $75 per burro. Previously, with transportation costs added, the adoption cost of a wild horse ranged up to $215, and for a burro, $140.

The change in policy coincides with the beginning of a substantial increase in the number of excess animals removed from public and private lands in the West. As part of the Fiscal Year 1985 Appropriations Act, Congress is requiring BLM to remove more than 17,000 excess wild horses and burros during the year.

Although the Wild Free-Roaming Horse and Burro Act of 1971 requires the Secretary of the Interior to "immediately remove excess animals," BLM has found it impossible to keep up with population increases. Approximately 60,300 wild horses and burros roam public (and in some cases, private) lands today. Based on land use planning completed to date, an estimated 24,000 animals can be maintained on the forage and water resources available to them.

"Costs of feeding and maintaining captured animals average $2.00 per day." Burford continued. "We feel that dropping transportation costs will increase adoptions in the Midwest and East significantly so that animals remain in our corrals for shorter periods of time."

BLM's Adopt-A-Horse Program has placed more than 50,000 animals in private hands. The Bureau maintains 11 year-round adoption facilities across the Nation, including centers in Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, and Wyoming. It also frequently operates temporary adoption centers in areas some distance from its permanent facilities.

Wild horses and burros can be tamed and trained for most of the same purposes as domestic animals, such as riding, showing, farm work, and packing. Adoption information and applications may be obtained by writing Adopt-A-Horse, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Don't Buy Costly Problems

When you experience problems in a dairy herd, they can be very expensive, and added expense is one thing that most farmers can do without these days! These problems may appear in the form of: reproductive failure, mastitis, respiratory ailments, Johnes, etc.

One good way of helping to prevent many of these problems is to maintain a closed herd and enforce strict visitation rules. Immunization, good sanitation, good ventilation and a general reduction of stress in animals is a big help, too.

Experiencing these problems can be a very costly, sad experience. What's even sadder is when you pay money to buy outside cattle that bring these problems home to haunt you and your herd; that's a double whammie!

Buying herd replacements can be very beneficial, especially where land and feeds are scarce. On small acreage, you need milk to generate cash flow. That means raising more cows, better cows and fewer heifers – and fewer long-term dry cows. There is also a greater, quicker return on dollars spent for expensive feeds that are fed to good milking cows, as compared to feeds fed to heifers and long-term dry cows.

Once you have established a good herd, the benefits of buying replacements may not be as great for several reasons. The kind of replacements you need for maintaining a higher herd average are more expensive. Secondly, you have more to lose if a herd health problem should arise: your cattle are more valuable; income from the sale of valuable breeding stock may decline. On the other hand, if you have a good herd, merchandising cattle can be a good way to boost income as well as introduce new genetic material into the herd.

The benefits of buying herd replacements has to be weighed against the risk of bringing in herd health problems. These risks can be minimized if you take a few precautions.

1. Buy from reputable people.
2. Before you buy a cow consider why that cow is being sold. Then think of all the cows you sell from your herd, and why you sold them. Would you want to buy them back Let's be sure we are not just swapping one problem for another – possibly even a greater problem!
3. Know the health status of the cows you are buying and the herd they came from, and what they may have been exposed to (diseases, stresses, etc.) from the time they left their "old" herd until they arrive at your farm.
4. Discuss with your veterinarian what immunizations you need to perform on your herd to protect them from "outside" cattle, or how to treat cattle that have become infected.
5. Also discuss what immunizations purchased cattle might need to have before they are introduced into your herd. See if the cattle to be purchased have been so immunized, and if not, whether they can be before delivery.
6. Have an isolation barn where purchased cattle can be observed for about two weeks before being introduced to the herd. This will also give you some time to take cultures and run any tests you or your veterinarian deem necessary. When you are buying replacements, remember that non-lactating animals are easier to isolate then cows that are in production.
7. Reduce stress on purchased animals, and on the herd they are coming into. If possible, try to avoid buying and transporting cattle during inclement weather, and during seasons when great fluctuations occur between daytime and nighttime temperatures.
8. Until you know a purchased cow is free of mastitis, milk her last, to avoid the risk of spreading infection to other cows.
9. Similarly, until you know she is free of any reproductive infections, avoid using your herd bull on the purchased cow. You don't want him spreading any infection to other cattle in the herd.
10. Practice strict sanitation as you visit each other in the process of buying and selling cattle. Remember, we can carry cattle disease organisms. Wear boots. Clean them and disinfect them. Stay out of feed alleys. Change boots and clothing.
11. Keep the barn well ventilated. Frequent changes of air also remove germ-laden, moisture droplets. This is very beneficial in keeping respiratory problems to a minimum.

I realize I've listed a lot of precautions, and that it may not be practical to do all of them. But it is something to think about. While there is a lot to be said for maintaining closed herds, there is also a lot of benefit in buying and selling cattle. The important thing is to know what you are doing; know the risks and take efforts to minimize them.

Wheat anther research explained

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Anther culture, the process by which male sex organs in plants are prodded to produce adult plants, may help wheat researchers develop new varieties of wheat that promise increased yields and survival in a range of environments.

"If we can find out how to improve the frequencies of anther culture response, it will significantly reduce the labor required to produce some lines of crop plants," say agronomists Joy Marburger and David Sammons.

Anthers, the male sex organ of plants, normally produce pollen cells that carry sperm to fertilize the plant's egg cells. And in normal plant development, the end product of this fertilization process is seeds.

But pollen can be guided into another developmental pathway, using anther culture, according to Marburger and Sammons. Immature anthers are removed from the plant and cultured on a nutrient medium in test tubes. Instead of forming sex cells or sperm, the pollen produced by the cultured anthers develops into a mass of cream colored tissue called callus.

"In some crops, like tobacco, small plants develop from these pollen cells," says Marburger. "But with wheat, the callus must be removed from the test tube culture and placed on another medium to get plants to form."

Getting the cultures to form a callus has proven to be a difficult first but necessary step for researchers. Their best success to date comes from a culture medium consisting of sucrose, plant growth hormones, iron and an extract from boiled potatoes.

But not just any potatoes, according to Marburger. Although they do not know exactly what it is in potatoes that causes a callus to develop, they do know that peeled potatoes produce a 67 percent increase in the number of anthers with callus over potatoes with skins.

"The potato skin apparently contains some retarding substances," says Marburger.

One of the best environmental conditions for callus formation, according to a study by Marburger is to subject anthers to a cold treatment of 4 degrees Centigrade for approximately 1 week.

"Warmer or colder temperatures, or shorter or longer incubation periods provides variable frequencies of callus formation, depending upon the cereal species studied," Marburger says.

Chemical treatments offer some promise of success, according to the two scientists. Barley researchers have tried what they call conditioned media–growth media inoculated with anthers which are subsequently removed after 7 days. New anthers are cultured in this same media. "It proved effective in barley, but seems to inhibit callus formation in wheat," says Marburger.

"Hormone solutions applied to plants before culture seem to have no effect," she adds. "It might prove useful in future research to determine the constituents of the anther culture medium that induce pollen formation in wheat. We should then look more closely at environmental conditions affecting anther culture," Marburger says.

Market lamb competition at KILE

BY WENDY WEHR

HARRISBURG — A long-time exhibitor at KILE picked up two championships and a lot of first place wins in class competition during the Open Market Lamb show on Sunday. Johnson Brothers, of Hillsboro, Ohio, showed the grand champion individual wether lamb and the grand champion pen of three at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

"We've only missed three shows since the first KILE," said Russell Johnson, which makes 25 years of sheep showing at KILE, in the market lamb competition as well as the breeding sheep shows.

Johnson noted that they've picked up the premier exhibitor honors with their Dorsets in the breeding sheep shows.

The Johnson brothers placed in the top three of nearly every breed division of the market lamb show, but it was their Suffolk entries that took the two championship titles for the top individual and top pen of three.

The reserve champion individual, also a Suffolk lamb, in the open competition was shown by James Hefner, Lima, Ohio. B and B Livestock, Danville, Ohio, took the reserve champion pen of three title with their Hampshire entries.

Although the Ohioans swept the championships in the open competition, the honors in the junior market lamb show were shared by Massachusetts and Pennsylvania natives.

Herr, the daughter Dr. Robert and Betty W. Herr, comes from a family of winning exhibitors. Last year her sister Barb showed the grand champion in the open market lamb show. Along with her reserve championship this year, Margaret also showed the first place pen of three in the junior market lamb show.

Judge of the KILE market lamb shows was Dr. Leroy Boyd, a faculty member at Mississippi State University. Dr. Boyd is known for his teaching and sheep research.

Following are the top three placings in the open and junior market lambs show.

From hot air balloons to other ag pests

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — The issues are varied. It may be hot air balloons spooking cattle, or crop damage caused by balloons or sky divers landing in fields, and the traffic of attending vehicles.

It might be the problems encountered by a rural resident when a tree falls on the power line between road and buildings...and the power line is private, not power company-owned.

It could be a new pest, like the soybean cyst nematode, found in New Jersey for the first time this past season.

It's issues like these that make the monthly County Board of Agriculture meetings interesting, at times exciting. The board includes a program on each meeting agenda. It's not always a "hot" issue in the agricultural community. The programs are most often informative and educational.

President of the Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture is Fred Clucas, Tewksbury Township grain farmer. He will be making his report to the membership at the association's annual meeting, next Saturday evening, Nov. 17, at Quakertown Fire House.

He is particularly pleased with the two new activities this year: Ag Awareness Day and the county's corn contest. Ag Awareness Day was a day of open houses on 12 different farms in the county. Host farms were spruced up for the occasion, tours available, demonstrations, and more.

The corn contest in new, with six entries. Three of the six have been harvested and yields confirmed. The costs of inputs have also been reported and have been summarized Dr. Bob Latimer, farm management specialist at Rutgers.

Winners of the contest will be announced at the annual meeting.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

There are a number of annual events scheduled by the ag board. They include: the Farmers'-Businessmen's Picnic; the Dairy Farm Open House with attendance of close to 2,000 people; the Farmers' Day activities at Flemington Agricultural Fair; the Pennsylvania Farm Show bus trip.

They have included programs on chain saw safety (NHHS Vo-Ag group); handicaps on horseback; deer management; an American Farm Bureau film on the '85 Farm Bill; Agriculture in the Classroom, a new program in the schools. The association often contributes financially to efforts like these.

A big event this year was the N.J. Agricultural Society Legislators' tour of Hunterdon. The local ag board strongly supported this activity.

Monthly meetings are held on the first Wednesday of each month, at 8 p.m. in the Extension Center. Public is always welcome. Occasionally, the meeting is shifted to the second Wednesday to avoid a conflict with other activities.

The annual meeting coming up next Saturday includes a roast beef dinner. This year's speaker will be Harold "Nate" Repair, Somerset County Ag Agent, speaking on the subject, "The Dilemma of a County Agent."

Tobacco grades aired

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — According to Stuart Carr, Secretary of the Maryland Tobacco Authority, the question of reinstating USDA grading to tobacco was due to be discussed at the Nov. 9 meeting of the Authority.

"In addition to considering the opening and closing dates for the 1985 auction market season," Carr said, "we had been asked to open the agenda for discussion of having Maryland Tobacco Auctions return to a 'designated market status' which means all tobacco would be offered for sale on a graded basis.

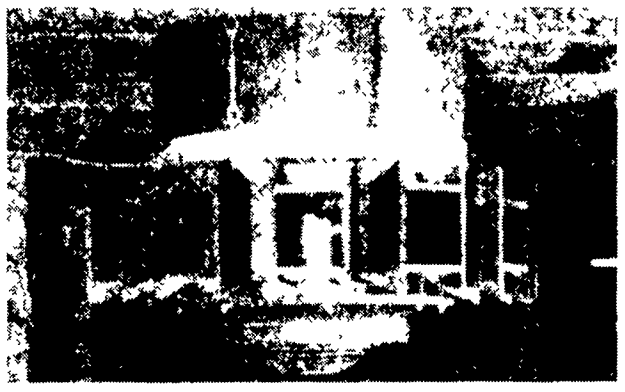
"Some of those suggesting a return to grading...which would be done on a cost-basis and paid for by the seller....say they are fearful that off-quality 1983 crop Maryland tobacco which was unsold this year could act as a price damper on the 1985 market which will see high quality, 1984 crop, tobacco offered."

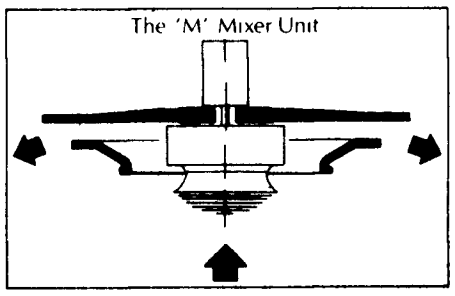
"That's why we allowed discussion of the issue at the November meeting," he said.

The RFC "FRISTAVENT" System

ENERGY SAVING SYSTEMS BY FRISTAMAT

The "FRISTAVENT" a system with ASSETS of the "ARTIC" and VERSATILITY of the "AIRDISC" The ECONOMICAL distribution system from FRISTAMAT.

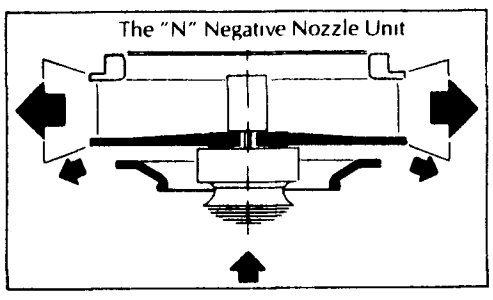




The FRISTAVENT uses a CENTRIFUGAL fan that lays out a continuous CARPET of barn air, this ensures an EVEN DISTRIBUTION OF FRESH AIR to the livestock with NO DOWN DRAFTS.

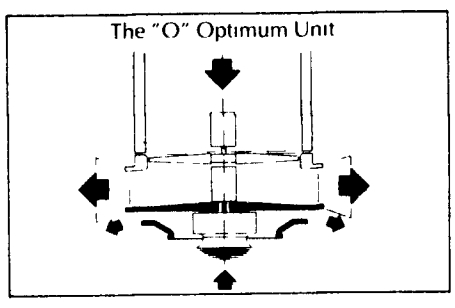
The "M" Mixer Unit

The "M" Unit lays out the carpet of barn air to even distribute the fresh air brought in by the exhaust fan that creates the negative pressure.



The "N" Negative Nozzle Unit

The "N" Unit gives a more precise fresh air distribution.



The "O" Optimum Unit

The "O" unit has all the features of the "M" Mixer and "N" Negative with Nozzle, it includes a variable speed fan in the intake duct to optimize its capacity.

FEATURES OF THE FRISTAVENT SYSTEMS

- Negative neutral and positive ventilation
- Ease of installation
- Draft free (when neutral or positive)
- Excellent air distribution
- Adaptable to varying livestock capacities
- Unaffected by weather conditions
- Can upgrade existing negative pressure

Systems with proper air distribution and energy saving.

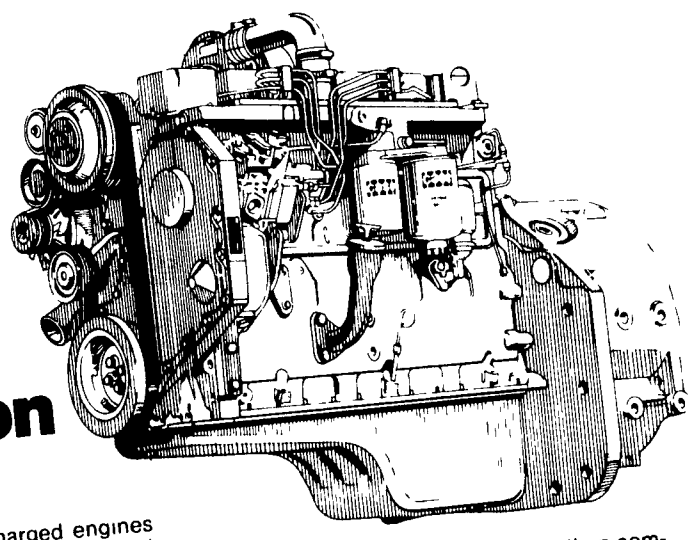
J.I. CASE COMPANY BRINGS YOU THE ENGINE OF THE FUTURE IN TODAY'S NEW CASE 96 SERIES TRACTORS.

NEW 96 SERIES



Profit from the power of innovation

New Case 6-cylinder turbocharged engines powering 96 Series tractors represent an ideal combination of the best in proven diesel technology computer-assisted design and manufacturing techniques

Peak operating efficiency

Turbocharging, an advantage not common to tractors in the 90 to 120 PTO horsepower (67 to 120 kW) class, is an innovation of the new Case 96 Series The result is an engine that sets exceptional standards of reliability fuel economy and performance The 2096 is after-cooled and turbocharged to give you even more power

High torque boosts your production

You'll like the Case high-torque difference Operating at relatively low rpm s torque rises fast, then hangs on and on to keep you going through tough and varied conditions without stalling You can expect lugging ability plus more productivity

Simplicity and savings for you

These new Case engines are exceptional in design simplicity and integrated construction They have 15% to 25% fewer parts than competitive engines of similar size In addition many engine components are more readily accessible To you this means quicker easier routine maintenance

Power you can count on

See us now for the new Case 96 Series and more facts on how the power of innovation can help you produce more with greater efficiency day after day after day

Take a Turbo-powered Field Test now. See us!

Slash drying costs as much as 75% with the AeroDry™ System

Cut Energy Costs 75%—Uses the drying power of fan forced air. No gas to buy. And the only electricity used powers the computer con trolled fan system.

Reduced Shrinkage—Shrink loss is cut up to 50% through natural moisture removal without high temperature heat.

Better Grain Quality—With no high temperature heat to crack and damage grain, more starch, sugar, valuable nutrients and profit are retained.

It's All in the Computer—The AeroDry Computer automatically monitors dry down day and night—then holds optimum storage conditions to keep grain in top condition.

Farm proven from the Midwest to the East Coast, the AeroDry System can improve your grain drying operation. Call or mail the coupon for more information and where to see the AeroDry System in action.

Hog meetings scheduled

LANCASTER — Representatives from the U.S. Department of Agriculture will discuss new regulations on pork products in a series of meetings conducted by Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service in November.

Among other things, the participants will talk about regulations on monitoring added water and other substances in processed pork foods.

Two meetings will be held in the Farm and Home Center meeting room in Lancaster on November 12. The first session starts at 2:30, and the evening session starts at 7 p.m.

Lehigh County hosts it own meeting the next day at 2 p.m. at the Berks-Lehigh Farm Credit Center in Fogelsville.

Meetings are free to all interested. There is no pre-registration. For further information, call the Lancaster County Extension office at (717) 394-6851, or the Lehigh County Extension office at (215) 820-3085.

More farmers leav

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Whatever its final impact, the farm debt restructuring program announced in September comes at a time of severe financial stress on a small, but significant, proportion of the nation's farms.

Many operators have already found it necessary to refinance short-term loans, others have been forced to sell off some land or equipment, and some have given up or faced foreclosure. For their part, farm lenders are increasingly concerned about defaults and delinquencies. Credit requirements have been tightened, and more overdue accounts are being closed out.

Net Income to Drop

"Many farmers are doing very well, but there's no doubt that others need help with cash flow and debt problems," says Agriculture Department economist Gary Lucier of the Economic Research Service. Although agricultural interest rates have fallen since 1981 and 1982, they remain high. Last year, net cash farm income, adjusted for inflation, reached the highest level since 1980, but PIK program disbursements take much of the credit. On an inflation-adjusted basis, 1984 net cash income is expected to drop below the figures for the last several years.

If overall conditions for agriculture appear more stable than they were a year or two ago, as many economists contend, the greater stability has not yet given some farmers the breathing room they need to handle their accumulated debts. In a recent issue of USDA's FARMLINE magazine, economists Stephen Gabriel and George Amols point to several signs of continuing financial difficulties:

— Based on responses of 522 agricultural lenders to a January survey by the American Bankers Association, 2.5 percent of their loans were under foreclosure and 8.7 percent were considered distressed. Another 22 percent were under close supervision. The numbers are small, but they are up.

— The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis estimated that, between October 1983 and March 1984, 3.4 percent of farmers and ranchers in its area discontinued farming because of financial difficulties. For comparison, the estimate was 2 percent for the same period a year earlier.

— The American Council of Life Insurance reported that 2.6 percent of the farm debt held by life insurance companies last December was in the process of foreclosure. Figures were 2.4 percent for 1982 and 1.2 percent for 1981.

USDA analysts don't have precise figures, but they agree that more farmers are leaving agriculture because of financial troubles.

Why, Who, and Where?

They also say that farm financial problems cannot be traced to a single source. Agriculture's long-term pattern of growing volume, lower margins on sales, and declining real prices for farm commodities may be partly to blame.

A more direct cause was the fairly abrupt shift from the rapid appreciation in farmland values, high inflation, and low interest rates of the 1970's. It was an environment that encouraged credit-financed expansion, and, in some cases, overexpansion. Farmers who borrowed heavily to expand or enter agriculture were hit by a sharp rise in interest rates, the recent recession, the slump in farm exports, and the decline in land values–the collateral base for much of the credit.

"In the last few years, the agricultural sector has been experiencing extremely difficult financial conditions," explains Stephen Gabriel. "Low and volatile real farm income, growing debt, record-high interest rates, variable-rate loans, and the declining value of farmland have all converged to place many farmers, particularly the highly leveraged operators, in vulnerable financial positions."

Cash Grain Hit

Although debt problems are not limited to any specific commodities, regions, or farm sizes, debt tends to be more heavily concentrated among certain types of farms in certain areas. Cash grain farms, for example, show a relatively high proportion of operators with large debts relative to their assets.

The Corn Belt, Northern Plains, Great Lakes states, and the Mississippi Delta are identified as areas where the debt-to-asset ratios of farmers registered the greatest increases between 1980 and 1983. In the Corn Belt, debts reached an average of 21.4 percent of assets in 1983, up from 15 percent in 1980.

Average debt-to-asset ratios were even higher in the Northern Plains and Great Lakes area, at 26 percent and 25 percent, respectively. In contrast, debts amounted to less than 16 percent of assets in the Southern Plains and less than 20 percent of assets in the Northeast and Appalachia.

Debt Risk and Farm Size

Average debt-to-asset ratios also tend to rise with farm size. In other words, the larger farmers are typically carrying the largest debts relative to assets. The smaller farms usually carry less of a debt load, plus they tend to show greater stability in total income because more of their income comes from off-farm employment.

"Farms having the most problems with debt and cash flow are primarily the highly leveraged commercial-size farms (those with annual sales of $40,000 or more)," confirms George Amols. "owners of smaller farms appear to be in much better financial shape."

At the start of this year, nearly a third of operations in the $40,000 to $199,999 sales class had debt-to-asset ratios of 40 percent or more. More than four out of ten farms in the $200,000-plus sales class carried debt ratios of 40 percent or more. That's considered a high-risk position.

Debt-ridden operators are having an impact on the entire farm sector, where average debt-to-asset ratios have continued to climb. Debts were equal to 17.0 percent of assets in 1980. By January 1, 1984, the ratio had hit 21.6 percent, a historical high. In the same period, outstanding debts rose from $170 billion to $201 billion. Meanwhile, farm sector assets declined in value from $986 billion to $929 billion.

Analysts don't expect an immediate improvement in the farm financial situation. More than 60 percent of total farm debt is owed by highly leveraged operators. "Lenders know," says Amols, "that even if farm income improves, a large portion of their customers will continue to have serious cash flow problems."

Lenders Affected

Financial problems for farm borrowers bring financial risks for farm lenders.

"Farm lenders will probably face a challenging credit environment for several years to come," adds Stephen Gabriel. "Their continued profitability and strong capital positions indicate they have the ability to cope with future difficulties in the farm sector, but their resiliency may well be challenged."

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) typically carries the greatest share of high-risk loans. In 1980, FmHA was followed by production credit associations (PCA's), merchants who sell products on credit, and

Restructuring farm debt

WASHINGTON, D. C. — According to FmHA, the Farm Credit Initiative, announced on Sept. 18, is designed "to help farmers who have demonstrated operating skills but cannot repay existing loans due to cash flow problems."

The program provides for:

— five-year deferrals on collecting part of an FmHA farm borrower's debt so that required payments will be within the means of the borrower's cash flow. FmHA may set aside up to 25 percent–not to exceed $100,000--of the borrower's total debt to FmHA. Deferrals will be considered on a case-by-case basis, but eligibility includes all FmHA borrowers who are "good managers" and are in financial distress. No interest will accrue on the set-aside portion of the debt during the 5-year period.

— about $630 million in loan guarantees to be made available to private-sector lenders to encourage them to restructure debts of distressed borrowers on a basis within their ability to pay. The lender must write off at least 10 percent of what the borrower owes. Borrowers must meet the FmHA statutory restriction of being "not larger than family farms."

— local assistance by FmHA professionals or contracted experts in helping farmers develop financial plans and restructure their debts. FmHA can contract with up to two local farm management and farm credit experts to provide such guidance. This service will not be limited to FmHA borrowers.

— assistance to FmHA in eliminating delays and backlogs in handling paperwork and processing related to loans. FmHA will get this help by contracting with local banks and other financial institutions.

USDA officials emphasize that this is a temporary debt-management program intended to assist farmers through current difficulties in handling large debt obligations. FmHA expects the program to be fully implemented by the end of this year.

You can obtain further information on eligibility and application procedures by contacting your county FmHA office. The phone number is listed in your telephone directory (white pages) under United States Government–Agriculture Department–Farmers Home Administration.

Hort session on Nov. 20

SALISBURY, Md. — The greenhouse-nursery session of the Peninsula Horticultural Society's annual meeting will take place Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, Maryland. The program, which is designed for producers of commercial nursery stock, will run from 9:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The morning session will cover liner production, effective landscape use of plants, keeping pot plants healthy, and the economics of growing pot plants.

For further information about this meeting or the Dec. 6 session for commercial vegetable producers, in Delaware contact county extension offices in Newark (451-2506), Dover (736-1448) or Georgetown (856-5250).

Farmers leaving ag commercial banks. Portfolios of other lenders, such as federal land banks and the Commodity Credit Corporation, showed a smaller percentage of high-risk loans.

"As the lender of last resort, FmHA lends to farmers who cannot obtain credit elsewhere. It would be expected to have its loan portfolio dominated by highly leveraged operators," Gabriel maintains. Other lenders can shift or refer marginal accounts to FmHA to improve their risk position or avoid additional risk. From 1980 to the end of 1983, total FmHA outstanding farm loans grew at an annual rate of 11.7 percent, compared with a 6.1 rate of increase for all other lenders.

Many lenders have postponed foreclosures and liquidations on their most distressed clients as long as they can, according to USDA analysts.

Land Values Stay Same

"Commercial lenders will be extremely careful in evaluating future loan requests," predicts Gabriel. "They will scrutinize their applicants more closely, and they will compete aggressively for the large pool of farmers with low debt-to-asset ratios. They'll be looking for borrowers who are not dependent on asset appreciation to service their debts."

Although there will be regional variations, he says, U.S. farmland values are not expected to change significantly over the next few years. In the 1970's, rapid appreciation in the value of farm assets, particularly land, allowed a significant expansion in debt that was backed up by the rising net worth of borrowers.

"As long as interest rates remain substantially higher than the rate of return to farm assets, and the prospect for growth in asset values remains dim, borrowing can be a hazardous financial management strategy for both farmers and lenders," Gabriel concludes.

"Obviously, a reduction in interest rates or an improvement in returns would help borrowers. However, most of those who have been accumulating losses need to restructure their balance sheets to return to long-term profitability."

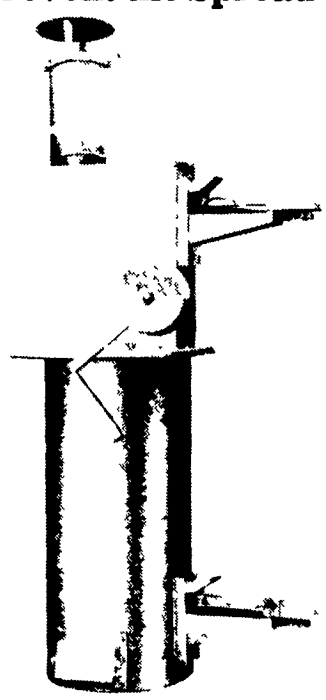
SHENANDOAH INCINERATORS - A SANITARY ALTERNATIVE FOR ON FARM DISPOSAL

To Help Prevent the Spread of Disease

The sanitary way to get rid of animal carcasses is with a Shenandoah incinerator. It's pollution controlled and convenient to use. It's also extra efficient because we've lined the burning chambers, and in some models even the afterburning chambers, with one and a quarter inches of refractory cement. That keeps the heat up and the energy costs down.



Choose among eight easy-to-install smoke and odor controlled models. You even have the option of burning gas or oil.

Ask your local Shenandoah dealer about efficient, inexpensive incinerators. You'll find out how our bright ideas in farm equipment can mean a bright spot in your day. And still leave a green spot in your wallet.

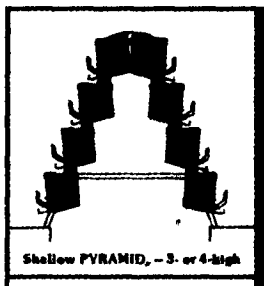
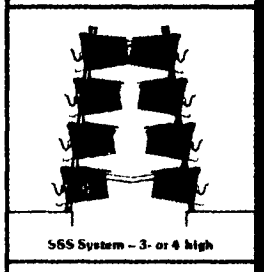
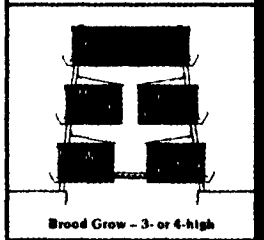
Fast track to egg cost reduction



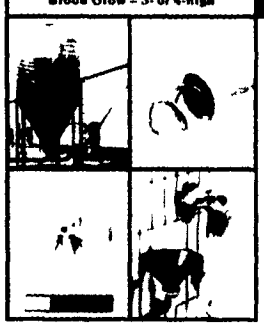
Shallow PYRAMID, – 3- or 4-high

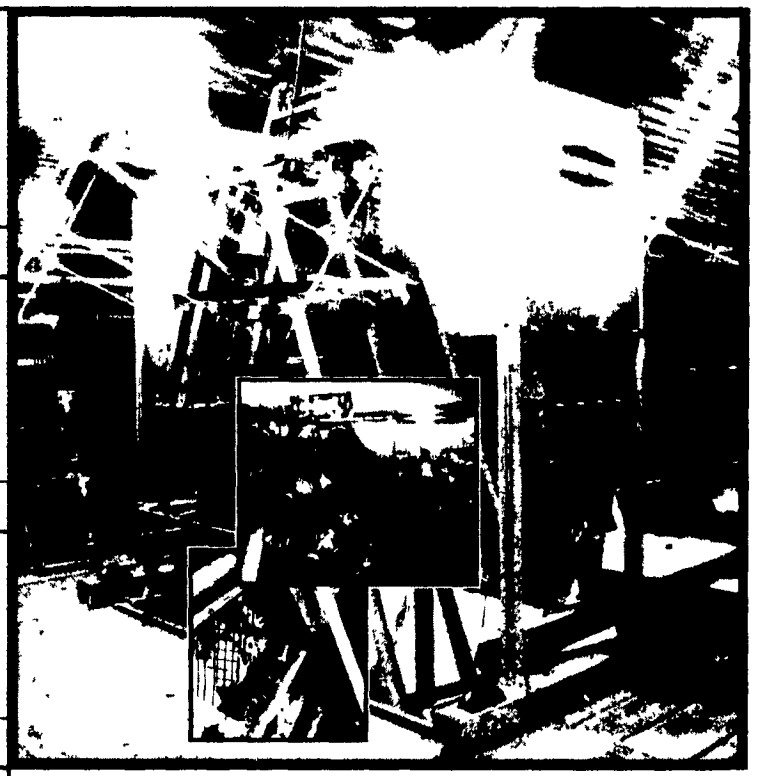


SSS System – 3- or 4-high



Brood Grow – 3- or 4-high





Chore-Time's MEALMASTER FeedKar traveling feeder can help you get your egg costs on track Here's how

1 The typical chain feeder uses 1½ hp to feed each cage tier – 6 hp for a 4-high Our hopper system, traveling on tracks, is pulled by a cable using only ¼ hp – a 95% energy reduction!

2 Cuts feeder maintenance and labor costs to virtually "zero" You know what a chain feeder costs to maintain!

3 Evens out egg production from one end of the row to the other – birds at the front can't "highgrade" the feed

We'd like to talk to you about the other ways the nearly 200 feeders we've sold are helping owners Our FeedKar is now standard on all Chore Time brood-grow and layer cages our famous shallow PYRAMID and new deep PYRAMID our 3 and 4-high SSS

Find out more about the FeedKar – plus our line of cage systems and the Chore-Time "total package" of feed bins auger, ventilation, and waterers
